ABSENTEES LET JOB DRAFT BILL WIN IN HOUSE

It Faces a Bitter Fight in Senate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—The revised "work or jail" bill, which grants the administration power to freeze workers in their jobs under penalty of fine and imprisonment, squeezed thru the house today due to the absence at roll call time of 26 Republican members who had neglected even to pair their votes.

The final vote was 167 to 160, a margin so close that the bill could have been killed if eight of the absent Republicans had chosen to present themselves and go along with the house Republican leadership in voting against the measure. One of the absentees was Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts.

Twenty-seven Rep·blicans voted with 139 Democrats and one American Laborite for burocratic controls which some representatives said would put "leg irons on patriotic war workers." If four of the members had voted "no" instead of "aye," the result would have been reversed.

Many of those absent were reported to be "jumping the gun" on the informal Easter recess scheduled to start tomorrow.

Faces Bitter Senate Fight.

The bill now goes to the senate, where lines were being drawn tonight for an even more bitter battle.

Republican house leaders were reported tonight as highly resentful of the failure of their absent colleagues to attend to business, allowing one of the most controversial measures of the session to become an unearned New Deal victory.

In addition to Martin those absent and not paired against the bill were Representatives Anderson [Cal.], Blackney [Mich.], Bates [Mass.], Bolton [O.], Brown [O.], Butler [N. Y.], Byrnes [Wis.], Case [S. D.], Cole [Kas.], Cole [N. Y.], Dirksen [Ill.], Eaton [N. J.], Ellsworth [Ore.], Fuller [N. Y.], Gwinn [N.Y.], Hinshaw [Cal.], Landis [Ind.], Luce [Conn.], McGregor [O.], Mott [Ore.], Reece [Tenn.], Stevenson [Wis.], Stockman [Ore.], Taylor [N. Y.], and Vursell [Ill.].

Assailed as "Tyranny."

In a stormy debate prior to the roll call, opponents charged the measure is "tyranny and slavery brought up to date" and a green light to the New Deal to build up a greater burocracy to regulate workers and employers. Administration leaders retorted that the bill was demanded by army and navy chiefs to hasten the war program and that opponents were "obstructionists."

There were 48 Democrats siding with 112 Republicans who voted against the bill. Senate debate on the measure is expected to start tomorrow and run several days. Senators O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] and Kilgore [D., W. Va.], sponsors of the original less drastic senate measure, tonight telegraphed all senators urging them to oppose the present "drastic" bill.

There's Plenty of Meat, Says OPA Official

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—Surprised members of the senate agriculture committee, investigating food shortages in the United States, today heard an office of price administration executive assert there is plenty of meat available for American dinner tables.

J. F. Brownlee.

James F. Brownlee, deputy OPA administrator, enlivened a six hour session of the committee with the declaration that every man, woman, and child of the civilian population should have between 128 and 133 pounds of meat during 1945, compared with 147 pounds in 1944.

"But the civilian population is regulated by red points," protested Sen. Bushfield [R., S. D.]. "All I can get, it seems, is hamburger."

"You're lucky to get that," retorted Brownlee. "But actually the point system is giving the American civilian more meat on the average. The so-called meat shortage is due to increased purchasing by people with increased incomes who formerly couldn't afford meat."

House Votes for Inquiry.

While the senate committee was meeting, the house voted 292 to 7 to hold its own investigation of food supplies.

Brownlee appeared before the committee after a succession of independent meat packers, cattle raisers, and stock feeders had testified that OPA regulations were drying up the market for beef cattle.

The OPA official denied his agency was forcing small packers into bankruptcy, as charged by witnesses at yesterday's hearing. He cited statistics which showed, he said, over-all packers' profits in 1945 were 1.05 cents for each dollar sale.

Challenged by Lucas.

"I'm not interested in accounting difficulties," said Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.]. "What I'm worried about is the fact that all these independent meat packers are here with data to show they are in danger of going bankrupt unless OPA changes its pricing regulations. There must be something radically wrong."

Brownlee revealed that a $565,000 fund allowed the OPA by the senate banking committee last week for investigation will be used largely to enforce slaughtering regulations.

Sen. Cordon [R., Ore.], asked Thomas Emerson, OPA enforcement deputy, how he was going to use the $565,000.

"The details haven't been worked out," Emerson said.

"Then how did you know you needed $565,000?" demanded Cordon. "O, we know the general method to be followed," said Emerson. "We know we would need 300 additional agents."

Head of Union Defies WLB in Shell Strike

Frank Powers, president of the United Stove Workers' union, who called 800 members of his union out on strike at the Cribben & Sexton company, 700 N. Sacramento av., Monday, yesterday defied the war labor board which had summoned him to show cause why the strike should not be terminated. "The more I can do to hurt management, the better," Powers said.

The strike has paralyzed production of 105 millimeter shells and other war materials.

As he stood gesturing with a cigar and intermittently puffing it before a six man WLB panel yesterday afternoon, Powers was excoriated by both union and public members of the panel for his defiance of labor's no-strike pledge.

Federal Action Sought.

After the hearing, the panel, of which Edgar L. Warren, regional WLB head, was chairman, voted unanimously to refer the dispute to the national WLB for immediate action. Under this action President Roosevelt may seize the plant and draft for military service those employs who refuse to work, Warren declared.

It was learned Powers, whose union is affiliated with the Confederated Unions of America, is a panel member of the WLB. He was appointed Jan. 24, but has not yet taken part in any hearings.

"There is no need to make a statement. I called a strike and that's all there is to it," the union president said.

Charges Union Exceeds Rights.

Powers asked why labor "is always taken to task for failures of management," and Warren replied that the WLB was set up to resolve labor disputes and that the union had no right to apply economic pressure without regard for the orderly processes prescribed by law.

Powers admitted the union members would not gain anything by the strike, but said, "Management would be hurt. The more I can do to hurt management, the better."

The strike was called by Powers to force the company to grant a 5 cent hourly increase for its employes altho the wage demand is already before the WLB.

Machinists' Strike Ends.

Five hundred members of district 8, International Association of Machinists [AFL] voted yesterday to return to work at the Pettibone-Mulliken corporation, 4710 Division st. James McDonald, union business representative, said normal production of army gun carriages will be resumed this morning.

The strike of 500 employes in the gear division of the Dodge Chicago plant of Chrysler corporation, the 126th strike since December, 1942, in the plant making B-29 Super Fortress engines, also ended yesterday. The strike began Monday.

A strike by 45 AFL Rubber and Plastic Workers at the Frost Rubber company, 1415 Dayton st., after a dispute over an interpretation of a WLB wage directive, continued yesterday and interfered with production of army and navy goods.

Sidelights on Road to Berlin

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY SPEARHEADS ON THE ROAD TO BERLIN, March 26 [Delayed]—It's always been the reporter who asked, "Any one here from Chicago?" Until today.

While I was leaning against a tree on the Rhine waiting for traffic to clear off a bridge, a truck slowed beside me. A soldier, seeing my insignia, asked laughingly, "Hey, Mac, you from Chicago?"

He and his driver, both from an armored unit, were Pvt. Henry V. Zegan, 2147 Shakespeare av., and Pvt. Edward Muenchow, 5630 Eastwood av.

* *

The Petersburg hotel, one of the most palatial luxury resorts of the Siebengebirge hills, overlooking the Rhine and Bad Godesberg, stands in the mountains which legend says were the home of Snow White and the seven dwarfs.

The other day, a couple of oversized dwarfs wearing G. I. clothes backed a two and a half ton truck to the front door and sauntered in. One informed the manager his entire cellar of whisky, cognac, and wine was being requisitioned by the United States government. To back this up, he handed the manager a slip of paper saying so.

The manager shrugged and accepted his fate, saving only his private cellar. A few days ago, some American officers appeared and in the course of, the conversation learned the sad news.

They looked at the worthless piece of paper, which bore no signature, and they told the disillusioned manager, "You weren't requisitioned by our government but by some thirsty soldiers. So sorry, Mac."

Neither of the G. I. dwarfs was "Dopey."

• • •

Spring was in the air today, and the clouds often parted, letting the warm sun thru to take the chill off the wind. And puttering down the beautiful Rhine was a soldier in an assault boat with an outboard motor.

That in itself wasn't so uncommon—but, towed behind the boat, was a wooden door. And riding this surfboard, as naked as a jaybird, was another soldier, aquaplaning.

Yanks Invade Cebu Island in Philippines

MANILA, March 28 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Veteran Yanks of the 8th army's Americal division landed on Cebu Island against well prepared beach defenses Monday morning and quickly speared two and a half miles northward almost to the outskirts of Cebu City, which was burning from Japanese torches.

[The Americal division got its name because it was organized and trained in New Caledonia. It is the only American army division without a number.]

Gen. MacArthur announced the invasion today in a bulletin which said the Japanese defenders were caught "off guard." Front dispatches reported that the Americans encountered stiff mortar fire on the beaches, which were elaborately rigged for defense.

A spokesman said the first close-range contact with Japanese did not come until the Americans were 3,000 yards inland.

Japs Blow up Bridge.

As Maj. Gen. William H. Arnold's forces knifed inland, the Japanese finally blew the big three-span highway bridge across the Mananga river, just north of the beachhead.

The landing was made near Talisay, which is about five miles south of Cebu City, midway along Cebu's east coast, and one of the main sugar ports of the Philippines. The principal concentration of Japanese was expected around the city.

Cebu, one of the two major Philippine Islands which remained in Japanese hands, is between Negros and Leyte in the central part of the archipelago. Guerrilla organization was exceptionally strong on the island and was effective in squeezing the Japanese from the mountainous rear areas.

Island Is Eighth Largest.

Cebu has an area of 1,695 square miles, making it eighth in size in It has some coal deposits. Cebu City second largest city of the Philippines, having a pre-war population of around 150,000. The island produces sugar, coconuts, and cement. It has some coal deposits. Cebu City is protected by Mactan Island where Magellan, discoverer of the Philippines, was killed by a native chief.

On southern Luzon Island the 11th air borne division drove three miles to within a mile of Lipa, key road and rail center of southern Batangas province, while the 1st cavalry division, moving down from the north, advanced an equal distance to seize Malvar air field below Tanauan.

BLOCK-BY-BLOCK BATTLE RAGING IN FRANKFURT

WITH THE U. S. 6TH ARMORED DIVISION IN SUBURBS OF FRANKFURT, March 27 (AP).—The Americans are fighting their way block by block thru Frankfurt-on-Main. Resistance is heavy and the going is slow.

The core of Frankfurt's defense is built around 3,000 Elite guard fanatics augmented by hundreds of Nazi policemen, air raid wardens, railway workers, firemen, and street sweepers.

Even before cleaning out the suburbs on the southern side of the River Main doughboys swept across a partly wrecked railway bridge into the city itself.

Tonight it was hard to say how much of Frankfurt the Americans held, but at most it was only a few blocks.

Defenders Fight Hard.

The city's defenders are fighting hard with everything from bazookas fired from basements to anti-aircraft guns deflected and firing from parks. Eighty-eight millimeter artillery shells are coming from all directions.

The damaged bridge across the Main into the principal part of Frankfurt was seized yesterday, and infantry raced across in a hail of bullets and shells, gaining their bridgehead inside Germany's ninth largest city.

The Germans had succeeded in blowing up three bridges but the damaged fourth was captured by armored infantry under command of Lt. Col. Emory Lagrew of Lexington, Ky.

The central portion was damaged so that armor could not cross immediately, and the wall of machine gun fire thrown from the north seemed more than humans could penetrate.

But somehow the doughboys did it, crouching and running into the storm of lead after the southern end of the bridge had been grabbed by the 15th tank battalion.

Texan Leads Sprint.

The first Americans sprinting across were led by Lt. Everett Martin of Bryan, Tex. The second group across was headed by Lt. Wilmer Jones of Waynesburg, Ky.

Amazingly, the white-hot German fire missed most of the doughboys, but the enemy made up for this failure later with a murderous artillery concentration on the southern end of the bridge, landing shells into the area from which the Americans were jumping off.

German shelling went on continuously for six hours and sporadically thruout the night. The barrage was the worst some correspondents have seen in three years of war reporting.

Numerous correspondents were pinned down in cellars unable to leave to file their stories until today. Two press jeeps were riddled and the driver of one was slightly wounded, but no correspondents were hit.

Germans Greet Yanks.

In the suburbs it had been easier. Lt. Col. Frank Bri·ton of Hartford, Conn., walked into one village escorted only by Capt. Fred Keffer of Olympia, Wash., and told civilians they would not be molested if they raised white flags. They promptly complied and tipped him off to the whereabouts of 90 German soldiers.

Many such villagers smiled and shouted greetings to passing Americans, but some women wept.

Five miles south of Frankfurt the Americans captured the Main airport—second largest in Germany. It formerly was a Zeppelin base and a handsome book in the administration building listed passengers on early Zeppelin flights, including many Americans.

The skeletons of 50 burned German planes ringed the airport. Two Junkers 88s were left on the field, which is so big that American artillery spotter Cubs looked like toys as they landed and took off.

Patch Lashes Out from Mannheim Bridgehead.

PARIS, March 28 (Wednesday) — (AP).—Allied armies poured eastward in a torrent thru smashed German lines yesterday, led by Lt. Gen. Hodges' United States 1st army tank forces knifing 29 more miles eastward and breaking across the Dill river where the enemy was trying to rally for a stand, 235 miles from Berlin.

The entire front blazed as seven allied armies pressed home what Gen. Eisenhower said was one of the greatest triumphs of any war. A front dispatch said "the rout is under way." Yanks were pouring across the plains of middle Germany toward a linkup with Russian armies in the east.

News Black-out Over 3d.

The 1st army's dash swept into Herborn and across the Dill. Twelve miles to the southeast, another 1st army tank force was closing on Wetzlar, 57 miles beyond the Rhine.

News black-outs closed over these spearheads, just as they did over Lt. Gen. Patton's United States 3d army tank columns which had shredded German defenses of the River Main at many points southeast of Frankfurt and by enemy account were loose 223 miles southwest of Berlin.

Patch Widens Crossing.

On the north flank, the British 2d army broke completely thru the enemy lines on the north German plain and dashed eastward almost unopposed under another security black-out.

Lt. Gen. Patch's United States 7th army lashed out from its new bridgehead north of Mannheim, cut the Frankfurt-Mannheim superhighway at a second point, and was nearly 10 miles east of the Rhine. Widening the bridgehead to 19 miles, it may already have linked up with the 3d army's crossings southeast of Mainz.

Report Patton at Lohr.

The extent of the day's advances could not be told, but the enemy said United States 3d army columns were approaching Wuerzburg in Bavaria, 223 miles from Berlin, and had reached Lohr, 225 miles from the capital.

[The Berlin correspondent of Stockholm's Morgontidningen said the 3d army had pushed on beyond Lohr, 25 miles east of the Main river, which would put them even closer to Berlin.]

Lt. Gen. Simpson's United States 9th army, which was the first to break out of the Wesel

HOSPITAL WITH U. S. WOUNDED SEIZED IN REICH

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY'S NORTHERN SPEARHEAD, On the Road to Berlin, March 27.—Breaking into the clear after tough slugging, these flying tank columns today raced 29 miles and crossed the Dill river, more than 50 miles east of the Rhine.

It was a break-thru in the fullest sense for these armored columns which, with the 1st infantry division on the left, were taking on the heaviest German resistance. But, after shaking loose in the vicinity of Altenkirchen, the tanks and tank destroyers hit the road almost without opposition and shot far ahead. Word has been received that tankers who crossed the Dill captured a hospital filled with American wounded.

This division has had two headquarters during the day and scouts were looking for a third location to keep up with the enemy.

Driving On for Three Days.

Tank columns, which crossed the Dill, apparently over undestroyed bridges, had been driving three days and two nights without a letup. Others on the northern side of the front, which were forging ahead but somewhat behind the leaders, had taken over from men who had borne the brunt of enemy resistance yesterday. The Germans had unleashed massive artillery barrages before retreating.

Today, for the first time, the columns encountered no mine fields. Yesterday mine fields were hastily laid while the day before they had been set out in deep patterns.

"It really looks like we are in the clear at last," said Lt. Col. Andrew Barr of Urbana, Ill., formerly a Yale history professor and securities exchange commission member.

"The enemy is getting more and more disorganized. He doesn't know where to look for us next."

Doughboys Riding on Tanks.

Doughboys, sweeping behind the armored columns to pick off by-passed resistance, were traveling almost as fast. In addition, truck companies have been provided to keep the infantry completely motorized and close behind the tanks, while other doughboys are riding on the tanks themselves.

Today's ride was conclusive evidence of the armor's speedy advance. For miles and miles beautiful rolling fields of fallow land or freshly turned soil alternated with clumps of dense Christmas trees.

Not a soul was to be seen in these fields. The body of a German soldier lay among the plowed clods. One other body—American—lay under a blanket beside a little brook.

We looked thru silent woods into the blue-gray mist of the valley below, where villages untouched by battle sent plumes of smoke from chimney tops. Sometimes we rolled thru other villages which had escaped destruction because the Germans did not choose to fight or because there were no targets there for our planes.

Ammunition in Forest.

Back along the road, hidden in a thick Christmas tree forest, were stacks and stacks of ammunition. Most of it was wired with a prime cord ready for demolition, but the soldiers had fled.

Among the huge stores of enemy supplies and equipment captured were some of the largest self-propelled guns ever taken on the western front, including one Ferdinand, a 70 ton giant. Many of the guns were taken intact before the German crews could damage them.

As our armored columns chugged along, small groups of impressed foreign labor, round Slavic faces, men in tattered clothing, and some in uniforms, came toward us.

Six hundred prisoners were taken yesterday.

"As soon as their German officers take off, their G. I.s surrender," said Capt. Hubert Jannach of Milwaukee, Wis.

Smash German Attempt to Rally at River.

bridgehead, alone was striking stiff resistance, but even here the enemy had been driven from Wehofen, the northern suburb of Duisburg, greatest inland river port in Europe.

Canadians, after more than two days of toe to toe slugging, struck a soft spot in their cross-Rhine positions and drove two miles west into Dornick, only three miles from the German city of Emmerich.

The latest advances by the United States 1st army put Hodges' troops less than 250 miles from a junction with the Russian forces of the east.

Five Columns on Loose.

Hodges had at least five separate armored columns on the loose. One of these columns, the 9th armored division, crossed the Lahn river at fallen Limburg and sped 20 miles down a super-highway to within 12 miles of Frankfurt, Germany's ninth largest city, which was being hammered by the 3d army.

Sixth armored division infantry charged into the heart of Frankfurt after seizing a damaged railroad bridge in the face of blistering mortar and machine gun fire. Fighting also raged across the river Main in Hanau, 10 miles east of Frankfurt. The 3d army now controled 30 miles of the Main's south bank from Mainz to Hanau.

Westward, the United States 1st and 3d armies joined forces beyond the Rhine after the 1st army captured Ehrenbreitstein, opposite Coblenz. The Germans in front of these two forces were being caught in a sack 45 miles long by the converging Americans at Frankfurt.

Assert Wiesbaden Falls.

The allied controled Luxemburg radio said Wiesbaden, four miles west of Frankfurt near the confluence of the Main and Rhine rivers, had been seized.

[A Blue network broadcast from Paris said allied fighter pilots reported 3d army tanks were menacing Nuernberg, nearly 100 miles beyond the point where Patton's forces were officially placed. Nurernberg was the site of the annual Nazi party congress.]

Frankfurt, birthplace of Goethe and center of the German electrochemical industry, was found to have been badly wrecked by allied bombings, with an estimated 90 per cent of its buildings destroyed or damaged. Only about 200,000 of its peace time population of 550,000 were reported still in the city. A dozen air fields dot the flat plain around the metropolis.

First and 3d army troops were disclosed already to have linked up four miles south of Coblenz, far behind the plunging spearheads.

The advances were so swift that officers at American headquarters could only shake their heads and point vaguely to the east and say, "They're somewhere out there."

A dispatch from the 1st army front said two German major generals, several colonels, and 15 lieutenant colonels were captured by doughboys in a roundup of more than 1,200 prisoners in the vicinity of Ehrenbreitstein.

Thousands of prisoners overrun by 1st and 3d armored columns streamed to the rear, sometimes without a single guard. Bridges and roads to the east were jammed with supplies pouring in behind the rampaging armor and motorized infantry. The identities of the powerful armored divisions leading the breakthru were concealed temporarily.

After being held for 15 hours Lt. Gen. Simpson's 30th division drove eastward two miles within two miles of Dorsten, which is 16 miles east of the Rhine at Wesel. The 79th division took Holten at the edge of the Ruhr near Sterkrade, seven miles northwest of Essen.

The 9th army's 79th division was fighting within a half mile of a six lane superhighway which runs thru the Ruhr.

Prisoners from a panzer [armored] division which broke under the 9th army's attack said they had suffered such extreme losses in the last 36 hours they no longer could resist.

British air borne troops pushed to the outskirts of Bruenen, five miles northeast of Wesel. The American 17th air borne smashed three miles to Grudenburg, six miles east of Wesel, and linked up firmly with the 9th army's 30th division.

Cloak British Advance.

North of Bruenen, Britsh 2d army forces were reported smashing eastward almost unopposed, with censorship hiding their exact movements. The fanatical resistance which Scottish and Canadian troops had been meeting in the Rees area at the northern end of Field Marshal Montgomery's bridgehead, appeared to be collapsing, a front dispatch said.

At the extreme west flank of Montgomery's holding, Canadians drove toward Fornick and Emmerich. Other units sliced across the Emmerich-Rees highway in gains up to three miles beyond Millingen. Highlanders, astride the Millingen-Anholt road northeast of Millingen, smashed to within a mile and a half of Isselberg.

Montgomery's push had swept up 16,000 prisoners in four days—more than 5,000 of them falling to the United States 9th army and 11,148 to British and Canadian forces.

Lt. Gen. Patch's United States 7th army climaxed its long drive northward from the Mediterranean by making two crossings of the Rhine early on Monday in the area north of Mannheim, it was disclosed. A firm bridgehead some 19 miles wide by four deep had been secured by noon Monday, and six towns on the east bank had been cleared of Nazis.

There was no indication of the direction Patch's drive would take from the Rhine. Few large towns lie in the loop of the Rhine facing him, but 120 miles directly east lies Nuernberg. At the northern end of the bridgehead 7th army troops held half the town of Gernsheim at last report.

Lampertheim and Burstadt in the area across the river from Worms also were partly in American hands. Sandhofen, a mile north of Mannheim, was seized soon after Patch's troops crossed in rubber boats and amphibious vehicles.

The United States 7th army is officially estimated to have taken 35,000 prisoners since its breakthru in the Saarland and Palatinate 12 days ago. This raised its total since activation to more than 133,000.

The weather broke bad for the allies for the first time since the air forces began their tremendous bombing prelude to the present offensive. There were scattered showers along the front and clouds hung so low over the northern half of the battlefield that tactical forces were not able to engage in extensive operations there. The Frankfurt area was battered, however, and fighter pilots took a heavy toll of German road convoys fleeing before the allied onsurge.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Tuesday's official German report of fighting on the western front said:

"Owing to hard resistance of our paratroopers and grenadiers on the lower Rhine, the attacking British, in spite of their air borne landings and strong deployment of men and material, have been able to cross the Emmerich-Wesel railway line up to now only to a small extent.

"Only in the area east and northeast of Wesel the enemy succeeded in establishing a bridgehead of major depth, but his break-thru attempts were foiled.

"In the Westerwald our front has been pierced at several points. After heavy local and forest fighting the Americans were able to advance as far as Altenkirchen and gain ground on both sides of the Autobahn [highway] in the direction of Limburg on the Lahn.

"Between Niederlahrstein and Kaub on the Rhine the enemy was able to establish several other local bridgeheads and to widen those already in existence.

"From the area south of Frankfurt major enemy forces are advancing in the direction of the lower Main. Offenbach was lost after heavy street fighting. Fighting is also raging in the southern parts of Frankfurt. An enemy battle group thrust beyond Aschaffenburg to the east.

"North of Mannheim our troops are engaged in violent defensive fighting against enemy forces pressing in the direction of the Bergstrasse."

CLERKS, MECHANICS FILL RUSH ORDER FOR FIELD EAST OF RHINE

ADVANCED HDQ., U. S. 9TH AIR FORCE, March 27 (AP).—The first American air field east of the Rhine began functioning at twilight today.

Security considerations made it impossible to disclose the location of the field now, but dozens of clerks, mechanics, and draftsmen know where it is because they built it with pick and shovel and without benefit of engineering equipment, which still has not reached the most forward positions.

Headquarters service troops of the 9th engineer command regiment were summoned from administrative tasks to enable the first American planes to land east of the river.

Headquarters men of the 925th engineer aviation regiment under the command of Col. Thomas A. Glass of Joliet, Ill., who got up front in jeeps, resorted to primitive methods rather than wait for the slow-moving heavy equipment. The airmen wanted the field right behind the retreating Germans, so headquarters got busy. Planes began landing late this afternoon.

BRITISH APOLOGY IN DEATH OF 800 SATISFIES DUTCH

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—Netherlands government officials said today they had received from the British government an apology for the accidental bombing of the Hague March 3, which Dutch spokesmen said had killed 800 civilians and left "a great number homeless."

The British apology, which called the bombing "a deplorable catastrophe," was handed to the Netherlands government here and also was broadcast to the Dutch people. "The Netherlands government is satisfied with the British apology," a Dutch official said.

Mystery Seen as Hitler Trade Aide Visits Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 27 (AP).—Karl Schnurre, one of Hitler's outstanding trade negotiators, arrived in Stockholm today by a regular Berlin plane. There was mystery concerning the purpose of his visit—one of several here recently by trusted Nazi emissaries.

ARMY OPPOSES PLANS TO MERGE OVERSEAS WIRES

Favors Voluntary Action; CAA Doubts Need.

BY ROBERT YOUNG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—The war department disagreed today with the navy's plan for a mandatory consolidation of all United States overseas communications, recommending instead voluntary merger which might involve only some of the private communications companies. The army presented its views at a senate subcommittee hearing on post-war overseas communications plans and policies.

Maj. Gen. Ingles.

The civil aeronautics administration also presented a proposal different from the navy department plan. Charles I. Stanton, deputy administrator of the CAA, suggested two merged and competing companies, one including all telephonic communications and the other telegraphic circuits, and said the CAA is not convinced of the need for complete unification.

Ingles' Ideas Brief.

Maj. Gen. Harry C. Ingles, chief signal officer of the army, told the committee the army feels that "some consolidation" of the international communications enterprises of the United States is desirable. He said, however, that the war department "does not feel competent" to suggest the form which such a merger should take, nor to propose a design for an international system.

Ingles' brief recommendations were in contrast to the detailed navy plan presented to the subcommittee last week. Secretary of the Navy Forrestal proposed complete and mandatory merger of 13 radio, cable, telegraph and press wireless companies into a privately-owned, government-supervised corporation created by congress.

The navy proposal later was criticized as unworkable by Paul A. Porter, chairman of the federal communications commission, when he testified before the subcommittee.

Ingles testified the war department believes the form of unification should be determined "by those who would be responsible for the financial soundness of the organization and those familiar with the demands of the public and commerce for international communications."

162 Million Invested.

Asserting that the "world's greatest" international communications system is operated by the army, Ingles said that the most outstanding contribution which the army could make to American overseas communications would be to turn over considerable quantities of equipment to commercial companies.

In reply to a question by Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.], subcommittee chairman, Ingles estimated that during the war the army has invested 162 million dollars in communications equipment, which he said would have a commercial market value of at least half that figure. He said the equipment is of the latest design and will not be obsolete by the end of the war.

Answering questions from Sen. White [R., Me.], Ingles said 90 per cent of the army equipment is overseas, but could be moved if necessary. Ingles estimated that about half of this equipment could be used commercially where it is now located.

"I want to see this army equipment protected," Wheeler declared. "If it's going to be turned over to some monopoly, I want to see that the government gets what it's worth."

Ingles repeated that while the army has no specific plan, some sort of voluntary consolidation would be advantageous and should be encouraged. He said a partial merger would be feasible, but added that the army did not wish to go on record as to the character or extent of government control.

Sen. McFarland [D., Ariz.] suggested that if international systems are to be merged, the government should first consolidate the domestic communications system of its own departments to eliminate parallel use of leased wire facilities.

McFarland then asked Ingles if it is not true that the commercial communications systems overseas are inadequate to meet army needs. Ingles replied that this was true at the start of the war, but that it was the commercial companies which helped the army establish its far-flung communications.

Hearing Recessed.

In presenting the CAA proposal, Stanton told the committee that "the proponents of one unified monopoly have not proved their point that it would result in greater efficiency." Stanton said the CAA is not convinced of the need for a complete merger, or that such unification would result in better and cheaper service.

At the beginning of today's hearing, Francis Colt de Wolf, chief of the state department's telecommunications division, informed Wheeler the state department was not ready to present its views. He said the state department would not be ready until Saturday.

Wheeler remarked that the state department telecommunications committee had been set up two years ago and presumably had been working on a policy for post-war communications. He told De Wolf a plan should have been ready for presentation by now.

The hearing was recessed indefinitely, but is expected to be resumed next week. With the exception of the state department and, possibly, one or two other witnesses, the government's testimony has been completed.

NAZIS WHIPPED ON WEST FRONT, 'IKE' DECLARES

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, March 27.—Peace will come only when all Germany is occupied by allied forces and these forces establish law and order in the country, Gen. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander, said today. Unconditional surrender, he asserted, would never be negotiated but imposed.

The "Germans, as a military force on the western front, are a whipped army. . . . The enemy's main defense line is broken," he said.

But he added. "I am not writing off this war. No one knows what the German will do in his own country, and he is trying hard."

"Between the allies in the west and Russia, we will take over Germany. Whether the Germans know it or not, we will know it is unconditional surrender," he said.

Face Stretched Supply Line.

Eisenhower said the day would come when he could tell correspondents that all organized resistance on the western front was broken, but he was making no forecasts of when that would be.

Warning against expecting any race for Berlin, the supreme commander said that despite the tremendous allied victory in the Rhineland "that does not mean a front cannot be formed somewhere where our maintenance is stretched to the limit."

Eisenhower told how far that limit was. But it is not for publication since it might help the enemy. It is farther than the public might think, but it will not take the western allies up to the present Russian lines.

While bridges are being thrown across the Rhine in 10 hours, it takes time to build railway bridges, and the lack of rail communications will for the present limit the eastward advance, Eisenhower said. The Germans are expected to establish a new line along that limit.

One of Greatest Victories.

If they fall back into Bavaria, they probably will draw back their northern flank, he said, and if they stand along the sea in the north they probably will fold back the southern flank, fighting the usual tough delaying actions.

"I believe that, so far as he is able, the German will stand and fight wherever we find him," the general declared. "The elimination of German troops west of the Rhine was one of the greatest victories of this or any other war."

The Germans, he said, decided to stand west of the Rhine in the face of overwhelming allied attacks and were destroyed.

Now the enemy was stripped of the power to form another strong, continuous line, and once the allies build up strength beyond the Rhine the march eastward will continue.

The loss of the three great industrial regions of Silesia, the Ruhr and Saar, Eisenhower said, would limit the time the Germans could wage organized warfare unless they could come up with new inventions not requiring heavy industry.

Costs Foe 250,000 Men.

Victory in the Rhineland was achieved quicker and at less cost than the allied generals had expected, and it cost the Germans 250,000 men in captives alone since March 1, he said.

Eisenhower said that after reaching the Siegfried line last autumn the allies had these choices: To attempt to break thru and cross the Rhine at a given point by a concentration of power, or to defeat the German army west of the Rhine.

There was considerable difference of opinion as to which was the better plan, the supreme commander said, but he and many others favored the latter on the grounds that, with any sizable German force left west of the Rhine, there always was the danger of disastrous counter-attacks.

If the allies could not defeat the Germans west of the Rhine, they would have still less chance of doing so across the Rhine.

Then, referring to heavy German losses since March 1, he said: "You can see what a quarter of a million men would mean to the German army east of the Rhine."

Bridge a Big Dividend.

The general said all units had been instructed to seize any opportunity that came their way of getting across the Rhine, either by grabbing a bridge or using boats. The lucky seizure of the Ludendorff bridge at Remagen paid big dividends.

The army in occupied areas will establish order until the allied governments decide what is to be done with Germany, Eisenhower said. Any civilian resistance will be dealt with sternly on the spot.

It cannot be denied that there has been some fraternization of allied troops with Germans, he noted, despite orders against it, but the general conduct of the allied soldiers has been exemplary.

Laughing, Eisenhower said he would be the last to deny that soldiers sometimes slipped in back doors to get a little Rhine wine or whatever else they might be after.

Asked whether he thought the western allies or the Russians would be the first into Berlin, Eisenhower said the mileage favored the Russians, as they were 33 miles from Berlin.

He said the Russians had the bulk of the remaining German forces facing them now.

BRITISH REPULSE NAZI RAID ON LINE IN ITALY

ROME, March 27 (AP).—Using searchlights to guide them, two German platoons raided British 8th army positions north of captured Faenza last night, but were repulsed with 14 of the raiders captured, two killed and five wounded, allied headquarters announced today.

It was the strongest offensive gesture made by the enemy in that area for weeks, and the heaviest in a day marked by a number of patrol skirmishes on both the 8th and the United States 5th army fronts.

A marked increase in enemy artillery fire was noted on the 5th army front in the Bologna-Pistoia highway sector, with 735 rounds fired in a two hour period.

GENERAL HITS THE DIRT, HELPS ROUT 25 NAZIS

Wounded, but Refuses to Leave Command.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 18TH AIR BORNE CORPS, Germany, March 27.—Maj. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who commanded aerial jump operations over the lower Rhine, also engaged personally in a bloody battle from which he is carrying a grenade fragment in his right shoulder, it was learned today. It was his fourth wound of this war. He refused to undergo an operation for removal of the metal, at least until his job here is completed and his men are relieved.

Maj. Gen. M. B. Ridgway.

The West Pointer, 47, who parachuted into Sicily, Italy, and Normandy, was ordered by the high command not to expose himself by accompanying his men in the air on the exploit which permitted the British 2d army to bridge the Rhine. But while his troopers were still freeing themselves from their chutes and scrambling from flak-torn gliders behind German defenses on the east bank of the Rhine, the general, with five of his personal bodyguard in two jeeps, was aboard a ferry crossing the river.

Catches Up with Chutists.

As told by the guards—Ridgway declined to discuss his experience with the press—the six men sped across a prairie, where Scots were mopping up German earthworks, and headed into the smoke filled forest. After an hour of maneuvering, dodging shellfire, and snipers, and circumventing German strong points, Ridgway reached the command post of the major general who had jumped with his United States 17th air borne division. It was the isolated air borne's first direct contact with outside forces.

While the two American generals conferred, Ridgway's bodyguards, led by Sgt. Dan Carlson of Kane, Pa., flushed nine Hitler soldiers from bushes in the immediate vicinity and captured them. Thereafter, in sequence, Gen. Ridgway and his guards drove their jeeps thru the scrambled conflict to the command posts of the American glider borne forces and to the British air borne division which was sharing the venture.

General Dives, Then Fights.

With a divisional general in the party, Gen. Ridgway and his guards at 1 a. m. today were hurrying in bright moonlight over a narrow road thru wooded hills reverberating with the sound of battle. Their two jeeps ground to a halt to avoid running into a party of 25 or 30 German soldiers beside a stalled truck. The two major generals, a sergeant, and four privates dived to earth to escape fire opened by the Nazis.

Gen. Ridgway was among the first to return the fire, using his 1903 Springfield rifle, his pet weapon. His first shot drew a yell of pain from a German. The other Americans opened up with carbines as the Germans threw grenades. American paratroopers then jerked a bazooka and a machine gun from the jeeps and opened fire. The unwounded Germans ran into the wood. The generals, with the responsibilities of their commands, then mounted the jeeps and left.

Finds He Was Wounded.

Gen. Ridgway, like the others in the party, reported he was not hurt when they questioned each other as the jeeps headed for the Rhine and corps headquarters. Later, however, he reported to a doctor for treatment of a wound. The doctor said metal had been driven into a muscle and, while advising against postponing its removal, said Gen. Ridgway was unlikely to suffer more than pain.

In a signal battalion, which laid cables across the lower Rhine and into a forest where air borne troops were fighting, we met these Illinoisans: Lt. Philip Star of Winnetka, Tech. Sgt. Charles Whittacker of Greenup, and Tech. Sgt. James Yungwirth of Fairfield.

11 TON BOMBS BLAST U-BOAT PENS IN REICH

LONDON, March 28 [Wednesday]—(AP).—British bombers hurled their new 11 ton bombs on Nazi submarine pens for the first time yesterday and during the night Mosquitos attacked Berlin for the 36th consecutive night. Rainy weather gave the reich a temporary respite yesterday from other raids by heavy bombers.

Lancasters dropped the "volcano" bomb on concrete U-boat shelters at Farge, near Vegesack and 10 miles down the Weser river from Bremen. They also hit a near-by oil storage depot and the Konigsborn and Sachsen benzol plants near Hamm. Flyers who used the "volcano" bombs on the submarine pens said the delayed fuses prevented full observation, but they saw "black holes" in the roofs which previous bombs had failed to penetrate.

More than 100 Nazi tanks, 1,800 freight cars, and 1,200 motor vehicles were hit in Monday's tactical air force operations. In some cases dive bombers dropped explosives only 40 yards ahead of the British army lines.

RUSSIANS 23 MI. FROM AUSTRIA IN HUNGARY DRIVE

LONDON, March 28 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Armor paced Russian forces plunged within 61 miles of Vienna's city limits, herding the Germans back upon the Austrian border now 23 miles away from soviet units charging across the tableland of northwestern Hungary, Moscow announced last night.

Far to the north, other powerful Russian forces crashed into the center of fire blackened Danzig and fought thru the streets of the neighboring Polish port of Gdynia, the soviet bulletin said.

The fall of these two vital Nazi naval bases on the Baltic appeared imminent.

In German upper Silesia and adjacent Polish Silesia, Marshal Petrov's 4th Ukraine army linked up with Marshal Konev's 1st Ukraine army, and the two massive forces lashed out together on an 80 mile wide front against the Germans' Sudeten mountain positions.

Soviet units on the left flank of this front, which faces generally southward, won positions 14 miles northeast of Moravska-Ostrava, Czechoslovakia's third city guarding the northern route to Prague and Vienna.

After capturing the Polish city of Rybnik, 13 miles east of Ratibor, soviet forces drove nine miles beyond that eight way highway junction and took Loslau [Wodzislaw] for their closest approach to the Moravian gap.

Germans Face Trap.

In all, the Russians captured more than 40 towns and villages in that area, including the important junction point of Zory [Sohrau], eight miles southeast of Rybnik.

On the other flank they took Strehlen, 20 miles below besieged Breslau. The entire drive toward Moravia threatened the entrapment of thousands of Germans deployed to the southeast along the now breached Hron river in Slovakia.

In a sweeping drive in Hungary between the Danube and Lake Balaton Marshal Tolbukhin's 3d Ukraine army swept up more than 200 cities, towns and hamlets.

Advancing eight miles northwest of captured Lovaszpatona, the Russians took Tet, 23½ miles from the Austrian border and less than 61 miles from Vienna's city limits. To the west, Kisber fell, further severing the southern communications of the outflanked Danube river bastion of Komarom [Komarno] and the vital communications hub of Gyor. With the capture of Acs, six miles southwest of Komarom and 16 miles northeast of Gyor, the Russians threatened the Nazi forces in both those defensive centers barring the Danube valley invasion route to Bratislava and Vienna.

Widen Berlin Front.

On the front directly east of Berlin, the Germans said, the 1st White Russian army was pouring a "ceaseless stream" of men across the Oder, widening its offensive front in Berlin's forefield. The Russians were shelling a 40 mile stretch of this front northward from Frankfurt on the Oder and had pushed into Nazi defenses at Genschmar, six miles northwest of captured Kuestrin and 34 miles from the reich's imperiled capital, Berlin said. The Germans previously had placed the Russians 31 miles east of Berlin at Golzow, four miles south of Genschmar.

Far to the east, Moscow announced, 3d White Russian army units destroyed the remnants of the German force which had been compressed into the eight square mile Kahlholz peninsula southwest of besieged Koenigsberg. The Russians captured 4,000 Germans, bringing their total bag in this area during the last two days to 25,000.

ROADS HITLER BUILT PAVE YANKS' WAY TO FUEHRER'S UNDOING

ON THE ROAD TO BERLIN, March 27 (AP).—This is the greatest armored joyride in history—and Hitler literally paved the way to his own downfall.

The great single and double-lane highways he built in peace time to shuttle his armies out from the heart of Germany to attack neighboring countries are proving his undoing.

They are smooth concrete avenues to Berlin and other great German cities over which the mightiest masses of armor ever assembled in the west are rolling at true blitzkrieg pace in a dozen columns, coming from so many directions the Germans are powerless to scrape together enough troops to halt them all.

NINE PICKED MEN YANK OUT A FEW DRAGON'S TEETH

WITH THE UNITED STATES 7TH ARMY, March 27 (AP).—Explosive dentistry by nine engineers operating in darkness extracted Siegfried line dragon teeth so the 44th armored division could rumble thru. Soon after the nine picked soldiers under Lt. Charles Bardwell, San Antonio, Tex., started out from the 125th armored engineer battalion hearquarters carrying 375 pounds of TNT they were caught in a heavy artillery and mortar concentration.

After three-quarters of a mile on the road they took to the fields, trusting to luck to keep them clear of mines, and reached a wall in front of the dragon's teeth about 3 a. m. Two men went over the wall with Sgt. Ray Hodson, Barry, Ill., laying a cord to mark the path of destruction. Others who went over with about 50 pounds of TNT each included Corp. Warren Shelly, Guthrie Center, Ia., and Corp. Bill Bliss, Chicago.

Each man tied his charge to the concrete obstacle picked out for him, then climbed back over the wall to the assembly point where all had gathered by 5:48 a. m., just 12 minutes before the pre-attack barrage was due to start. As they ran toward the rear, an earth-jarring explosion came behind them.

GERMAN GIRL AIDS YANKS; NOW THEY HELP HER

WITH THE U. S. 1ST DIVISION BEYOND THE RHINE, March 27 (AP).Trudi, a 20 year old German girl, was in the American field hospital today after risking her life to give first aid to wounded American soldiers.

Vengeful Nazis shot her and burned her home, and she was found near the blazing farmhouse, lying on the ground and writhing in pain.

Her hospital bed is surrounded by gifts of fruit, candy and cookies from grateful Americans for whom she dared the shellfire of her own countrymen, and there was no fine for fraternizing in this case.

"The 1st division doesn't forget a friend," said Capt. Maxie Zera of the Bronx, N. Y., who told the story.

Incident in Bridgehead.

The incident occurred last Saturday while company C of the 16th infantry was engaged in a savage fight for Griesbach, on the northern end of the United States 1st army's Remagen bridgehead. Several Americans fighting near the farmhouse were wounded, and their comrades were too closely engaged to help them.

"This girl was watching from a window in the farmhouse," Zera related. "She ran out to do what she could. There was much she did. Shell splinters were flying all over the area and machine gun and rifle bullets cracked nearby. Trudi, a girl who never had seen a battle before, paid them no attention. Skillfully and gently she bandaged the wounded men. When other infantrymen worked over to her position she helped them improvise litters to carry off the casualties.

Retreat and Return.

"Momentarily, then, the platoon had to pull back. Trudi returned to her farmhouse. Several hours later company G took the town after driving out the last Jerries. One of the first things the boys did was to hunt up the German girl who had helped save their buddies' lives. They wanted to thank her."

The wounded girl explained to an American who understood German:

"After you left, a German captain learned I had helped your wounded. He had me shot and ordered his men to burn down all the buildings on our farm."

YANKS' ADVANCE FREES 7,000 IN GERMAN TUNNEL

Women, Children Cower Under Slag 100 Hours.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 9TH ARMY IN DINSLAKEN, Germany, March 27.—Seven thousand German civilians who had taken refuge in tunnels beneath a 100 million ton slag pile when the American artillery and aerial bombardment started Friday night, emerged this afternoon after Capt. John Hynd of 593 Hawthorne st., Glen Ellyn, Ill., and his 313th regiment drove back the Nazis from a gigantic industrial plant.

The civilians, mostly women and children, had hurried from their beds when an air raid heralded the commencement of the Rhine crossing. Scantily clad for the most part, they had crowded into three unlighted tunnels 7 feet in diameter and 550 yards long, without food or sanitation facilities. There they had remained for four days and nights.

They had been able to slake their thirst only when some more daring person crept out in the hail of shelling and machine gun and sniper fire to draw a bucket of water from pumps.

Twelve Die in Tunnel.

Today they stumbled from the tunnels, their eyes blinking in the sunlight after a hundred hours underground.

Four women, six men, and two babies had died during the ordeal—two of the men and one woman were killed by shellfire and bullets—and the bodies of all except one were carried out and placed in huts opposite the shelter entrances.

A woman, crazed by her husband's lingering death after he was struck by bomb splinters, refused to permit his body to be taken outside and kept vigil over the corpse as children and others jammed against the lifeless body.

One baby was stillborn and another had died when its mother no longer was able to feed it. Hundreds of babies were too weak from lack of nourishment to cry when I reached the spot.

Thirty-five persons were too ill to walk and a hundred pregnant women sobbed hysterically as the older women tried to comfort them.

Food Truck Slowed.

Ralph Hilliard, a military government [AMG] official from Columbus, O., arranged to take a truckload of food to the captured plant near-by, but the cratered, churned up roads, blasted dikes and bridges, and desultory artillery and machine gun fire were slowing his efforts. It may be impossible also to evacuate the miserable persons until tomorrow or Thursday.

Meanwhile several hundred pitiful persons were clustered outside the entrances of the three tunnels. A few women already had started wood fires and were boiling potatoes to give to famished children who crowded around with cavernous eyes peering from their emaciated faces.

The commanding general of the 79th division, Maj. Gen. Ira Wyche, visited the scene. The problem is what the military government can do with these people, since the homes of many were pulverized by shells and bombs, and others live in areas still held by the Germans.

Iron Cross for a Nazi Soldier of 12

The German description supplied with this picture, which came to America from Sweden by radio yesterday, says it shows Adolf Hitler congratulating Alfred Czech, 12 years old, a Hitler Youth soldier, after awarding the iron cross to a group of youngsters who had fought in Pomerania and Silesia. MILITARY CRISIS FACES GERMANY, LEADERS ADMIT Claim Reserves Still Are Available.

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—The official German news agency acknowledged tonight that the German army's Rhine front was "thoroughly shaken" and described Lt. Gen. Patton's deep smash across the Reich's waist as "a surprising turn of developments."

Dr. Max Krull, DNB commentator, quoted "competent German circles," however, as saying "the Germans are not lacking reserves in the hinterland to build up a new defensive wall."

Krull declared that Patton's drive eastward, which could lead to a juncture with a Russian push westward from Silesia, "points to other strategical objectives, one being the historic plan to separate northern and southern Germany thru a line of the river Main."

Report Heavy Desertions.

German soldiers along the west front were reported by the Luxemburg radio tonight to be "deserting in such numbers that German authorities are helpless to round them up."

The Luxemburg broadcast quoted Swiss sources on the wholesale desertions as the Nazi press and radio ordered "all stragglers" and cut off officers and men to "report immediately to their respective authorities and take up again their duties in defense of the fatherland."

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, Nazi radio commentator, said Patton's rampage into Bavaria had made it impossible to tell where the front was.

Hitler Parley Reported.

An aide of Propaganda Minister Goebbels warned the German people that this was a week of highest decision in which it would be futile to "look around for a miracle from the outside."

The anti-Nazi Free German press service, which professes to have a direct pipeline to reliable informants in the reich, said in Stockholm that Hitler conferred with closest party leaders at Berchtesgaden Sunday and that "great decisions" could be expected.

The Paris radio, quoting a German broadcast, said that Field Marshal von Rundstedt, the former western front commander, was being held under arrest by S. S. Gruppenfuehrer Muehlmann, called the "hangman of generals."

The broadcast said Muehlmann previously had "taken under his protection Nazi Generals Fritsch, Reichenau, and Kluge, all of whom soon died in mysterious circumstances."

Free Germans Urge Revolt.
[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 27.—The Free German committee here today issued a proclamation signed by Albert von Hindenburg, a nephew of the late President Paul von Hindenburg, calling upon German soldiers and officers to end the war and turn their weapons against Hitler. The committee said Von Hindenburg, who is an industrialist and well known to many officers, wrote his appeal in an internment camp in Alsace where he is being held.

Florian Niebergall, president of the Free Germans, announced at the same time that he has put a list of 4,100 anti-Nazi Germans resident in France and Belgium at the disposal of the allied military authorities with a suggestion that they be used in the civil administration of occupied reich territory.

FREE ENGLISH GENERAL FROM NAZI HOSPITAL

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY, March 27 [Reuters].—Maj. Gen. Victor M. Fortune, commander of the 51st Highland division, who was taken prisoner at St. Valerie-en-Caux on June 12, was found in the German hospital at Limburg today. He said he had been treated well by the German colonel in charge.

The Germans seemed more excited about the coming of the Americans than he was himself, Gen. Fortune said. The German colonel ran in during the day and told him that the Americans were in the town. The German appeared happy because his son, 16, was soon to be called for army service.

Fortune took over the hospital and, at the German colonel's suggestion, ordered the disarming of the German wounded.

ILLINOIS OFFICER CITED AS HERO IN RHINE FIGHT

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. 83d DIVISION IN GERMANY, March 27.—Lt. James Liberacki, 3508 S. 55th ct., Cicero, has been cited for heroism in the capture of Neuss. His platoon, including Sgt. Edward Bredburg, 5344 N. Christiana av.; Pvt. Joseph Vaitukonis, 10524 S. Wabash av., an aidman, and Pvt. Chester Witozak, 2721 N. Melvina av., all of Chicago, cleared up a Nazi strong point which was holding up the advance.

Pvt. George Vopinek, 5800 S. Union av., Chicago, and Capt. George Costa, Staunton, Ill., received Purple Hearts for wounds in Luxemburg. Four members of A and B companies are dubbed the "Intrepids" by their buddies for heroism between the beachheads and the Rhine. They are Pvt. Camillor Iemolle, 5209 S. Melvina av., Corp. William Gagnon, 7645 S. Chicago av., both of Chicago; Sgt. John Wojtcieszak, 175 E. 16th pl., Chicago Heights, Ill., and Chaplain Alvin Halvorsen, Hobart, Ind.

A couple more notes from the outfit: Tank Comdr. William Whitney, 649 W. Garfield blvd., Chicago, said: "Twenty millimeter ack-ack makes light tanks hurt plenty." Sgt. Clayton McMichael, 525 Merriville rd., Gary, Ind., has returned from London after two months' leave.

Emil Jannings Alive, Nazi Broadcaster Says

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—The German news agency D. N. B. reported in a broadcast from Berlin today that Carl Ludwig Diehl of the films had signed a contract to appear in a new Emil Jannings motion picture. The broadcast apparently was intended to scotch rumors that Jannings had been arrested and killed because of suspected connections with anti-Nazi activities.

B29S HIT KYUSHU TWICE IN A DAY, TOKYO REPORTS

Super Forts Damage Two Towns, Japs Say.

San Francisco, Cal., March 27 (AP).—Tokyo radio said Kyushu, southern Japan, was attacked for the second time Tuesday by Super Fortresses. The enemy said the second raid was made by 50 to 60 B-29s which dropped incendiaries and explosives for two hours and a half around midnight.

Headquarters of the 21st bomber command at Guam previously reported a raid by more than 200 Super Forts around noon Tuesday.

The enemy broadcast said the second raid resulted in damage to the cities of Kokura and Moji on northern Kyushu. Kokura is a transportation center of more than 170,000 population and has a vast army arsenal.

Northern Kyushu rims the south part of Japan's inland sea where the enemy home fleet was hard hit more than a week ago by carrier planes of Vice Adm. Mitscher's fast task force.

The enemy broadcast claimed that Japanese defense units "achieved considerable war results" against the B-29s making the second strike.

Pound Ryukyu Isles Again.

GUAM, March 28 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Still denying the enemy any hint of his intentions, Fleet Adm. Nimitz today reported both carrier planes and warships of the United States Pacific fleet continued their intense bombardment of the Ryukyus. He totally ignored repeated Japanese broadcasts that American troops had made amphibious landings on two tiny islands near strategic Okinawa in the center of the island chain.

Nimitz did not even locate the targets for Tuesday's bombardment, but they presumably were on Okinawa and possibly adjacent small islands, as were three others in the last four days.

Tenth Day of Attack.

Tuesday was the 10th consecutive day that Vice Adm. Mitscher's carrier pilots have bombed, rocketed, and strafed targets from southern Honshu to the southern Ryukyus, and the fourth day in five that Adm. Spruance's new 16 inch gun battleships have poured shells into shore defenses on Okinawa or vicinity.

Nimitz reported in today's war bulletin only that carrier aircraft "continued to attack enemy forces and defense installations in the Ryukyus and surface units attacked coastal objectives with naval gunfire."

Despite the admiral's silence on any new invasion, there was cause for speculation that Japan's reports of landings on the islands off the southwestern coast of Okinawa may be the forerunner of an amphibious operation.

Longest Pre-Invasion Blows.

The pattern would follow 11 previous Central Pacific amphibious operations conducted by Nimitz's forces, except that if no landings yet have been made, the preliminary bombardment would be the longest before any troops went ashore.

Nimitz also reported that navy search planes struck in the vicinity of Hahijo Island, only 150 miles south of Tokyo, Monday and damaged three small cargo ships. Continued neutralizing and harassing air strikes on Marcus, the Palaus, Yap, Truk, Wake, and the Marshalls Islands also were carried out.

Japanese imperial headquarters reported that American forces invaded the Kerama Islands in the Ryukyu chain, 400 miles southwest of the Nipponese homeland.

The Tokyo radio, quoting the headquarters announcement, said that "a contingent" of Americans landed on the Keramas on Sunday.

The Kerama Islands are 15 miles west of Okinawa Island.

Japanese headquarters did not specify which of the islands in the Kerama cluster were invaded by the Yanks, but its announcement said that "furious" Japanese air attacks resulted in the sinking of five American warships, with five more sunk or seriously damaged, and that 44 United States planes were shot down and about 110 damaged.

Okinawa contains many air fields, with a naval base at Naha, chief city on the island's southwest coast.

American bombers and fighters on the Kerama Islands would be in strategic position to neutralize Okinawa's air and naval strongpoints and strike northward to the Japanese mainland.

JAP GENERAL HEADS NEW 'SURE VICTORY' TOTALITARIAN PARTY

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Gen. Jiro Minami, 65, member of the Japanese privy council and former war minister, will head Nippon's new "sure victory" totalitarian party, Tokyo radio announced yesterday. The new party will replace the present totalitarian party "which has been criticized as being too divorced from the people," the broadcast said.

A "committee for a 20-year war" held its first meeting in Tokyo, to discuss its basic theory that "the longer the war lasts, the better for Japan," the radio also reported. The committee was organized by eight "influential citizens" headed by Hachiro Arita, former Japanese foreign minister.

COMPLAIN YANKS DUMPED TRUCKS, SLOWED AUSSIES

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 27 (AP).—Gordon Holland, an Australian war correspondent, reported today that difficulties over valuations and lend-lease with American authorities has slowed up the liquidation of Japanese in the Aitape area of New Guinea.

Holland reported that when Australians took over from Americans in that theater the departing troops dumped a number of jeeps, trucks, ambulances, and amphibious ducks into the sea. These, he said, required from little to full overhaul repairs but they would have been invaluable to the Australians.

He wrote that Australians begged that these written-off vehicles be handed over to them but the Americans were unable to comply owing to lend-lease complications. He said Australian advances are limited because roads must be hacked out with picks and shovels and bridges built with old fashioned tools.

New Zealand Plans Rise in Meat Exports to Britain

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, March 27 [Reuters].—New Zealand farmers, holding back stock to fatten it, are likely to increase their export of meat to Britain by more than 13,000 tons, the New Zealand meat producers' board said today. The board called for a special effort by meat producers and consumers to expand the exports.

YANKS INVADE ISLAND OF CEBU IN PHILIPPINES

Legaspi, busy port on southeastern Luzon, was pounded with 80 tons of bombs.

JAPS BLAST CITY

WITH THE AMERICAL DIVISION ON CEBU, Philippines, March 26 [Delayed]—(AP).—The second largest city of the Philippines, beautiful Cebu, started disappearing from the face of the earth today.

Already scarred from three years of war, the city began to explode and burn as Japanese demolition squads went about their work.

During the Japanese invasion early in the war, about a third of the city, including most of its key installations, was destroyed by Americans and Filipinos. Ruthless Nipponese destruction during enemy occupation accounted for more of the city. Recent Yank air strikes expanded the damage.

But there was some of Cebu left—until the first wave of American troops landed five miles south today. Then the fireworks began.

Refinery Blown Up.

Almost exactly at 8:30 a. m., which was H-hour, the first big fire appeared in the center of the city. At 8:40 a. m. there was a big explosion and fires at the massive coconut oil refinery just across the harbor on Mactan Island.

This was the biggest refinery in the Philippines and had been used continuously by the enemy for vital all-purpose oil, including engine lubricants.

At 9 a. m. tremendous explosions rocked the area. The heart of the metropolis appeared to have burst. One former Cebu resident said it was the city electric plant and surrounding installations being destroyed.

At 9:20 a. m. the first explosions could be seen around Cebu's fine docks. At 9:22 a giant mushroom of smoke sprouted over the modern airfield northwest of the city.

Osmena's Home Town.

Most of the city was obscured by smoke but high on a foothill west of Cebu was the impressive provincial capitol. In front of it was the symmetrical Osmena fountain. Cebu is the home of Sergio Osmena, president of the commonwealth.

The Japanese must have known the Yanks were coming to Cebu. They had everything ready for a long, tough fight when the doughboys stormed ashore this bright, calm morning.

Elaborate, extensive beach defenses had been thrown up. Many tank traps and road blocks scarred the main paved highway at important road junctions. Land mines and barbed wire were spread on the fringe of a coconut plantation bordering the beach.

But it takes more than that to stop these jungle trained Yank veterans. Altho amphibious buffalos used by the assault waves were pinned down on the beach, the Americans piled out and started driving inland against disorganized resistance. Within 90 minutes after they hit the beach, elements of a former Illinois national guard unit speared more than 800 yards inland.

NAVY REPORTS LOSS OF U.S. SUB ALBACORE, OVERDUE ON PATROL

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The submarine Albacore is overdue from patrol and presumed lost, the navy announced today. The next of kin of about 65 officers and men aboard have been notified.

The vessel was the 41st submarine lost from all causes since the start of the war and the 35th reported overdue and presumed lost.

The 1,525 ton vessel, commissioned in 1942, was commanded by Lt. Comdr. Hugh R. Rimmer, Manhasset, N. Y. He held the silver star medal and a letter of commendation from the secretary of the navy, the latter for directing the escape of his own men from a vessel during a serious fire aboard.

JAPS TRYING TO BREAK OUT OF BURMA TRAP

CALCUTTA, India, March 27 (AP).—Japanese resistance in central Burma between Mandalay and Meiktila was reported increasing today, with trapped enemy forces apparently massing for a break-out attempt eastward toward Thailand over tortuous mountain trails. Front line reports said the Japanese, originally estimated at 30,000 in the Mandalay-Meiktila-Myingyam area, were believed to be concentrating at Kyaukse in an effort to drive eastward out of the Irrawaddy river bend. British and Indian troops were closing in on the strong point from the north, south, and west.

Northeast of Mandalay, Chinese 1st army troops operating along the Burma road were reported within four miles of Mingyai, a road junction.

West of the Irrawaddy in the Yenangyaung oil fields the Japanese still were putting up strong resistance, especially in the area around Chauk. South and east of Mandalay, except for isolated pockets, Japanese resistance was reported practically liquidated.

King, United States fleet commander, disclosed yesterday in his annual report that the light cruiser Honolulu was heavily damaged last Oct. 20 during the first day of the invasion of Leyte in the Philippines. Here is an exclusive, first hand account of the mishap by Leif Erickson, Associated Press war correspondent who sailed to Leyte on the Honolulu.]

ABOARD U. S. S. HONOLULU OFF DULAG, Oct. 21 [Delayed]—(AP).—A flaming, blasting aerial torpedo hit this veteran light cruiser amidships yesterday, killing and burning many of her crew. Alert damage control action saved her from capsizing or sinking.

Radioman 3/C Leon Garsian of Union City, N. J., was trapped alone for 16 hours in a radio compartment below decks before a repair crew could cut thru a bulkhead with acetylene torches to rescue him.

Garsian's experience was the most spectacular of many gallant performances by the Honolulu's men when a surprise, single plane attack hit the ship, affectionately called "Blue Goose" by her crew.

Establish Phone Connection.

A phone connection was established with Garsian soon after the torpedo ripped into the ship. He was sealed in a small compartment with watertight doors holding off a flood of water and oil in all compartments around and above him.

From the flag bridge, I talked with him over the phone. Garsian told me he could feel the water leak in thru a door at first. The blast had blown out the lights and he was in blackness.

"I had a mattress down here," Garsian said. "I ripped it open and stuffed padding around the door. I got the water stopped. Everything's under control in here now."

Garsian knew the compartment near him had been flooded and that all hands on watch there had been lost. But his voice was cheerful as he wisecracked, "I'm hungry now. I guess I'll get pretty hungry before they can get me out of here."

Honolulu's Third Hit.

By freakish chance, I took off in an observation plane 20 minutes before the Honolulu was hit and returned an hour later to see the "Blue Goose" listing sharply to port.

From men I'd begun to know as shipmates, I obtained an account of the third torpedo hit the Honolulu has taken in the Pacific war to date.

She was taking a breather after two days of bombarding the Leyte coast. Her skipped, Capt. H. R. [Ray] Thurber of Hoquiam, Wash., former navy public relations chief, was having his hair cut on the bridge when lookouts shouted the alarm "torpedo plane port quarter."

The plane sneaked in low behind the 1,000 foot high Catmon hill, the Honolulu's last shelling target.

Thurber saw that the plane already had dropped its "fish" and gave the order to back up at full speed. This probably saved the ship from a crippling, possibly fatal hit to the after engine room. The torpedo hit portside just forward of the bridge super-structure.

Marine Gunners Killed.

A flaming blast shattered a compartment where a marine anti-aircraft crew was berthed. Virtually every one there was killed.

A jet of flame swept a 40 mm. ammunition hoist into a ward room where officers had been enjoying ice cream.

Passages and rooms in the area where the "fish" hit were filled with fumes and steam. Oil began to spread.

Quartermaster 1/C Robert D. Vodden, Fresno, Cal., the ship's boxing champ, went down to the marine's compartment and helped drag out eight men. Five were dead.

A few minutes after the torpedoing, the ship was listing heavily. All hands topside turned to, throwing overboard everything loose on the portside. The danger of capsizing seemed great. At the stern, men stood ready to cut loose the port plane catapult.

But damage control men, wearing oxygen masks, stopped the list by pumping and counter-flooding. After two hours' work, the ship was leveled but had settled four feet at the bow.

Two salvage tugs had pulled alongside quickly, taking the ship in tow and helping out with the pumping. With the tugs, Capt. Thurber maneuvered into shallow water where the main deck would remain above water if the ship settled.

A grievous, new hurt came during a Japanese air attack at dusk. An anti-aircraft fragment from a near-by ship hit the Honolulu's high rigging bringing it crashing down, killing two men and wounding six.

By morning, the ship had been fixed enough to permit getting under way for a repair port.

MRS. MILDRED PETERS.

Newport, Ky., March 27 (AP).—Carl Peters insisted today his 200-pound wife, Mildred, was about to have a baby when she disappeared with $200 to $300 in savings at the entrance of the maternity ward of a hospital yesterday at daybreak.

Peters added he was certain his wife wrote the telegram he received late yesterday stating that a newborn, seven pound boy had arrived, altho the message was signed, "B. Langley, R. N."

Police Chief Leo Livingston quoted Mrs. Peters' father, George Stiltner of Williamson, W. Va., as expressing belief that her claim to pregnancy was a hoax.

The husband said he called Booth hospital a few hours after his wife left home and was told she was not registered altho, he said he was told, a reservation for her confinement had been made.

Peters today told of a recent "baby shower" friends had for his wife at their home.

"Mildred left home with between $200 and $300 in savings for hospital expenses," he said; and added that war bonds, hidden in a mattress at their home, "about $200 worth," had disappeared.

U. S. WOULD PAY FIRM 7 MILLION FOR 'LOST' SHIPS

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The war shipping administration has offered the American Hawaiian Steamship company, New York City, $7,247,637 for 11 of its vessels which have been lost in war service or requisitioned for title by the government, WSA announced today.

Four of these ships were lost thru enemy action. They were the steamships Honolulan, Alaskan, Montanan, and Oregonian. Three others, the Illinoian, Pennsylvanian, and Kentuckian, were sunk by their own crews off Normandy last June in the creation of artificial harbors at the time our forces invaded Europe.

Four other American Hawaiian ships, requisitioned for title by WSA, are still in war service. They are the Iowan, Dakotan, Nebraskan, and Nevadan.

YANK INGENUITY MAKES JUNGLE LIFE BEARABLE

BY ALFRED WAGG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. TROOPS OF THE MARS TASK FORCE, Burma, March 27.—American ingenuity in the jungles of central Burma still is amazing, according to Capt. Dwight M. Burkan, midwestern chaplain with the Mars task force.

Here are some of the gadgets with which these Yanks make themselves comfortable while fighting the Japs:

A handy cigaret lighter is made from a carbine cartridge. The wick, of native cotton, is drawn thru the firing pin hole in the cartridge. It is carried in a waterproof match box containing gasoline. The flint is struck with a scout knife.

Pancakes Are Soaked Biscuits.

A pancake griddle is the end plate of a mortar ammunition case or the end of a captured Jap gasoline drum. The pancakes are made from C ration biscuits soaked in water and fried in bacon grease. The pancake turner is a steel mirror or a large metal spoon pounded flat.

A corn popper is made from an empty can and the handle from a mortar ammunition rod. Mountain ration crackers make a decent breakfast cereal. Crumble the crackers, soak in hot water, drain off the water, add sugar and condensed milk. Result—delicious.

Unsalvageable parachutes used for dropping supplies are made into fancy tablecloths. Select any color, cut to size, and create a modern edging by pulling the threads from the ends of the cloth. You can also make silk shirts from nylon parachutes in any color desired.

Make Cups from Bamboo.

Communion cups for the chaplain are made from one inch thick bamboo cut above the joint. Drinking mugs can be made from the giant bamboo. Glass cups for special occasions are made from the medics' distilled water bottles or plasma bottles. Fill the bottle to the desired height with motor oil, then plunge a red hot poker into the oil and a perfect break results.

The men produce spoons, plates, and chopsticks from bamboo shoots. One G. I. installed a shower bath right in his hut by running bamboo pipes from a near-by spring. The American soldier uses the reverse side of letters from home to pen replies. They make jam from dissolved fruit bars, chicken chow mein from native rice and canned boneless chicken, and cut steaks from a choice water buffalo.

BATAAN DEATH MARCH PHOTOS BURIED IN CAMP

Urbana, Ill., March 27 (AP).—Corp. Dale O. Von Linger, 25, one of 510 American soldiers liberated from Cabanatuan prison camp in the Philippines in a Ranger raid Jan. 31, said in an interview today about 400 photographs of the "death march" of Bataan prisoners were buried at the prison camp.

"About three of us know where they're buried in a half gallon Mason jar," said Von Linger, who returned to his home at nearby Mansfield today, exactly five years from the day he left home.

Von Linger said the photos were brought to the camp by various prisoners and were developed secretly and processed with the aid of vinegar. "You can make a pretty good vinegar out of rice and a tablespoon of sugar," he added. He said another prisoner now liberated has the map showing where the pictures are located, but "I could find them without one."

200 JAPS ATTACK AIR FORCE CAMP ON IWO; YANKS KILL 196

GUAM, March 28 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Two hundred or more Japanese broke into a bivouac area of army pilots and aviation service troops on Iwo island in a well organized, surprise attack Monday.

Marines of the 5th division finally smashed the attack, killing 196 Japanese. American casualty figures were not available. The attack was described as a stealthy onslaught, not a banzai charge.

Organized resistance ended on Iwo on March 16, Fleet Adm. Nimitz announced several days ago.

Some of the attacking Japanese, including a number of officers, were armed with M-1 rifles, presumably taken from marine dead during the battle for Iwo. One bazooka and 40 swords also were found among the enemy dead.

Marines under Maj. Robert Riddall, a battalion commander, attacked the enemy near the beach southeast of the central air field half an hour after the Japanese hit the camp. A few Nipponese got away.

MINDANAO G.I.S ELUDE JAPS; RUN RADIO 5 MONTHS

HDQ., 13TH AIR FORCE, Philippines, March 27 (AP).—A hand picked platoon of radio technicians was taken to Mindanao by submarine and operated a radio station there for five months before the Yanks invaded the island this month. The group of 39 enlisted men was led by Lt. Edward T. Pompea, 23, of New London, Conn. They landed last September. Eluding enemy patrols and fighting alongside Filipino guerrillas, they maintained an air raid warning station.

CITY TO PRAY AND WORK WHEN NAZIS GIVE UP

Churches to Open Doors; Taverns to Close.

Chicago is ready to celebrate ir a happy but sober and industrious fashion when final victory is gained over Germany.

Plans, started under the direction of Mayor Kelly last autumn when Lt. Gen. Patton's historic charge across France made such a victory appear imminent, call for neighborhood programs in the churches of Chicago's 108 communities but avoidance of any general mass meeting or gathering in the loop.

Rumors started some false celebrations yesterday and, as a result, committee members reviewed their programs and completed last minute details for a celebration they hope will have none of the wild and hilarious aspects of Nov. 11, 1918.

Tribune Gets 35,000 Calls.

A new record for telephone calls received by THE TRIBUNE for an event of this kind was established yesterday when Miss Anne Garrow, manager of Tribune telephone service, estimated 35,000 "victory" calls were received from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Emphasis in this V-E [victory in Europe] celebration will be on church services. All denominations thruout the city are planning to throw open church doors and hold special services of thanksgiving and rededication to the task of gaining the earliest possible victory in the Pacific.

Retail liquor stores and taverns have agreed to close for 24 hours after news of the victory is received. Night clubs will be closed the night victory is achieved, a spokesman said.

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police, suggested that taverns and other places that close display the American flag in their windows as a precaution against breakage by revelers.

Capt. Prendergast advised captains of all districts and departments that all members of the department are to have their uniforms in readiness for an immediate response to assignments. He expects to assign some 700 policemen in uniform to duty in the loop.

Most War Plants to Work.

Original plans were to close war plants at least for one shift, but because of the increased need for war supplies these plans have been revised. Almost all war plants in Chicago plan to continue operation uninterruptedly.

An additional warning to war workers to remain on the job, regardless of victory rumors, was issued by William H. Spencer, regional director of the war man power commission.

A definite closing schedule has been adopted by the Chicago Retail Merchants association and the State Street council whereby all retail stores will close the entire day if announcement of victory comes before the opening of business or for the remainder of the day if the news comes after opening.

Former Sailor Stabbed in Tavern Fight; One Held

Charles Fava, 25 of 251 Evergreen av., a discharged sailor, was in Henrotin hospital last night with abdominal stab wounds allegedly inflicted by John Connally, 22, of 1118 N. State st., another discharged sailor, in a quarrel in the tavern at 120 W. Division st., police said. Connally, who, police said, was struck on the head with a beer bottle by Mrs. Margaret Medill, wife of the tavern owner, during the brawl, was arrested in a near-by doctor's office.

NEW BIG TANKS NOW IN USE BY ALLIES, SAYS IKE

More Will Appear If War Lasts.

PARIS, March 27 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower said today that some new American and British tanks equivalent to the German Tiger and Panther models now had appeared on the battlefield.

Their numbers are not large but will increase if the war lasts, the supreme commander of the western allies said at a press conference.

[Eisenhower did not identify the new tanks. It has been announced previously that the new American T-26 Pershing tank is in production.]

Noting statements that American tanks were inferior to those of the enemy, he said the Sherman tank, when first used by the British in Egypt's western desert, was superior to anything the Germans had, and that the Germans produced the Panther and Tigers to match the Sherman.

Problem of Production.

Cautioning that the allied object was not to pit tank against tank in duels, he said there was the problem whether it was desirable to continue producing Shermans or to cease producing them and have no tanks until new models were ready. The decision was to continue producing Shermans in such numbers as to overwhelm the enemy and at the same time to work on a superior tank.

It would be idle, he conceded, to say that a Sherman could meet a Panther or a Tiger on equal terms, but the allies have Shermans in greater numbers than enemy tanks and, once the breakthru is made, commanders say they prefer the Sherman to any other.

New Light Tank Used.

EAST OF THE RHINE WITH THE U. S. 9TH ARMY, March 27 (AP).—A new American 19 ton light tank mounting a 65 mm. gun and called the General Chaffee in honor of the father of the United States armored force has been operating on the western front since about the first of the year, it was revealed today.

The General Chaffee replaced the cumbersome and easily spotted American light tanks of the General Stuart model.

It has proved a considerably better machine than the previous American light tanks which were too high and too lightly armed. The old light tanks had 37 mm. guns.

The new tank has no counterpart in the German army where light tanks have almost disappeared in the last few years to be replaced by the heavier Panthers and Tigers which serve all purposes.

Decree Granted

Mrs. Marva Trotter Barrow, 29, wife of Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion now serving as an army sergeant, was granted a divorce yesterday after she testified that the former fighter deserted her on Oct. 2, 1943.

Superior Judge John A. Sbarbaro, who heard the case, failed in an attempt to reconcile the couple. Both Louis, who made a surprise appearance in court, and his wife assured the court that they did not wish their marriage to continue any longer. Judge Sbarbaro warned them that the divorce would mean adverse publicity, but the couple were adamant.

The court approved an outside settlement of cash and property for Mrs. Barrow and $200 a month for support of the couple's child, Jacqueline, 2. Mrs. Barrow won custody of the child, altho Louis is to be allowed custody two months each year. A $10,000 educational fund will also be set up for the girl.

S. F. Struhart, a real estate broker at 2552 S. Central Park av., notified police yesterday that his automobile was stolen near his office.

PHONY RADIO 'PEACE' FLASH JOLTS NATION

New York, March 27 (AP).—Newspaper offices were flooded today with telephone calls quoting a Blue network broadcast that an announcement of victory in Europe was expected momentarily.

After emerging from a deluge, the Blue network said Gil Martyn, broadcasting from Los Angeles, had said "electrifying news" had come that the President and his cabinet "are preparing for word of victory."

At Hollywood, Henry Orbach, manager of news and special features for the network's western division, said the statement was written by himself in preparing a news broadcast read over the air by Martyn.

Announcement Misinterpreted.

A short time after the Martyn broadcast, the Blue broadcast from New York an announcement that a "routine announcement" from the White House . . . "was misinterpreted as a hint that big news was forthcoming from Europe."

The White House announcement was that President Roosevelt had asked government officials to remain out of San Francisco during the world security parley to avoid travel congestion and to be at their posts for any emergency.

"One of the three major news services [the International News Service] carried the story with the interpretation that the White House expected word of victory," the New York announcement of the Blue said.

The Blue's later announcement concluded with the statement: "This interpretation [that the White House was preparing for word of victory] since has been found to be without any foundation. There has been no suggestion from any Washington officials that any armistice announcement is imminent."

Erroneous "Flash."

An erroneous flash by International News Service that "Eisenhower says Germans quit" was carried on the 1 p. m. [E. W. T.] Don Lee, Mutual news broadcast from radio station KHJ to Pacific coast states and Arizona, William M. Greene, a news editor for the network at Hollywood, said.

The flash was followed shortly on INS wires by a message changing it to "Eisenhower says Germans are whipped," Greene added. Approximately two minutes after the flash was broadcast, he said, the explanation was made to listeners that it had been based on a garbled dispatch.

HOUSE ORDERS PROBE OF VETS' BUREAU, 256 TO 4

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The house voted an investigation of the veterans' administration today, but efforts to obtain a full scale probe into all veterans' affairs failed.

By a vote of 256 to 4, the house approved a resolution by Chairman Rankin [D., Miss.] of the veterans' committee authorizing that committee to investigate the facilities of the veterans' administration.

Rankin promised an investigation "which will leave no stone unturned," but Rep. Philbin [D., Mass.] termed the action "too limited" to uncover the true state of veterans' treatment. "There is shocking evidence of cruelty and neglect in veterans' hospitals, including the army and navy," Philbin argued.

House rules limited the debate to the Rankin resolution.

JAPS JUST RATS, MUST BE DUG OUT, HALSEY ASSERTS

Philadelphia, Pa., March 27 (AP).—Expressing impatience to return to his "unfinished business in the Western Pacific," Adm. Halsey said today that it "didn't make much difference whether or not the Japanese fleet comes out of its home waters.

"They're just plain rats and like rats you usually have to dig them out of their holes," he said at a press conference during a visit to the Philadelphia naval air supply depot.

Halsey, who spent the last few weeks with his family near Greenville, Del., said the quality of Jap pilots is deteriorating.

Asked about the possible effect of Russia joining the Japanese war or the force of the British fleet in the Pacific, Halsey refused any predictions. "I don't give a damn who licks the Japs," he said.

BRITISH READY TO STAND BY FOR EASTER PEACE

Expect Big News When Blackout Lifts.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—Advised by Prime Minister Churchill on his return from the Rhine battlefield that the end of the war in Europe is in sight, British cabinet ministers were reported tonight planning to stay in and around London during parliament's Easter vacation, so as to be within easy distance of recall when Germany's military forces collapse.

Churchill, it was said, returned from his double crossing of the Rhine and conference with allied military chiefs in a highly optimistic mood, convinced the end of all big scale, organized resistance in the west is rapidly approaching.

In Great Excitement.

Whitehall observers said the war office and service departments are in a state of great excitement, believing that when the black-out on western front operations is lifted, progress during the last 48 hours by some sections of the advancing armies will be disclosed as the most sensational of the war, not excluding Germany's 1940 blitzkrieg.

British government departments concerned with the future control of an allotted zone of Germany have instructed local administrators, supply experts, and legal officials, appointed months ago, to be ready to leave on short notice, political sources said.

These officials will leave as soon as large areas of northern Germany fall into allied hands, even tho fighting may still be going on in the south. There are expectations the Germans won't use the scorched earth policy to any great extent, and that for the first time the allies within a week or so will be dealing with prosperous areas, their industries almost intact.

Wednesday's London newspapers contributed to the wave of optimism and jubilation with headlines such as "This Is the Collapse" and "Germany Is Whipped." Most newspapers featured Field Marshal Montgomery's push in the north.

None to Surrender.

Official quarters here were reportedly convinced a clear cut end of the war, as in November, 1918, is unlikely, since, as American and British forces penetrate deeper into Germany, it is becoming obvious there is no single German military authority from whom the allies can accept unconditional surrender.

The prospects are it will be left for the allied commanders to decide when the war in Europe is ended, following which the Big Three will consult and declare an armistice, even tho sporadic fighting is still going on against small pockets of resistance.

Churchill, in the house of commons, squelched today any possible 11th hour separate peace proposals by the enemy.

With a curt, "no sir," he answered a question as to whether parliament would have a chance to discuss any German proposals for laying down arms.

Any such proposal, Churchill said, would be communicated forthwith to Russia and the United States, bound unequivocally to the declaration that Hitler's Germany must accept unconditional surrender or be flattened.

This, he added, was a matter for the executive, not parliament—in other words, Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier-Marshal Stalin.

Thanksgiving Fete

Corp. John H. Bailey and his son, John Jr., proceeding yesterday down aisle of flags to attend mass at St. Columbkille's church.

Neighbors and school children filled St. Columbkille's church, 1648 Grand av., yesterday for a mass of thanksgiving for the safe return of Pvt. John H. Bailey, 28, of 502 N. Paulina st., from more than 2½ years in a Jap prison camp. Pvt. Bailey was liberated by the Rangers at Cabanatuan in January.

Pvt. Bailey arrived in Chicago late Monday night for a reunion with his mother, Mrs. Mary Sokol, and his son, John Jr., 6 years old. The Rev. Austin Gallagher, pastor of St. Columbkille's, said yesterday the mass of thanksgiving grew out of a conversation he had with Mrs. Sokol while she was expecting her son's return.

Pvt. Bailey's wife died in 1941, two months before he went into service. He told Father Gallagher that he and other prisoners had become reconciled to death by starvation when they were rescued. Bailey has the Purple Heart and a distinguished unit citation.

BRITONS IN U. S. TO DISCUSS FOOD NEEDS OF WORLD

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—Pressing world food problems brought two high British officials here today at the invitation of President Roosevelt.

The visitors, Oliver Lyttelton, minister of production and war cabinet member, and Col. J. J. Llewellin, minister of food, will talk with "highest American authorities." The war food administration and the foreign economic administration said "the whole complex problem of world food production, distribution, and equitable allocation" will be explored.

The President's invitation, it was stated, grew out of conversation with Prime Minister Churchill "aimed at finding means of dealing with the food shortages in the liberated areas."

FALL DOWN ELEVATOR SHAFT FATAL.

John McPartland, 50, of 350 N. State st., was killed yesterday when he fell five floors down an elevator shaft in the Devonshire hotel, 19 E. Ohio st., where he was employed as a bell boy and elevator operator.

1ST GAIN IN YEAR IN CRITICAL WAR LABOR REPORTED

For the first time in a year, employment in critical war plants increased in February, Lester Brown, area man power commission director, reported last night. The gain was slight, he said, employment in 126 plants increasing 1,182 workers, or .4 of 1 per cent, but it halted an uninterrupted downward trend of 12 months' duration.

The gain was achieved despite a layoff of 1,100 workers in one aircraft plant, Brown said. He attributed the increase to three reasons: [1] changes in the WMC's referral program which encourage transfer of workers to the most critical plants, together with a reduction of labor ceilings in unclassified establishments; [2] entry into war plant work by thousands of midterm high school graduates, and [3] publicity on changes in draft regulations making men under 34 more liable to induction.

"Labor reserves were near exhaustion, and still are very low," Brown said. "Selective service withdrawals will be increasingly heavy. The flow of workers to war plants must not slow down. We hope March will keep pace with February."

SENATE'S MILITARY BODY SUPPORTS BILL FOR NURSES' DRAFT

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The senate military committee voted unanimously today to sponsor nurse drafting legislation after broadening a house-approved bill to permit induction of married women. Opposition to the measure faded at a closed session of the committee.

The committee also approved another house measure extending the selective service act until May 15, 1946. The present act expires May 15, 1945.

The nurse draft bill, as passed by the house, provided for the induction of unmarried nurses, age 20 to 45, and directed that they be offered army or navy commissions. The senate committee struck out house language making the draft inapplicable to "married women whose marriage occured prior to March 15, 1945."

This left exemption simply for women with dependent children or with children under 18. A house provision exempting members of religious orders was broadened to cover those studying for religious service in all denominations.

RUTH RECEIVES SPIRIT AND CITY GETS BACK $760

The conscience fund of the city treasury was richer by $760 yesterday after receiving money orders for that amount from a member of Father Divine's flock known to the brethren as Ruth the Gleaner.

In a letter to Mayor Kelly, Ruth the Gleaner, who said she was called Josie Baker before she "got the spirit," explained that 20 years ago she won a $2,200 personal injury claim against the city. Of that amount she received $760, but said since "Father Divine's spirit and teaching is causing me to go back and righten every wrong of my old life, I am returning it."

A check of the records revealed that Josie A. Baker, a chambermaid, then living at 2334 Wabash av., was awarded $2,200 on March 24, 1925, for injuries suffered when a public cab in which she was riding struck a hole in the street.

BIDDLE REJECTS SENATE PLEA TO PROSECUTE CIO

Activity in Election Had Been Criticized.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—Atty. Gen. Biddle today refused a senate committee request that he prosecute the Ohio Industrial Union council, CIO, on charges it violated the corrupt practices act during the 1944 political campaign.

Biddle maintained, in a letter to Chairman Green [D., R. I.] of the senate campaign expenditures investigating committee, that it would "not seem to be appropriate" for the justice department to institute criminal proceedings against the CIO group. Biddle's defense of CIO political action methods was frequently denounced in congress during the campaign.

The attorney general's reply to the committee's recommendation for prosecution came nearly five months after testimony against the group had been sent to him.

Urged as Test Case.

The committee had suggested the evidence against the Ohio organization as a basis for a test case in order to obtain a legal ruling whether the expenditure of large sums on political pamphlets should be considered contributions to a campaign. The CIO group financed state-wide issuance of such pamphlets in the Ohio senatorial campaign.

"The department has received a number of complaints of a similar nature, relating to the issuance of pamphlets and handbills by labor organizations, national banks and corporations," Biddle wrote Green. "Both the language and legislative history of the corrupt practices act indicate that congress did not intend that the act should be construed to prohibit every expenditure made for the purpose of expressing opinion on current political questions but intended it simply to prevent these organizations from giving money to political candidates or committees.

Doubt Law Covers Unions.

"Of course, a case might arise in which such expenditure of money might be regarded as a contribution, if it were shown that the money was spent at the behest or direction of a political candidate or committee. In none of the cases we have investigated is there any indication, however, that these conditions exist.

"In this case, we are confronted with the further legal question of whether a labor organization of this type is within the definition of labor organization in the act. Even tho it is desirable that the statute should be clarified, it does not seem to be appropriate for this department to institute criminal proceedings for that purpose. I believe that this end could better be achieved by amendatory legislation."

FARMER'S SOLE AID DRAFTED, HE SELLS HERD

Last year the 200 acre farm of William E. Andres, 50, at 183d st. and Oak Park av., in Tinley Park, produced 73 acres of corn, 58 acres of oats, 25 acres of soybeans, and 23 acres of alfalfa. It also yielded for market the milk of 18 purebred Holstein cows and the eggs and meat supplied by a flock of 500 chickens.

This year, because of the draft, it will produce a mere fraction of its potential yield.

Yesterday the herd of cows and their 11 calves, a herd that had taken Andres 18 years to build up, was sold at auction.

For the last two years Andres had been able to keep the farm's productivity at its normal level with the help of his hired man, Emil Juergens, 21, but Juergens was inducted for the navy March 3 by Flossmoor draft board 13. Andres had made three futile appeals to the draft board for Juergens' deferment.

SURFACE LINES REPORT WORKER NEED IS EASING

The Illinois commerce commission was informed yesterday by E. J. McIlraith, acting general manager of the Chicago Surface Lines, that the company's man power needs still were not being met, but that there had been steady improvement for the last two months.

He reported that by lengthening runs on Sunday about 900 men had that day off each week and were added to the available weekday force. There was danger, he said, that about 400 men under 30, in the street car service, might be called up by the draft and this might cut off 150 street cars.

ABSENTEES LET JOBS DRAFT BILL SLIP THRU HOUSE

Mobilization Director Byrnes unprecedented powers over both workers and employers. He is authorized to:

1. Place ceilings on the number of workers to be employed in any plant.

2. Freeze workers, both men and women of all ages, in any place of business, including farms, which he deems "essential to the war effort." Persons so frozen could change jobs only by permission of Byrnes or an agency he designates.

Bars Recruiting of Workers.

3. Prohibit or regulate hiring and recruiting of new workers by employers and acceptance of employment by individuals.

Violators of Byrnes' orders would be subject on conviction to maximum penalties of one year in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Chairman May [D., Ky.] of the military affairs committee told the house the bill, agreed to by senate-house conferees, was the best possible "compromise."

Rep. Short [D., Mo.], a ranking member of the group, asserted the compromise was "worse than the original."

"This legislation," Short told the house, "will not put to work the pool hall loafers and the cocktail lizards who are doing nothing to help the war. Instead, it penalizes the honest working man and woman, the mothers and fathers and brothers of our fighting men, who have already made the greatest production record in history.

"These patriotic workers cannot leave their jobs without permission from Director Byrnes.

"That is tyranny and slavery brought up to date. I cannot think of anything more vicious or obnoxious to the tradition and spirit of our American institutions. It is preposterous that at this advanced stage of the war, when we are on the eve of victory in Europe, we should stoop to adopt the totalitarian methods of Hitler which our men are fighting and dying to destroy."

Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.], noting the vast powers assigned to Byrnes by the bill, declared Byrnes has "forfeited the respect in which he was formerly held."

"His actions since he became a disgruntled ex-Vice Presidential candidate certainly do not establish any claim upon such vast authority," Shafer said.

Pleading for passage of the measure, Rep. Thomason [D., Tex.] asserted it is needed to forestall a "letdown" which he said may come with the defeat of Germany.

WAR DECLARED BY ARGENTINA ON JAPAN, GERMANY

Swings Into Line with Rest of Americas.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 27 (AP).—Argentina's military government declared the existence of a state of war with the axis nations today in a move frankly designed to end its diplomatic isolation.

The decree issued by the government stated that war was declared again Japan because of the attack on the United States at Pearl Harbor and against Germany because Germany was Japan's ally.

The decree, as broadcast by the government radio, also expressed the government's adherence to the act of Chapultepec in accordance with the invitation issued by the Mexico City conference of American republics.

It concluded with a statement that appropriate measures would be taken to supervise the activities of companies, individuals, and organizations which might affect Argentina's relations with other American countries or threaten their peace.

Seeks American "Solidarity."

A preamble said the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor affected the interest of Argentina as recognized in a measure adopted in 1941 declaring the United States nonbelligerent in the struggle against the axis. It added that Argentina desired to establish solidarity with other American republics and share the responsibility in future events.

The war declaration came little more than a year after the military regime, then headed by Gen. Pedro Ramirez, severed relations with the axis. That rupture was the immediate cause of the overthrow of Ramirez and his replacement by Edelmiro Farrell.

The decision to declare war was the most difficult the administration of President Farrell has had to make. Three weeks of intensive discussion were required before conflicting views within the government and the arm forces could be resolved.

Takes Steps to Keep Order.

The decision was made in the face of opposition from the disillusioned nationalists who once were the government's most enthusiastic supporters. It also was contrary to the desires of some factions in the army. But it clearly was the result of realization that the invitation of the Mexico City conference, suggesting that Argentina make herself eligible to join the united nations, represented the nation's last chance to resolve its international difficulties.

Recognition Expected in Week.

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—Representatives of the other American countries set up oiled machinery tonight for recognition of Argentina, which declared war on the axis today. The ambassadors met on sudden notice with Nelson Rockefeller, assistant secretary of state, and were scheduled to meet again tomorrow morning. Recognition was expected within a week.

AMNESIA VICTIM RECALLS NAME.

An apparent amnesia victim who walked into Summerdale police station early yesterday and asked help in finding her baby girl, identified herself later as Mrs. Louise Olson, 29, of 1708 N. Francisco av. Her husband, Barney, a mailman, was notified.

Last Reconciliation

MRS. CATHERINE DU BUQUE.

Altho Harold Du Buque, 34, a radio repairman, was willing to try again, his wife, Catherine, 31, decided yesterday that seven separations and reconciliations in 13 years of married life were enough.

Appearing before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg on a motion for support while her suit for separate maintenance is pending, Mrs. Du Buque said that as soon as she and Harold went back together again after a separation he would hire private detectives to follow her and then they would separate all over again.

Judge Feinberg agreed that another reconciliation was improbable and ordered Du Buque to give his wife $75 to bring their two children, Harold Jr., 11, and Marla, 7, back from Iowa and to move out of the family home at 6833 S. Honore st. At the request of Mrs. Du Buque's attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, a motion for support was continued until the children are back in the city.

RED CROSS FUND OVER 8 MILLION MARK IN DRIVE

Contributions to the Red Cross war fund campaign yesterday totaled $8,016,000, or 71 per cent of the Chicago chapter quota of $11,300,000. Gifts on Monday and Tuesday aggregated $500,000 each day, Martin H. Kennelly, chairman of the drive, reported.

He disclosed that 10 groups in the business division have gone over the top. Those listed to date as having oversubscribed their quotas are: Coal and ice, 104.1 per cent; photographers, 190.9 per cent; dentists, 170.9 per cent; hotels, 118.9 per cent; book publishers and books, 117.8 per cent; millinery, 116.8 per cent; tobacco, 108.3 per cent; bonds, 107.2 per cent; stocks and grains, 106.3 per cent, and mail order, 100.4 per cent.

Kennelly said that 26 other groups have reached 75 per cent or more of their quotas. Mrs. W. McCormick Blair, chairman of the women's special gifts division, reported subscriptions for her section now total $273,000. Only four more days remain until the drive ends March 31.

YUGOSLAVS HOLD BIG FETE; HONOR PEOPLE'S REGIME

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 27.—Military representatives of the United States and England watched with keen interest today as tens of thousands of Marshal Tito's followers celebrated "The Day of March 27," Yugoslavia's newly proclaimed national holiday.

Four years ago today anti-Fascist forces in this stormy little nation overthrew the appeasement government headed by Prince Paul just 36 hours after its ministers signed a pact with the Germans which committed Yugoslavia to a policy of connivance with Hitler.

The Yugoslav ministry of information in a special handout yesterday for foreign correspondents carefully explained today's celebration would be a "spontaneous demonstration of the people's loyalty and faith in that marvelous man, Marshal Tito." The handout went on to take a backhanded slap at those international observers who do not like the direction in which Yugoslavia is heading.

American Jeeps—Red Star.

"Many insults have been heaped on our country in the last four years," it said. "Our people's sacrifice under Tito has been presented as anarchy, civil war or revolution instead of a true people's movement."

Today's celebration was large, noisy, and spectacular. For hours seemingly endless columns of Tito's troops and sympathizers goose-stepped stiffly thru Belgrade's Central square opposite the Hotel Moscow. Each soldier, truck, and piece of heavy artillery wore the red star of Tito's liberation army. It was a peculiar sensation to watch American jeeps roll by, bearing this blood red star instead of the white one of United States forces.

Spectators watched quietly as a long column of medium tanks rolled by later in Belgrade's main square, strung with hundreds of small paper flags of the United States, England, Russia, and Yugoslavia. Youth organizations, whose thousands of members followed Partisan army units past the reviewing stand, shouted their praise of Tito and Stalin, of Moscow and Belgrade, of Russia and Yugoslavia. Dozens of marchers carried large framed pictures, some of Tito, some of Stalin.

In the reviewing stand, in addition to the liberation government and military leaders, were military mission representatives of Russia, England, and the United States. An American lieutenant colonel and high ranking British royal air force officer flanked a stocky Russian general and all three watched solemnly as the parade swept by.

There was a pathetic little drama at the conclusion of the parade. About 30 youngsters, obviously some sort of kindergarten class, struggled along in twos, trying to keep up with the procession far ahead. Each carried either an American flag or a Union Jack, almost the only ones seen in the parade. But the crowds pressed in and the group of youngsters never succeeded in passing the reviewing stand.

BROWNELL LAUNCHES $1,000,000 CAMPAIGN FOR G. O. P. CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—Chairman Herbert Brownell started a million dollar Republican campaign organization today, on the hunt for senate and house seats he hopes will give the G. O. P. control of congress next year.

His plans for a refurbished organization approved by an executive committee, Brownell told a news conference, the party will concentrate on getting back to the polls the 20,000,000 voters who "declared sympathy with our cause" in 1944 congressional races.

The big job, the chairman said, is to lure into the polling booths the 6,000,000 who supported Republicans last year but who didn't take the trouble to vote at all in the 1942 "off year" elections.

The chairman said the executive committee had approved without dissent a $750,000 budget of expenditures for the remaining nine months of this year, adding that this year's funds remain to be raised.

John McCormick of Peoria, Ill., formerly on the NBC sales staff in Chicago, was named director of the committee's radio department.

SENATE GROUP APPROVES 9 AS FULL GENERALS

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The senate military committee today approved unanimously the promotion of nine army officers to the rank of full general.

The action was regarded as a vote of confidence in Gen Marshall, chief of staff. Committee members said the promotions were approved without debate.

Committee action had been delayed for further study after Marshall testified at a closed session March 22.

At that time, Marshall is said to have defended the promotion system and to have urged support of his military policies.

Officers slated for four star rank include Lieutenant Generals Joseph T. McNarney, Omar N. Bradley, Carl Spaatz, George C. Kenney, Mark W. Clark, Walter Krueger, Brehon B. Somervell, Jacob L. Devers, and Thomas T. Handy.

ARMY WILL MAP WAR LOAN DRIVE FOR AREA TODAY

The seventh war loan drive within the 6th service command of the army will be opened with a bond officers' training conference all day today in the Civic Opera building, 20 N. Wacker dr.

Maj. Gen. Russel B. Reynolds, commanding general, announced the conference, which will be attended by representatives of posts, camps and stations within the command, as well as from other war department installations in this area. Speakers will discuss and demonstrate effective methods of increasing the sales of war securities.

Thruout the drive, emphasis will be placed on the pay roll deduction plan for the purchase of bonds, Lt. Arleigh A. Laird, war bond officer for the command, said.

Gaming Tools Are Found, Crowd Flees, Police Lose

Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli yesterday freed Dominick Nuccio, 49, of 1936 N. Clark st. on two charges of keeping a gambling house on the ground that evidence was insufficient for conviction. Detective Kasimer Simons testified that when police raided Nuccio's establishment at 1006 Larrabee st. at 2 a. m. March 11 they found 32 pairs of dice and other gambling paraphernalia and a crowd escaped by jumping out of windows.

NAVY DROPS 72 WARSHIPS FROM BUILDING PLANS

Reduces Its Program by 486,860 Tons.

Washington, D. C., March 27 [Special].—A drastic cutback of the latest navy building program by 72 warships was announced by the navy today shortly after Adm. King, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, said in his yearly report that tho the war is ahead of the navy's expectations, a quick and easy Pacific victory cannot be taken for granted.

The reduction was in the 1 billion dollar "insurance" construction program announced March 6. Seventy-five per cent of this proposed construction was lopped off.

The revised plan reduced a projected new fleet of 84 warships of all categories totaling 636,860 tons to 12 escort carriers of 150,000 tons. Other phases of the navy's over-all building program were not affected.

Question Tanker Need.

It was reported the joint chiefs of staff, who decided upon the warship building cut, are questioning the maritime commission on the need of building about 40 new tankers planned for delivery this year and next.

Most of the ships involved in the cutback would not have been completed until next year. The full project was conceived as insurance against losses as the Pacific battle line nears the Japanese homeland.

The announcement said the change of plans resulted from "general economic considerations, including the most desirable use of man power and material." Several factors figured in the cut. One was the present size of the fleet. Another involved the shortage of steel now hampering war production.

Laborious Road Ahead.

Adm. King's report to Secretary of Navy Forrestal, accounting for navy actions for the year ended March 1, proclaimed the navy's accomplishments of the last 12 months as unprecedented in naval history but warned that "there is a long, tough, and laborious road ahead."

Looking to the post-war period, King said no precise estimate of the number of navy personnel that will be required is possible now because the size of the navy has not been determined. He said the "deciding factor will be the needs of the navy in order to carry out the strategic commitments of the nation."

"It is assumed in all plans now under consideration that many more officers and men will be needed than can be provided by personnel now in the regular navy," he said. "These comprise but 16 per cent of the war time navy.

"Accordingly, serious attention is being given to regulations under which reserve officers may transfer to the regular navy and to the organization of the navy reserve in the post-war period."

No Definite Schedule.

King's report, listing 72 actions in the 12 month period, also covered demobilization plans, the need for continued high production by industry, the presence of a British navy in the Pacific, and the superiority of our weapons.

King said the navy actually has no schedule in the Pacific except to go as far and as fast "as our means in hand will permit."

"It can be said that the war today is far ahead of our expectations of last year," he said.

Calling for "unrelenting support and effort on the home front," King said the navy is deeply grateful to industry for its accomplishments. He said the "magnificent productive capacity of the United States has given us the greatest navy in all history."

Maintain Steady Pressure.

"We have gone ahead rapidly because we have been able to keep steady pressure on the enemy," he said. "It is of the utmost importance that we not ony maintain this pressure but intensify it. There must be no relaxation of the fighting effort, nor of the industrial effort which makes the fighting effort possible. . . . If idnustrial output falls off, the effect will be to prolong the war at great cost to American lives as well as money."

King said a critical need for combat and seagoing officers and personnel still exists and that no demobilization can take place until Japan is defeated.

"When Germany is defeated we will be confronted with the enormous task of transporting men and material from the European theater to the Pacific," he said. "The end of the war in Europe, therefore, will result in a redistribution rather than a reduction of naval strength."

Upholds Battleship Value.

More than three years of war has demonstrated the soundness of the navy's concept of a "balanced fleet" in which airchaft and ships work together as a coördinated team and "there has been no dispute as to carriers versus battleships," he said. New applications of naval gunfire in amphibious operations, as well as in fleet actions, have demonstrated that the battleship is a versatile and essential vessel, far from obsolete, he said.

King said the navy welcomed the arrival in the Pacific of "a strong task force of the royal [British] navy." This force has been placed under the operational command of the commander in chief of the United States fleet "and will work side by side with our armed forces in the common effort against the Japanese," he said. He added that Australian cruisers, destroyers, and attack transports have continued to operate as an integral part of our naval task forces.

Reviewing the warplanes used by the navy, King said newer fighters, including jet propelled types, are in production.

Illustrating the increased use of big guns in pounding enemy island installations before an invasion, King said that from Dec. 7, 1941, to July, 1944 [not including the shelling of Saipan, the navy used approximately 40,000 tons of projectiles, while in the one month bombardment of Saipan the attacking task force fired 11,000 tons of shells.

Now you can see why I don't mind him sitting that way!

AWAIT GAS RULES FOR SALESMEN AND TECHNICIANS

Chicago office of price administration officials will put into effect the new gasoline rationing regulations governing salesmen and technicians as soon as they are received from Washington, Marion W. Isbell, area director, said yesterday.

The new rules, he said, are designed to effect more uniformity among boards in the issuance of rations. They set up a new semi-preferred classification with a maximum of 825 miles a month, the allowance given B card drivers two years ago, and some C card motorists will be forced to take the lower mileage, he said.

The regulations set up rigid tests for persons traveling to war plants to give specialized or technical service, and C rations will be allowed only those whose work is necessary "to the primary function" of such plants, and if paid for by the plant.

The semi-preferred drivers will be those who do not quite meet the C specifications. New restrictions also will be placed on travel by construction or repair men in the advertising and amusement fields, travel to recruit workers, and some other activities. Most of these drivers will be allowed only B rations of 475 miles a month.

Fresh strawberries will be reduced 7 cents a pint to 39 cents under the office of price administration weekly fruit and vegetable ceilings for Chicago, effective tomorrow. Isbell said field cucumbers will be 2 cents a pound lower, and carrots and peas will go down a cent a pound to 8 and 23 cents, respectively. Only increase on the list is for bulk tomatoes, up 1 cent a pound to 31 cents.

MUCH MARRIED TROLLEY PILOT LISTS HIS WOES

San Francisco, Cal., March 27 (AP).—Chubby little Francis Van Wie, 58, convicted last week on three counts of bigamy and suspected of having been wed at least 12 times, took the witness stand here today to argue he must be insane.

He testified briefly of his marriages, and at length of his various illnesses and misfortunes.

Once, the 5 foot 2 trolley conductor said, he fell from a 60 foot smokestack; another time a man knocked him down and kicked him. He had been in the hospital more than 12 times, he said; his heart was bad, he had appendix trouble, and two strokes. He lost his voice for long periods of time.

He said he was 12 years old when first arrested, and was sent to a reform school; he was arrested in Milwaukee, Wis., charged with embezzlement of funds of the Roofers' union, of which he was business agent; he was arrested once for vagrancy.

Finally, listing still other misfortunes, Van Wie asserted he is troubled with loss of memory.

REVERSE RULING WHICH RETURNED GAMBLING ITEMS

State's Atty. Tuohy said yesterday that the Appellate court had reversed an order by Judge Rudolph Desort in Criminal court ordering return of gambling equipment seized in a raid at 5937 Roosevelt rd., Cicero.

The higher court's action was taken on a petition filed by the state's attorney appealing Judge Desort's ruling and seeking permission to destroy the equipment. The opinion, by Justice Grover C. Niemeyer, held that Judge Desort's ruling was in error and that the matter should be returned to the Criminal court for proper order.

Judge Desort had ruled favorably on a petition submitted by Atty. George Crane, counsel for the defendants, after a not guilty finding had been made. Crane's petition pointed out that, since there was no conviction of gambling, seized equipment could not be considered gambling paraphernalia.

Justice Niemeyer's opinion held that roulette wheels—part of the seized equipment—were gambling equipment regardless of the outcome of the owner's trial.

ON THE AIR! "The Listening Post" every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday morning at 9:45 C. W. T. on WLS

THE POST TAKES YOU INSIDE FRANCE TO THE TRIAL OF THE FIRST BATCH OF FRENCH TRAITORS

An unforgettable word picture by an American lawyer who watched the eerie parade of French traitors—witnessed the wholesale dispensing of death.

YOU SIT, unbelieving, in a tense, packed French courtroom. You hear the sentences pronounced like swift strokes of a giant hammer—"Combier . . . the penalty is death! Antin . . . the penalty is death! Baudry . . . the penalty is death!"

You almost hear the crowd's frenzied applause as the death sentence is demanded . . . as death is meted out to Frenchmen who rode the crest of German success—and now stand before the bar of relentless French justice..

Rarely, even in war, does a story with such dramatic impact come to Post readers. You will read it to the last line—and sense the hate and scorn in the hearts of Frenchmen who suffered—but did not betray.

An Exclusive Eye-Witness account—the kind of reporting millions look for and find only on Post pages.

WHY YOUR CHILD ACTS LIKE THAT by Wilbur Schramm

OUT in the Iowa Corn Belt, a group of scientists is studying children playing with dolls—watching them cook the mother doll, fry the daddy doll and flush the teacher doll down the drain. Object: to find out what makes the infant mind tick. You'll know more about why your child acts that way after you've read of this amazing experiment.

WMC DEMANDS FOR JOB RECORD DEFIED AT MOVIE

3 U.S. Inspectors Turned Down by Bookkeeper.

Toledo, O., March 27 [Special].—Three government inspectors visited the Loop movie theater here today and demanded pay roll and employment records as the first step in an effort by the war man power commission to enforce compliance by the theater with the Byrnes midnight curfew.

The theater, owned by Jack O'Connell, has flouted the curfew order since early last week, remaining open until 5 a. m. each morning. Yesterday the war production board ruled in Washington, D. C., that the fixing of employment ceilings by the WMC should precede application of other sanctions in curfew enforcement.

Inspectors who visited the theater were Frank Hessen and George Gang, wage and hour inspectors from Cleveland and Toledo, respectively, and Herman C. Haase, compliance officer for the Toledo WMC office.

Demand Is Rejected.

A bookkeeper at the theater refused to produce records in the absence of O'Connell and the government men left, promising to return.

Ralph O. Snyder, area WMC director, held a closed session today with his advisory committee on war priorities. He said he might have an announcement later and that the committee would discuss clamping a man power ceiling on the theater, which employs seven persons, including two union operators.

From Hollywood, Cal., came the first indication that the government's effort to force the theater out of business by shutting off its supply of film was bearing fruit. Alex Evelove, chief of publicity for the Warner Brothers studio, said he had been directed to announce that the studio has ordered its Cleveland branch to discontinue serving the Loop theater for as long as it was violating the curfew.

Films to Be Stopped.

Evelove said no more films will be supplied the Loop, and that one film in transit is being traced in the hope it can be recalled.

"That film he says is in transit is 'The Doughgirls,'" said O'Connell when he heard of the Warner Brothers move. "I received it yesterday and showed it last night. I will show it again tonight and tomorrow night, as scheduled."

O'Connell said he is unshaken in his determination to appeal to the courts to block coercive measures brought against him by the government. He said he received a communication commending him signed by 150 second shift employes of the Packard Motor company. Previously he received a similar resolution from 139 second shift workers of the Dura company.

Shot Fired at Mussolini by Soldier, Partisan Says

ROME, Italy, March 27 (AP).—A Partisan who crossed German lines from north Italy was quoted by the Rome press today as saying an unsuccessful attempt to kill Benito Mussolini was made recently in Milan. A soldier was reported to have fired a pistol at the former Duce during inspection of troops, but missed.

FINDS BRITONS' MEAT SUPPLIES MORE THAN OURS

OWI's Figures Show How Families Fare.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—The United States office of war information in London today issued a comparison of British and American rationing systems showing that a family of five here is allowed more meat, with the exception of veal roast, than a similar family in the United States.

Considering a British family to have two children under 5 drawing half rations, the OWI said the housewife would have a combined weekly family ration of 93 cents and, in addition, the family would be entitled to a pound of bacon, a pound of margarine, and half a pound each of lard, butter, and cheese.

[Under the fixed price system in Britain adults are limited to 1 pound 4 ounces of meat a week.]

Families' Status Compared.

In an American household of five, with all children drawing full rations, the housewife has a combined family ration of 50 points weekly which covers fats and cheese, as well as meat.

OWI explained that to match the separate British rations for fats and cheese the American housewife would have to use 31 of her 50 points: 6 for bacon, 12 for butter, 2 for lard, 5 for margarine, and 6 for cheese, leaving only 19 for meat, as compared with 93 cents available to the British housewife.

Compare What They Get.

At the prevailing American point values and British meat prices, OWI said, the following amounts of meat could be obtained: Best beef, in the United States, 1 pound 14 ounces; Britain, 2¼ pounds. Cheapest beef, in the United States, 6⅓ pounds; Britain, 7 pounds. Lamb roast, United States, 2 5/7 pounds; Britain, 3½ pounds. Pork chops, United States, 2 pounds; Britain, 2⅓ pounds. Veal roast, United States, 4 pounds; Britain, 2½ pounds.

Altho OWI did not mention it, another factor in the comparison of rationing systems is that meat is always available here to the full extent of the ration.

2 YANKS SENTENCED TO HANG FOR KILLING IN HOLDUP IN ITALY

ROME, Italy, March 27 (AP).—Privates Werner E. Schmeidel, who enlisted at Fort Knox, Ky., and James W. Adams, who enlisted from Oklahoma City, Okla., were convicted today by a court martial of having murdered an Italian civilian in a holdup and were sentenced to death by hanging.

Each man, who had pleaded not guilty, was on the witness stand about one minute. They testified they were intoxicated and that the gun was discharged by accident in the cafe where the slaying took place.

The eight man military tribunal reached its verdict after 20 minutes of deliberation, and took an equal amount of time to fix the penalty. Adams remained stoical, but Schmeidel showed signs of strain.

BRITON CALLS ON U. S. TO SCRAP WAR TIME SHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—W. Nicholas Cayzer, retiring chairman of the Liverpool Steamship Owners' association, today urged America to scrap most of its ships built in war time.

He conceded that the whole fortune of war had depended on America's magnificent shipbuilding effort but asserted that if the huge volume of tonnage, mainly tramp steamers and tankers, is thrown on freight markets after the war, it will make economic sea transport impossible and have a disastrous effect on shipbuilding and shipping industries of Britain and other maritime nations.

PLACED UNDER SUPERVISION.

Ben P. Alezon, 34, of 2222 Sedgwick st., a Filipino, was placed under supervision of the court yesterday when he appeared before Judge Victor A. Kula in Chicago avenue court on a charge of stabbing Joseph Rabitaille, 26, of 1963 Lincoln av., in a theater.

SISTER KENNY'S PROTEST TAKEN TO ROOSEVELT

Minneapolis, Minn., March 27 (AP).—Sister Elizabeth Kenny, who has threatened to leave the United States because of opposition she says was raised to her method of treating infantile paralysis, said today she would consider as a command any suggestion from President Roosevelt that she remain.

The Australian nurse made the statement upon being informed that Rep. O'Toole [D., N. Y.] had asked the President to try to dissuade her from turning over her work to subordinates and leaving the Elizabeth Kenny institute in Minneapolis. She said she had not heard from Mr. Roosevelt.

O'Toole said in Washington he took the matter to the President because it was apparent the impending Easter recess would prevent the house rules committee from acting on his proposal for a congressional investigation of reported noncöoperation by certain doctors in connection with use of the Kenny method.

Mother of 2 Children Raped by Intruders

A 29 year old mother of two children told Lawndale police yesterday that two men entered her first floor apartment Monday night while her husband, a war worker, was attending a movie, and raped her. She told police her room was dark and she was unable to describe her attackers. She said the men were not armed, but that they threatened her with bodily harm, police said.

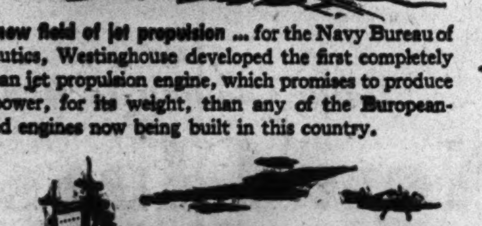
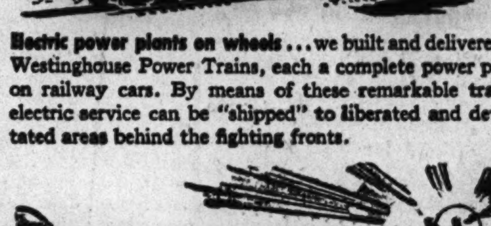
THE YEAR THE TIDE TURNED...

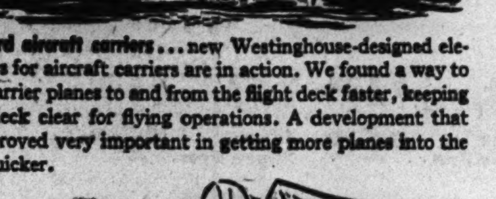
1944 was the year of greatest advance in invention, science and industrial production in world history. Here is a part of that record as written by Westinghouse.



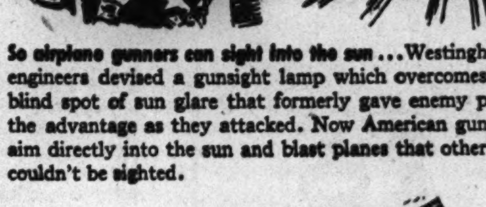
In the new field of jet propulsion ... for the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, Westinghouse developed the first completely American jet propulsion engine, which promises to produce more power, for its weight, than any of the European-designed engines now being built in this country.



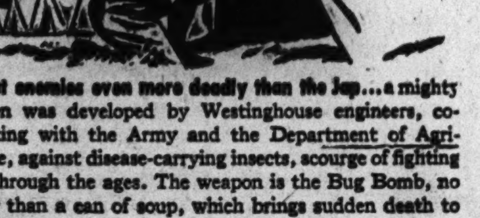
Electric power plants on wheels . . . we built and delivered 34 Westinghouse Power Trains, each a complete power plant on railway cars. By means of these remarkable trains, electric service can be "shipped" to liberated and devastated areas behind the fighting fronts.



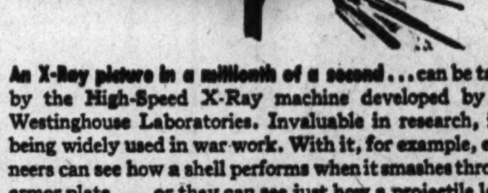
Aboard aircraft carriers . . . new Westinghouse-designed elevators for aircraft carriers are in action. We found a way to get carrier planes to and from the flight deck faster, keeping the deck clear for flying operations. A development that has proved very important in getting more planes into the air quicker.



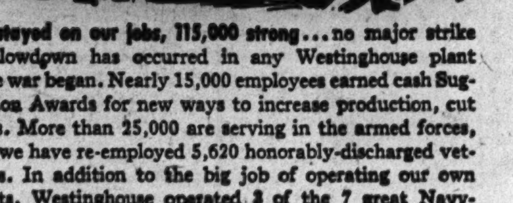
So airplane gunners can sight into the sun . . . Westinghouse engineers devised a gunsight lamp which overcomes the blind spot of sun glare that formerly gave enemy pilots the advantage as they attacked. Now American gunners aim directly into the sun and blast planes that otherwise couldn't be sighted.



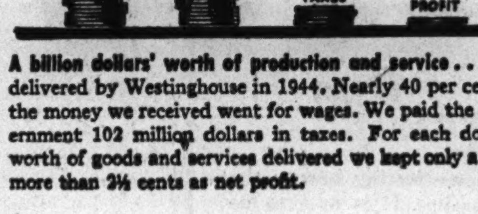
Against enemies even more deadly than the Jap . . . a mighty weapon was developed by Westinghouse engineers, coöperating with the Army and the Department of Agriculture, against disease-carrying insects, scourge of fighting men through the ages. The weapon is the Bug Bomb, no bigger than a can of soup, which brings sudden death to insect pests.



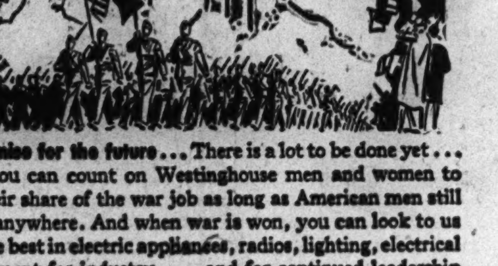
An X-Ray picture in a millionth of a second . . . can be taken by the High-Speed X-Ray machine developed by the Westinghouse Laboratories. Invaluable in research, it is being widely used in war work. With it, for example, engineers can see how a shell performs when it smashes through armor plate . . . or they can see just how a projectile looks as it zips through a gun barrel.



We stayed on our jobs, 115,000 strong . . . no major strike or slowdown has occurred in any Westinghouse plant since war began. Nearly 15,000 employees earned cash Suggestion Awards for new ways to increase production, cut costs. More than 25,000 are serving in the armed forces, and we have re-employed 5,620 honorably-discharged veterans. In addition to the big job of operating our own plants, Westinghouse operated 3 of the 7 great Navy-owned ordnance plants.



A billion dollars' worth of production and service . . . was delivered by Westinghouse in 1944. Nearly 40 per cent of the money we received went for wages. We paid the Government 102 million dollars in taxes. For each dollar's worth of goods and services delivered we kept only a little more than 2½ cents as net profit.



A promise for the future . . . There is a lot to be done yet . . . and you can count on Westinghouse men and women to do their share of the war job as long as American men still fight anywhere. And when war is won, you can look to us for the best in electric appliances, radios, lighting, electrical equipment for industry . . . and for continued leadership in new fields.

TELLS HOW U. S. REJECTED MEAT FROM CANADIANS

Many Thousands of Cattle Turned Down.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27 (AP).—Canada asked officials in Washington and individual American packers last fall to take Canadian beef cattle to help relieve crowded stockyards in Winnipeg, but was turned down, Minister of Agriculture J. G. Gardiner told the house of commons today.

Seeking to correct what he called a misconception both in the United States and in Canada regarding the relative meat supply situation in the dominion, Gardiner said consumption of meat in the United States was now "slightly higher" per capita than in Canada, where it is estimated at approximately 141 pounds a year.

Gardiner attributed any greater hardships in the United States to distribution difficulties.

Easier to Shift Supplies.

He said Canada had only half a dozen large cities and was able to shift supplies readily from city to city to meet regional shortages and assure "a more equitable distribution."

Last fall, when it became difficult to move beef cattle to relieve Winnipeg stockyards, Canada "put the matter up to Washington officials and certain packers in St. Paul and asked them to agree to take so many hundreds or thousands of cattle to be processed," Gardiner said.

The St. Paul packers said they "couldn't handle the cattle," and Canada "had the same information" from the Washington officials, Gardiner continued. He did not name the American officials concerned.

Refutes Olmstead Report.

Gardiner's statement was in reply to a question concerning a news report that Lt. Col. R. W. Olmstead, director of supply for the Commodity Credit corporation in the United States, had told a senate subcommittee in Washington yesterday that "we have made efforts to get large quantities" of meat from Canada, but that Canadian government officials would not permit exports.

The situation prevailing last fall, when storage facilities and shipping space limited the processing and shipping of beef and production was high, may develop again this spring, Gardiner said, but at the present time he said Canada's own processing plants were not fully occupied.

More wheat can be made available for Britain by keeping Canada's own plants busy before exporting cattle, Gardiner said.

WHEAT CHAMP WINS TITLE ON SPRING VARIETY

Jesse Powers, 40, of Henderson, Colo., was adjudged United States wheat champion for 1944 yesterday on the basis of hard red spring wheat grown on his 160 acre farm north of Denver. He received the fourth annual Philip W. Pillsbury award in ceremonies in the Saddle and Sirloin club at the Union Stock yards.

Jesse Powers.

Powers was the third successive first prize winner from Colorado. Second prize in the contest, which included entries from 14 major wheat producing states, went to P. H. Rasmussen of Clarkton, Utah, who showed hard red winter wheat. Special awards were won by Ralph Osborn, Culver, Ind., for soft red wheat; Gilbert Loken, Brocket, N. D., durum wheat, and Eldred Murphy, Salina, Utah, soft winter wheat.

Grain samples in the contest were either first or second place winners in state contests conducted by the International Crop Improvement association, which directed yesterday's judging. Powers received a plaque and cash award and will take an all-expense trip to Minneapolis, Minn., as the guest of Pillsbury, president of the milling company bearing his name. Other winners received plaques and cash awards.

A bronze tablet in memory of Lt. Ganster, pastor of Christ church in Waukegan which raised money for the memorial, said it had a commercial value of less than $5.

Day by Day on the Farm

By GAIL COMPTON

March 27, 1945.

WITH the Hereford steers sold, the Wheaton farm now is in the position where it will not have to buy another beef animal, except an occasional bull, for the Shorthorn or Angus breeding herd. For years it has been the custom to feed out a load of Herefords, but from now on the feeder steers will come from the established breeding herds.

The Shorthorn herd consists of 12 cows, 13 calves, and four yearlings. One cow was shipped recently because it could not be bred. The farm should get five or six Shorthorn steers for fattening from this herd each year. The Angus herd consists of 41 cows, 20 steers, and 20 heifers. The black steers will be fed out to baby beef this year on pasture, and the good heifers will be kept to increase the breeding numbers.

Profitable Production.

This is the practical and cheap method for a midwestern breeding herd to be carried. The job of producing and showing high quality animals that sell for phenomenal prices is not always a safe business. The farmer who plans to have his breeding herd give him steers for feeding, heifers for breeding replacements, and a few animals to sell as breeding stock is the one who usually shows a profit.

A detailed account of the costs of producing feeder steers and breeding calves on the farm instead of purchasing them will be given in a future column. The figures prove that it is cheaper for a farmer to raise his own calves than to buy them from western ranges, providing he has enough pasture.

Four Karakuls Pelted.

Four of the Karakul lambs have been pelted and the skins are ready for the furrier. The tight curly pelts of the Karakuls provide the nation's women with their favorite coats—Persian lamb, Karakul, and broadtail. The lambs are pelted while very young to preserve the tight curl in the fleece. With age, the curl loosens and the rich black color is lost. No more will be pelted, however. Because of the shortage of meat, it was decided the animals would make a better contribution as legs, shoulders, and chops.

The manager will attempt to beat the quack grass infesting the field south of the machine shed by planting checked rows of corn, and cross cultivating. This will enable the cultivator sweeps to work out most of the quack by the roots. After harvest, the cattle may be turned out to graze the field to complete what is hoped to be the final eradication of the trouble in the field. Last year the alfalfa was almost choked out by the pesky weed.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

SEVERAL kinds of vegetables were planted in the main sample garden of the Wheaton farm Saturday morning. The major planting consisted of six 250 ftta rows of peas. Five of the rows were seeded with Little Marvel, a 63 day variety that has been the favored type on the farm for many years. The sixth row was planted to Giant Stride, a 73 day variety that will give a later crop for table use.

Few gardeners require such large plantings of peas, but the practice on the farm is to make a large early planting for growth thru favorable early spring conditions. Most of this crop is frozen for winter consumption.

Other row plantings included 50 feet of Crimson Giant radishes; 100 feet of Simpson leaf lettuce; 100 feet of Crosby's Egyptian beets; 100 feet of Touchon carrots; 75 feet of Bibb head lettuce; 75 feet of Great Lakes head lettuce, and 250 feet of Yellow Globe and White Portugal onion seeds.

PAY PENALTIES FOR VIOLATING MEAT CEILINGS

Two meat dealers charged with over ceiling sales paid consent judgments in federal District court yesterday and were placed under injunction against further violations. They are Reynold E. Anderson of Elmhurst, a distributor by truck, who paid $900 in Judge John P. Barnes' court, and Tony Knutel of Waukegan, who admitted charging retail prices to restaurants and paid $721 in Judge William J. Campbell's court.

Judge Barnes also approved a consent judgment for $1,329 against Al Kaiser and Brothers, fruit and vegetable brokers at 216 South Water market, and Judge Campbell one for $475 against the Joe Macaluso company, at the same address. Both were accused of overcharges on oranges and lettuce in car load lots, and an injunction was issued against each. Judge Philip L. Sullivan entered a consent judgment for $2,137 against the Western Food corporation, 730 Randolph st., charged with over ceiling sales of cheese.

In Circuit court suits were filed against John Cella & Sons, banana wholesalers, 59 South Water market, and the American Grocery and Supply company, 99 South Water market, wholesale grocers.

3 WEEKS IN OPA TOO MUCH FOR BELOIT OFFICIAL

Executive Quits Over 'Confusion, Friction.'

Beloit, Wis., March 27 [Special].—Three weeks as chief clerk of the Beloit war price and rationing board was enough for Guy E. Graybill, 62, who took the job three weeks ago after retiring as manager of a local department store, a position he held for many years.

Graybill sent a letter of resignation today to W. J. Tucker, chairman of the board, stating he has found during his three weeks with the board that he is unable to submit "to the confusion, contradictions, frictions, inefficiency and eventual and inevitable loss of public confidence, with its attendant evils."

Graybill took issue with the office of price administration's "crack-down" policy on small merchants, asserting that technical violations of regulations are unavoidable due to uncertanty over their interpretation.

"During the three weeks I have been in the OPA, the price panel has been in a constant ferment due to the uncertainty of interpretations, which vary in time and place," he said. "The OPA has stated that the time for the education of the merchants is past and that it is therefore fair to assess penalties now, regardless of the nature or extent of the violation.

"That imposes a requirement of infallibility on the merchant," he asserted.

"If the merchant must be infallible, then the OPA must be infallible. Otherwise public opinion will not support the OPA."

Graybill recalled that last month Rep. Lawrence Smith [R.] of Wisconsin's 1st district, said in a public letter to his constituents that the OPA is "drunk with power and is undermining the confidence of the people in it."

"If over-all conditions are identical with conditions in Beloit with respect to the administration and enforcement of OPA regulations, then our congressman has stated a fact which is of vital interest not only to his district but to every community in the United States," Graybill said.

CHICAGO TRANSIT BILLS RECEIVE RIGHT-OF-WAY

Clear First Hurdle; Due for Passage Today.

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—The senate draft of the Kelly-Green traction authority bills received legislative right of way today after they survived a hard fight on the question of whether Chicago suburbs had been properly guaranteed adequate transportation service.

With the first hurdle thus cleared, the bills—introduced jointly by Senators Laughlin [R., Freeport], president protem, and Daley [D., Chicago], Mayor Kelly's spokesman—are scheduled to be passed by the upper house tomorrow. Sponsors hoped the house would pass them next week and send them to Gov. Green for emergency approval.

Two Amendments Beaten.

While the senate adopted 40 amendments, all approved by Daley, the house marked time and did not attempt to advance duplicate traction bills. The program calls for a metropolitan board of four members appointed by the mayor and three by the governor to operate under public ownership the Chicago street car and elevated systems, with financing to come thru sale of revenue certificates.

Daley, on a 25 to 19 roll call, succeeded in tabling an amendment offered by Sen. Bidwill [R., River Forest], who sought to protect the suburbs by stipulating that the authority must maintain the present extent and quality of interurban service and get suburban approval of service extensions.

A group of 19 Republicans voted against Daley on that amendment and were also voted down on another amendment which Bidwill said would protect the suburbs' right of appeal from decisions of the authority.

New Bills Proposed.

House bills introduced included measures for:

Creation of an Illinois labor relations commission modeled after federal Wagner act.

Imposition of a 3 cent a gallon tax on aviation gasoline.

Adoption law amendments similar to those in a bill now before the senate.

Creation of a fair employment practice commission, with a $250,000 appropriation.

Bills introduced in the senate would:

Amend the racing act to appropriate $190,000 to the University of Illinois for promoting breeding of better horses.

Authorize county boards to use 50 per cent of motor fuel taxes on secondary and feeder roads.

"Stay out of the cake! Daughter's asked us over to dinner and I'm taking along this roast and a few other things."

House Subgroup to Hear Hayne-Dimond Vote Case

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—An elections subcommittee headed by Rep. Stansky [R., Savanna] was appointed today by Rep. Allison [R., Pekin], chairman of the house elections committee, to hear the contest filed against Rep. Hayne [D. Ottawa] by Vincent J. Dimond, La Salle Democrat. Hayne beat Dimond by one vote in the 1944 election. The subgroup consists of Representatives McDonald [R., Murphysboro], Otis L. Miller [R., Belleville], Walker [R., Danville], Brands [D., Prairie du Rocher], Garman [D., Urbana], and Downey [D., Joliet].

House Votes Bill to Raise Salary of Court Clerks

Springfield, Ill., March 27 [Special].—A bill by Sen. Connors [D., Chicago] permitting the maximum pay of deputy bailiffs and clerks of the Chicago Municipal court to be increased from $2,500 to $3,500 a year was passed by the house today and sent to Gov. Green. Rep. Rategan [D., Chicago] said that under the permissive legislation the pay rate probably would not be increased past $3,000. To become effective, the proposition must be approved by Chicago voters at a June 4 referendum.

HOPE FOR CLEW FROM WIFE OF SLAIN GARY MAN

Prosecutor John E. Roszkowski of Lake county, Indiana, said yesterday that "we can expect some developments on the slaying of Lawrence Finerty after we have questioned Mrs. Finerty," and added that "two or three suspects" had been questioned but that all had been released.

Finerty, 45, brother of Joseph Finerty, mayor of Gary, Ind., was shot by a lone gunman last Friday morning in front of his garage in Highland, six miles southwest of Gary. Mrs. Finerty, who witnessed the shooting, has been indisposed since the shooting.

Sheriff Fred M. Stults of Lake county, discounting a gambling feud as a reason for the killing, said yesterday there had been no gambling in the county during his term. He said he was working on a theory that the shooting stemmed from a political war, but refused to elaborate

Favor Service Man as U. S. Delegate to Peace Parleys

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—The house executive committee today recommended the adoption of a resolution introduced by Rep. L. C. Harris [D., Granite City] asking that a service man, ranking not higher than sergeant, be among the United States representatives at all peace conferences.

SLUM CLEARING BILLS APPROVED BY SENATE BODY

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—Passage of the Kelly-Green slum clearance bills was recommended today by the senate municipalities committee, and the house municipalities committee was expected to follow suit upon conclusion of public hearings.

Action was postponed on amendments urged by organized real estate interests to hedge public ownership features of the legislation. With leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties in Illinois committed to the housing program, it appeared certain the bills will be passed within two weeks.

Fireworks were provided by verbal exchanges between senators and real estate spokesmen. Morgan Fitch spoke for the Chicago Real Estate board and the Illinois Association of Real Estate boards.

Fitch Opposes "Tax Burdens."

"Insofar as the objective is slum clearance, we support the program," Fitch said. "But when the bills are interpreted as adding more tax burdens upon home owners, creating more public housing and more burocracy, we must oppose certain features."

Fitch was referring to the bill to empower cities to condemn substandard property and to sell, lease, or exchange property "not required for the public purpose of the municipality." He wanted a requirement that cities sell or lease the property at public sale within two years after acquisition.

Fitch also insisted upon changes so that "substandard" would apply only to buildings condemned as a result of failure to comply with city ordinances on safety and health. He would restrict condemnation to cases where at least 200,000 square feet of contiguous land was to be acquired.

Calls for Enforcement.

"Enforce your city ordinances," Fitch said. "Take the profit out of slums and you'll get rid of slums. We think the rest of the job can be done by private enterprise alone."

Minority Leader Daley [D., Chicago], Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, asked Fitch if he would not concede that government should play a small role in housing.

"If it could be kept a small role, yes," Fitch replied. "But under this plan we will find ourselves one day with a whole system of regimented housing."

Sen. Mills [R., Chicago], who will be up for reëlection on the south side next year, declared government must do more than demolish slums. He said private enterprise cannot afford to build on that land which would cost $50,000 an acre compared with $5,000 in the suburbs.

Realty Decrease Told.

Fitch and other real estate spokesmen also opposed a bill to permit insurance and building and loan associations to invest in housing projects.

Despite an increase of 100,000 population, Chicago's real estate valuation has decreased from 7½ billion dollars to 3½ billions between 1930 and 1944, Arthur Krugel, former president of the Chicago Real Estate Board said.

Speakers for organized labor urged passage of the bills without amendment.

AIRPORT AUTHORITY BILL PASSED; AWAITS GOV. GREEN'S ACTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—The airport authority bill, under which some of the larger downstate cities plan to acquire landing fields, was sent to Gov. Green today for his approval when the senate concurred in house amendments.

The bill, frequently amended since its introduction at the start of the legislative session, is a substitute for a 1943 measure found unconstitutional by the Illinois Supreme court.

Springfield, Danville, Rockford, and Freeport are among the cities that have been interested in creating airport authorities with power to levy taxes and issue bonds.

Bill Aimed at Ad Frauds Passed by State Senate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—The senate today passed by a 38 to 0 vote a bill by Sen. Keane [D., Chicago] to penalize real estate and loan companies for using untrue, deceptive, or fraudulent advertising. Keane said his bill provided the same penalties for misrepresentation by purchasers as it does for sellers.

THE QUESTION

Do you prefer men with a little wolf in them or the perfect gentleman type?

WHERE ASKED

Stevens hotel [asked of Boulevard room dancers].

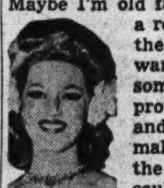
THE ANSWERS

Sandy Maxwell, Palatine—A perfect gentleman usually isn't very entertaining. He's too quiet and reserved. You can't have any fun with some one like that. If a man is inclined to be just a bit of a wolf he gives the impression that he knows what's going on around him, whereas the gentleman . . . Sometimes I wonder.

Georgie Kildare, 1225 S. 59th ct., Cicero—I like a little wolf in men because it's a woman's privilege to say no. From past experience I've concluded that perfect men are boring. Now I said "a little wolf." I don't like the kind who howl all evening and won't take "no" for an answer. They are mean.

Lynne Walker, 4311 Keystone av.—Well, a little wolf I don't mind. Let me think. You say a "perfect gentleman." I can't recall ever having met one so I'm really not the one to make a choice. Most men who pretend to be gentlemen aren't and the ones who are so-called wolves are quite harmless.

Dorothy Kelch, 1721 Melrose st.—Maybe I'm old fashioned but I like a real gentleman. He's the kind of guy you want to see again—some one you can be proud to take around and know he won't be making passes at all the girls. If the wolf could be trusted he'd be all right, but he has the same line for all the girls.



Lee Walker, 4311 Keystone av.—Evenings with a flawless man are like seeing the same movie over and over again. On the other hand—a date with an unpredictable man is exciting. You wonder what's going to happen next. I like to have a man notice that I'm of the opposite sex. It's flattering to me.

Kit Ross, 1511 E. 54th st.—If a man stayed in line all the time and weren't just a little bit wolfish I guess I'd be insulted. I, of course, reserve the right to say no and mean it. I think after the first few dates it's up to the girl whether the man will be a gentleman or not. No man is too old to be trained.

AVERS SCIENCE CAN SPEED OR RETARD PLANTS

The possibility of extraordinary future developments in farming and horticulture as a result of experiments performed in recent years with chemical substances which promote, retard, or otherwise affect the growth of plants was suggested in a talk given yesterday in the Chicago club before the citizens board of the University of Chicago by Dr. Ezra J. Kraus, chairman of the university's department of botany.

He showed slides which contrasted the luxuriant growth of crops which had been treated and the stunted development of those which had no artificial help. He said science now knows how to destroy weeds. He displayed color pictures which demonstrated how bananas could be ripened in the laboratory instead of in the field and he asserted that these bananas were entirely up to standard in flavor and texture.

Dr. Kraus also revealed that in years when spring is early, as it is in 1945, the blooming of plants could be retarded and the danger of damage by late frosts obviated.

FRANCE TO CLING TO RED TREATY AT U. S. PARLEY

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 27.—Georges Bidault, French foreign minister, defined the position which the French delegation will take at the San Francisco conference before the consultative assembly today amid rumors that Gen. De Gaulle himself has decided to head the French delegation.

France's delegation will go to the allied conference April 25 all set to insist upon France's treaty with Russia as an indispensable political bulwark and to demand that the Rhineland must be a French military base if this country is to have any security after British and American troops pull out of Europe. Bidault explained to the assembly:

"Collective security is all right, but the machinery for it is not set up yet. A new war might break out before this new machinery exists, and we might be shot off the world map. That's why we need the Russian treaty, which provides for precise and immediate aid."

France's Way Open.

At another point Bidault said, "The Big Three met at Yalta. That doesn't prevent France from being a great power, too."

Bidault denied France was going isolationist or trying to torpedo the collective security idea, either with its amendments or its regional pact with Russia. He maintained also that the Russian pact was not inconsistent with collective security.

Assails De Gaulle "Pouting."

Communist Maurice Thorez led the cheering for Bidault's speech, but Socialists and rightists also gave him a hand.

Two sharp notes were sounded, however. Communist Florimond Bonte said pouting in international affairs was useless, obviously referring to De Gaulle's refusal to meet President Roosevelt, and Socialist Vincent Auriol reminded the provisional government it was a good thing to keep on terms of friendship with the big powers.

There was no confirmation of the rumors that De Gaulle would go to San Francisco, and composition of the French delegation was not disclosed.

"No Secret Clauses."

LONDON, March 27 [Reuters].—Moscow radio tonight broadcast a statement by the soviet news agency denying rumors published by "a foreign paper" that the soviet French agreement on mutual aid included a secret clause, giving freedom of action to the French in the west and to the soviet union in the east. "There are no secret clauses in the soviet French agreement," the statement said.

ADVERTISING

Is It a Business—or a Profession?

We Think It's Both

AT the time we organized HENRI, HURST & McDONALD, it was felt that we could make an important contribution to the advertising industry.

True, we hoped and expected to make some money, but profit alone could not have long held us together.

To us advertising was—and is—both an art and a business. We like to think of ourselves as "professional" rather than business men, though, of course, we have always known that the best advertising is created by men and women who are well grounded in matters of finance, production, and marketing.

"Merchandising" Takes On a New Meaning

The term "merchandising" is not new. For long it has been—and is—discussed wherever men deal with advertising.

However, we made that word mean something very real to many manufacturers who once thought that the sole function of an advertising agency was to prepare and place advertisements.

We have always held that while good advertising is absolutely vital, there are other important factors which advertising men must constantly take into account.

"First," we said, "you must have a meritorious product and sell it at a fair price; otherwise don't advertise."

"Second," we said, "your own salesmen must be thoroughly schooled in:

(a) Presenting your advertising to your jobbers and/or dealers;

(b) Seeing that the retailer utilizes such advertising and sales helps as we and you prepare for their use—at point of sale."

Again and again we reiterated to manufacturers, "Your merchandise in the hands of your jobbers is not sold; nor is it sold when it rests on your dealers' shelves. Merchandise is never sold until it is in the hands of a satisfied consumer."

To the sophisticated manufacturer of this day, that statement may seem pretty obvious. But we, among advertising agencies, have been outstanding in projecting and following that principle of selling.

Never do we let our customers forget that fact, even momentarily.

Merchandise is never sold until it is in the hands of a satisfied consumer.

The Co-ordination of Selling

Some of our contemporaries have come to agree with our long-held viewpoint that the creation of advertisements is far from the sole function of an advertising agency; some still cling to the theory that if they prepare the ads they have largely done their duty.

At Henri, Hurst & McDonald, we believe that advertising, to produce the most profit for the advertiser, must be closely geared to market research, sales promotion, selling, and point-of-sale co-operation.

Of course, we do not underestimate the importance of creating advertisements that contain plenty of "sell." Suffice to say, we have a well-rounded staff of talented writers—both for radio and for publication advertising. This advertisement is in itself a typical example of our writing.

"Then Why Aren't You the Biggest?"

A leading manufacturer, who later became—and is—one of our customers, once asked us in a half-challenging way, "Well, if you fellows are so darned good, why aren't you the biggest?"

We smilingly said, "Well, we understand that Stradivarius built the finest violins ever created, but we never heard anybody say that he made the most fiddles."

Everything we create for a client is a custom-made operation. Mass production is a great thing for most businesses, but not for ours.

Through choice, not necessity, we have refrained from setting up branch offices in other cities. We operate directly and wholly from Chicago where the men who own this business actually do or supervise all the work; in a world-famed city so centrally located that we can reach any point in the U. S. A. in a few hours; in a city where the very highest talent—writers, artists, lithographers, printers, typographers—is located.

No, we are not the biggest but we are far from being one of the small ones. And we know a wonderful group of successful manufacturers—our customers—who like our way of doing things; who like our service so well that we seldom lose a customer. Our record of holding our accounts is quite the talk of our industry.

Behind each advertising campaign we produce—to be read in magazines and newspapers or listened to by a radio audience or seen on billboards across the Nation—there stands a merchandising and selling plan, geared to the advertising; fitted to a market, built on facts, motivated by our conviction that all sales factors—advertising; promotion, distribution—must move forward as a single selling force. Merchandise is never sold until it reaches a satisfied customer.

WITH WHOM SHALL WE MAKE PEACE?

Hitler and his gang, who show no disposition in the face of incontrovertible evidence to admit that the game is up, will probably be heading for the high mountains or the deep woods before long. In 12 years they have permitted no organized opposition within Germany. The question in the moment of allied military victory then becomes: With whom is peace to be made?

There are a number of possibilities, some of which are suggested by history. Most of the plausible devices, however, are automatically excluded. We cannot deal with an opposition, because none is known to exist. We cannot deal with the custodians of the German parliamentary tradition, because the reichstag since 1933 has consisted of 659 brown shirted Nazis—"the highest paid male chorus in the world." Confronted with this dilemma, Gen. Eisenhower might find himself obliged to make an official announcement that the war was ended, without any opposite number to subscribe to an armistice.

In 1918 Woodrow Wilson refused to deal with the Hohenzollerns. He asserted that a liberalized government without a kaiser was the sine qua non of any peace tender. After the naval uprising at Kiel on Nov. 4 a republic was proclaimed in Bavaria. Berlin and other important cities were taken over by councils of workers and soldiers. The Social Democrats, representing whatever elements of political liberalism there were in Germany, inherited the task of forming a provisional democratic government. On Nov. 9 the last imperial chancellor, Prince Maximilian, handed over authority to Friedrich Ebert, a former saddle maker who, as leader of the Social Democrats, bore no responsibility for the old regime.

It seems unlikely that the same procedure can be followed now. The Social Democrats, the dominant party prior to Hitler's usurpation, were liquidated along with the other old parties by Hitler in 1933. Most leaders of the old parties have probably been purged by now. Only a few leading politicians of the Weimar republic, among them Heinrich Bruening, the last republican chancellor, now a professor at Harvard, managed to get out of the country. Russia's propaganda machine has already begun to inveigh against Dr. Bruening as the possible leader of a new Germany. The clamor is ostensibly directed at his Catholicism, but it may reasonably be guessed that the Russians think that there is a possibility of resurrecting the remains of the pre-Hitler German Communist party as the heir of Hitler.

We have made it a principle not to deal with Nazis, so it is improbable that a modus operandi can be found in the example of William of Orange after he drove James II. from England. When he heard that James had reached France, William faced the difficulty of working out some constitutional sanction for taking upon himself the provisional government of the kingdom. He got around that by convoking the house of lords and forming a house of commons of all members who had sat in commons during the reign of James' predecessor, Charles II., with additional seats allotted to the aldermen and common councillors of London. The tory parliament of 1685 was excluded on the ground that the constituencies had been tampered with. In other words, the conqueror recognized those members of parliament who were favorable to his conquest. This principle could be applied today only if enough pre-Hitler members of the reichstag could be found to preserve appearances.

In both defeats of Napoleon the victors recognized Louis XVIII., the eldest of the brothers of Louis XVI., not because they had any great love for him personally, but because they were resolved to have an end to Bonapartism, because their guiding principle was legitimacy and because they objected heartily to the republic. Napoleon in 1814 at first had attempted to abdicate in favor of his son, but when this was rejected by the allies he abdicated unconditionally. In 1815, after the Hundred Days, Louis XVIII. again returned to Paris, not because the French nation wanted him, but because the bayonets of the victors of Waterloo imposed him on his not very willing subjects.

The example of 1814 and 1815 may appeal to Winston Churchill, a monarchist, who might be tempted to call the Hohenzollerns from outer darkness and accept a prince of that line as head of a government to succeed Hitler. This, however, might be too much to ask world opinion to swallow. There are some unemployed members of the British royal family, among them the duke of Windsor. They have German ancestry, but can be rated no better than dark horses in this competition.

The Weimar government was organized in 1919 and its constitution ratified July 31, only three weeks before Germany signed the peace treaty of Versailles. The new government always bore the onus of the peace terms—a fact fully exploited by Hitler. Whatever government emerges after the defeat of the Nazis runs the same risk. Chances of the development of a republic therefore cannot be rated very high. A coup d'etat conceivably might bring some element representing an approach to liberalism into power. If it does not, the American occupying authorities can consider conducting a general election which would permit the liberal elements of Germany, which might otherwise remain intimidated, to express themselves. Only in this way is it likely that we could foster a regime with which we could achieve some accommodation of views which might hold out the prospect of peace and order.

PUSHING SOLDIERS AROUND.

When both Mr. Roosevelt and War Mobilizer Byrnes confessed that they had no means of enforcing Mr. Byrnes' curfew order, after Mayor La Guardia defied it to help out the café society of Broadway, the army and navy undertook a backhanded sort of enforcement thru their military police and shore patrols in New York. These forces, naturally, could do nothing about civilians, but they announced that no military personnel would be allowed in drinking spots after midnight.

The New York saloonkeepers decided they didn't want the special dispensation granted them by the Little Flower and bars have been closed at 12 o'clock. Nevertheless, the army and navy are continuing their own interpretation of the curfew. They have been invading all-night restaurants at midnight and ordering into the street any soldiers or sailors whom they found eating there, or waiting for food. There is no question of liquor sales, since the bars in these places are closed and only food is served, and no question of violation of the curfew by the operators, since this is permitted by Byrnes' own fiat.

Neither, it appears, is there any question of any genuine military discipline involved. Some bootlicking officers in charge of the patrols seem to feel that this is a way of ingratiating themselves with the burocrats in Washington. They can't push civilians around, so they are pushing soldiers and sailors, many of them on leave from combat areas. Men in military service must, naturally, expect many curtailments of their freedom, but when those curtailments are imposed, not as a matter of discipline, but in order to curry favor with civilian officials, the action is as despicable as it is nonsensical.

THE SLAVE LABOR BILL STUMBLES ONWARD.

Passage by the house of the compromise version of the man power bill shares headlines with the virtual collapse of German resistance in the west, new advances against Japan, and the dismissal of 10,000 workers in bomber plants in Northern Ireland. This latest cutdown of war workers by British authorities followed even larger dismissals in England.

The work or jail bill is hysterically thrust forward at a time when the army and navy are running ahead of schedule. Instead of seeking means of putting more workers in war plants we ought to be considering methods of getting them out before long and finding jobs for them in civilian production, as the British are doing. Germany is thru. The army has repeatedly said that it keeps six months' requirements in its supply lines. Vast quantities of munitions already manufactured for the German war will thus be useless, unless they can be used against Japan.

The contention that war production for one war must continue at the same pace with which we have been producing for two is so silly as to need no refutation. Actually, the most that we can use for a Japanese war, even taking into account the administration's desire to cushion unemployment with needless munitions manufacture, is two-thirds of present production. The rate would vary according to specific items, but 65 per cent is a sane average.

This drive to enslave the American people at a time when every one can see that a major portion of the task is finished stems from two sources. These are, first, the burocrats and chair-borne admirals and generals in the war and navy departments and, second, the totalitarian plotters within the Roosevelt administration. It is only human that some of the generals and admirals should begrudge the end of the period in which their wishes have been omnipotent and they have had first call, without question, on every resource of the nation. They will become less important as we work back to a peace time economy. The sentiment, however natural, is unworthy of them, deserves to be rebuked, and must be corrected.

The military men may not realize what they are doing. The New Dealers do. Whatever denials they may make, the advocates of these measures are no better than disguised Communists seeking to destroy our government and our freedom. Sen. O'Mahoney and Rep. Short, a Democrat and a Republican, respectively, refused to sign the hodgepodge conference report on the bill. The senator called it a repudiation of democracy which would "put leg irons on the men, women, and children" who have won the war for the world in the war plants of America.

It would, as he says, send people to prison, not for violations of clearly written and publicly enacted statutes, but for violation of regulations written behind closed doors, under the color of that statute. One of the provisions gives the New Deal hatchet men arbitrary authority to wreck any business that displeased the administration. The war mobilization director is authorized to fix employment ceilings for any individual plant or business. There is no requirement that his ceilings be uniform within a given industry or equitable between industries. Under this power any industry that displeases the burocrats or any newspaper that criticizes the Roosevelt administration could be put out of business merely by denying it enough employes to function.

Labor organizations and industrial leaders have been unanimous in denouncing the provisions of the bill. They assert that instead of increasing war production it will decrease it, perhaps by as much as 15 per cent. There is only one reason why congress has been asked to enact this tyrannical measure. That is the egotism of Mr. Roosevelt and the thirst of the little minds around him for power with which to subject every man, woman, and child in the country to their slightest whim, and thereby to destroy freedom and free government in the United States. The senate must rebuke this attempt stoutly if Americans are not to become slaves.

One effect of the national curfew is that a great many people do not now hear any ringing in their ears on the morning after the abbreviated night before.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

CASTLES ON THE RHINE.

The tremendous story of the Rhine crossings has been told in the news, thus far, without mention of the ancient castles, whose dismantled towers have given the atmosphere of Gothic romance to the landscape. Our soldiers have seen them, of course, but they may have become blasé to ruins, and the correspondents have kept their noses close to the military grindstone. The castle zone is found at its best between Coblenz and Bingen, which is the most picturesque stretch of the river for natural scenery as well as medieval curiosities.

* * *

The crossings between Coblenz and Boppard, a short distance on a hairpin bend, were admirably placed for castle gazing. Let's take a view of this single piece of Rhenish stage setting. On the west bank, overlooking the entire valley from a steep 'ill, is Stolzenfels, unique because it is not a ruin. The original castle was built in 1244 and destroyed in 1689. It was completely rebuilt in 1836 by a Prussian king, with the city of Coblenz as a heavy contributor to the cost.

* * *

On the east bank, overlooking the tributary Lahn as well as the Rhine, is another fine example of medieval fortification called Burg Lahneck, dating from the 13th century. When the monastic Knights Templars were purged in Europe on charges of heresy, this was their refuge in Germany. The legend of Lahneck runs that the garrison defended the castle until the last knight died.

* * *

South of Lahneck, across a valley, stands Marksburg, towering high above the Rhine. It has been a favorite tourist objective. The visitors could break the steep climb by a halt at the chapel of St. Martin, halfway up the hill, a shrine that dates from 1242.

* * *

Farther south, and within easy view from Boppard across the river, are two ruined castles on the same ridge which are called the Hostile Brothers. Their formal names are Sterrenberg and Liebenstein. Connoisseurs of Rhenish scenery have declared that they mark the most romantic spot along the river.

THE GARDENER.

The stricken Magdalene knelt at the tomb
As that first Easter light began to dawn,
And wept because the shadowed, rock-hewn room
Held not her Lord! Her flooding tears had drawn
Their blinding curtains and she did not know
The figure of the very One she sought!
Behind her, in the morning's misty glow,
He must have touched a budding shrub. "She thought
He was the gardener." Was He not, indeed?
The dewy petals of a flower cling
To His caressing hand. He notes a seed
Has sprouted with the mystery of spring.
The shimmering beauty of Creation's morn
Was with that Gardener of our hopes reborn!

Esther Lloyd Hagg.

The Mouse Tower Tale.

Contributor Tumbleweed calls attention to Longfellow's mention of Bingen on the Rhine in "The Children's Hour," and adds that he has never understood the passage. Well, come into the elementary class in American literature. The stanza runs:

They almost devour me with kisses,
Their arms about me entwine,
Till I think of the bishop of Bingen
In his Mouse Tower on the Rhine.

On an island near Bingen is the Mouse Tower, a curious structure about which there are legends dealing with the cruelty and treachery of an archbishop in the dark ages whose name was Hatto. "They almost devour me with kisses." Well, this Hatto is alleged to have been severely and justly nibbled by rodents in his own watchtower. The legend is grim, but it seemed to give Longfellow a chuckle.

SPRING'S TRUMPET.

O, Earth, awake! Your dim, hushed sleep is over,
The crooning lullaby of rain is done;
The birch in misted green is poised for dancing,
Her cool white limbs are swaying in the sun.

Sound forth, sound forth spring's trumpet clearly!
Let all in liege to loveliness give ear;
O, prodigal with gifts of untold rapture,
Awake, my heart, and greet the blossoming year!

Olga Marie Flohr.

Among the Minor Mysteries.

Why is it that:

When trying to carry on a conversation on a street where there's a car line, the clattering cars run continuously, but when we wait on a cold corner to catch one, they stop running?

After shaving in the dark for two weeks, waiting for the electrician to fix the light switch, he finally arrives, flips the switch, and tells us there was never anything wrong with it?

When we drop some small article on the floor, it completely disappears until our wife walks in and picks it up from right under our nose?

W. L. Hudson.

The best introduction to the spirit of the Rhine comes from the pen of Bulwer-Lytton. In "The Pilgrims of the Rhine," landscape and legend are blended in an account of a trip taken by a group of English travelers. Altho more than a century old, stories like "The Maid of Malines," "The Wooing of Master Fox," "The Brothers," and "Love Stronger Than Death" represent the romantic ideal at its best. H. S. F.

Friend of the Yanks

[Advice and assistance on draft and military questions and problems of dependents of service men and veterans are given here or by mail if a stamped envelope is sent. Personal advice and assistance are given to veterans by appointment.]

P. M. L. asks: "I am a veteran and want to buy a farm to be financed under the G. I. law. If I get a loan to buy the farm do I have to live on the farm? Could I buy this farm in company with a nonveteran?"

All that the law requires is that the farm be "operated" by you and this provision would seem to require residence near enough actually to supervise the operations. A veteran may join with a nonveteran in the purchase of farm property and the veteran's share could be financed under the law, the loan guarantee in such a case being limited to not more than 50 per cent of the veteran's obligation.

N. B. writes: "I have been receiving a family allowance from my husband in the army and it was stopped when he went AWOL. How long will it be before I receive the allowance again?"

The allowance may be reinstated as of the first of the month in which the soldier is restored to active duty. If he has been tried by a court and sentenced, he may be restored to duty or discharged after completing his sentence.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

HEMORRHOIDS AND WHAT TO DO ABOUT THEM.

HEMORRHOIDS cannot be classified as a serious disease, but most sufferers will agree that it is one of the most annoying. There are two sets of hemorrhoidal veins: the internal, lying beneath the membrances of the rectum, and the external, located beneath the skin that encircles the outlet [anus].

Unlike other veins, these structures have no valves and the erect posture of man forces them to support a sizable amount of blood. Thus they may become overstretched, inflamed, thrombosed [clotted], or ruptured. We can understand how an already weakened channel may become infected or injured further by constipation and straining at stool. Occupations in which the individual is called upon to sit or stand for long periods, or in which he is jolted or must necessarily lift heavy objects, may play a part. Anything that increases pressure in the abdomen, such as pregnancy or tumors, may make matters worse. We must also watch for this complication in heart trouble, especially when circulation is impaired.

Should one of the veins in the anal region increase in size, it may project to the outside [prolapse]. For a time it can be tolerated without difficulty, as only vague soreness is experienced. Sooner or later, however, bleeding will occur—slight in the beginning, becoming more copious. This empties the vessel and discomfort disappears until it fills up again. But should the pile become thrombosed, the offending clot can be removed surgically. This procedure is not recommended, however, in the presence of inflammation. Treatment aimed at reducing irritation must first be administered.

In the uncomplicated internal hemorrhoid, distress is rare, altho the passage of bright red blood after a movement is common. But should infection, clotting, and protrusion develop, we will encounter pain, itching, a mucous discharge, and hemorrhage during or subsequent to defecation. Associated with these manifestations may be various reflex disturbances such as indigestion, aching in the back and other areas, nervousness, and irritability. Anemia, from constant loss of blood, may ensue. The internal and the external forms may exist at the same time.

For the simple case which produces moderate itching or burning, cleanliness is of utmost importance. The daily use of soap and water, followed by careful rinsing, will often bring relief. The only permanent cure for the severe type is surgery. When hemorrhoids are skilfully taken out they cannot return because the veins have been taken out. But if the causative factors are allowed to continue, it is possible for others to become involved.

Occasionally it is desirable to employ the injection treatment when operation is contraindicated for the time being. In pregnancy, for example, bleeding should always be controled. The sclerosing liquid will stop hemorrhages temporarily. The injection plan is recommended for those who exhibit heart or kidney disease, tuberculosis, or diabetes. In older persons enough good may be accomplished to permit them to carry on in comfort for many years. Ointments, suppositories, and enemas are merely makeshifts. They cannot cure. Dilators may actually prove dangerous.

If a well trained proctologist is consulted, his opinion on the preferred management should be accepted.

NO SOLUTION.

Mrs. D. writes: I am 55 years old and have been married 33 years. My husband claims that I am always complaining of my aches and pains because I have no children. He wants me to adopt one, and I will then stop paying attention to myself. Is this advisable?

REPLY.

I am against families of your age group adopting children. Rearing youngsters is not a hobby. It is an added responsibility and, in your condition, I doubt if it would be successful. Direct your energies elsewhere.

CHECK NEEDED.

E. F. writes: Can you tell me whether numbness in the left hand and arm, appearing fairly regularly, and a feeling of oppression in the lower chest region are symptomatic of a heart complication? On one occasion, a fairly strenuous walk uphill brought on an attack.

REPLY.

These symptoms warrant a good examination. Conditions causing pressure on the nerves in the shoulder, as well as heart disease, must be considered.

HE ACTS AS IF HE HAD BEEN READING OVER OUR SHOULDER

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Preview.

Maybe this department will be bedridden Easter Sunday. That will be perfectly all right, for we know in advance what the Easter parade will be like. We know because we have been reading the advertisments and the shiny prose of the shiny magazines.

It will be tender, romantic, lovely, gentle, blushing, utterly feminine, pink, pink, pink, and romantically you. It will have The Look. The Look is defined as part clothes, part spring, part attitude [shake well, etc.]. The Look may be all sorts of things. It may be the Look of feet, of lipstick, of the midriff, of the accentuate-the-posterior, or, our favorite, The Look of cotton in the city. This is: "Not the kind that gets off a train and looks up at the tall buildings. But the kind that takes a fine hat and goes to an exhibition." The you look.

Somewhere in among The Look and the you of the Easter parade will be that hat advertised as the somebody'll-buy-you-violets hat. "O, yes, that they will, in that hat," the ad-writer argued defensively in print. "Hat! It's a trap, a snare. It's for making eyelashes under, for being in love in. A bonnet, and veil, and romance. . . ." The advertisment does not offer free mascara with which to make the eyelashes under this promissory note, but maybe the hat buyer knows how.

Somewhere, too, will be many ladies wearing, we hope, the gentle blush that we are told goes with fine embroidered white Easter handkerchiefs. Others, we hope, will be wearing the warm skin tones that set off jewelry touched with pearls [synthetic]. Still others will wear that pink, pink makeup that is so utterly feminine, whispers such lovely things about you, and goes so with your sentimental chalky pastels.

And only one lady, we hope [because it will ruin her Easter if she runs into another lady wearing the same thing], will be wearing that dress shorn of nonessential clutter, infused with an extraordinary feeling for the drama of simplicity. This is the dress with a Sculptured Look. A forthright American Look. A Look of pure lineal beauty that provides magnificent background for sumptuous furs and jewels [real]. This unquestionably is The Look of not being busy which our favorite shiny magazine advocates, altho how you could keep from not looking busy when wearing all those Looks is beyond us.

Surely some one will wear one of those lovable, tubable blouses that are unerring beau-catchers, these, so enchantingly feminine. And some one else will wear that dress which you know, the minute you Look at it, was designed for a beautiful woman with a string of luminous pearls [fake] spilling down the front and a dreamy froth of point d'esprit muffling the etc. And many will wear those nostalgic bits from another era created with typical American ingenuity, the hat tipped imperiously over the brow, the parasol shadowing the face in the most beguiling manner, the dashing twosome of pure silk with all the winking deviltry of a dandy [The Deviltry Look?].

And doubtless many ladies will wear that Easter perfume so elusive yet beckoning that, dimout notwithstanding, he will know her by her fragrance. It is gentle mockery and soft laughter beside a parapet beneath the stars . . . pulse-quickening as the first recognition of love [The Smell-me Look?].

It will be head turning, heart stirring, The Look, The Look, The Look. And after it is all over you can go home and drink the goblet of bubbling, laughing champagne which is as typical of Easter as the new hats or Peter Rabbit. You can then take the tablet which solves the question: "Stomach queasy, uneasy, and upset?" And you can finally twist the radio dial to the program which plugs its product as the "original truly synthetic yarn." Then you can really master that Look of not being busy. This, we are told, takes "smooth splicing of what you already have and what you must find; of what you must eliminate and what you must add."

O, Easter parade! O mores!

HOME COOKING VS. BANQUETS.

Chicago, March 24.—The average housewife is out of red points. The local butcher can't get meat half of the time, and he closes his doors. But, if any one has sufficient money, he may go to the so-called higher class restaurants, night clubs, or hotels and obtain steaks, chops, etc., and no points are required from the patron.

Recently, I attended a banquet where 250 juicy tenderloin steaks, one inch thick, were served for $7.50 a plate. The maitre d' told me that most of this food would be half eaten [liquor cheats the appetite], and that the garbage cans would receive enough wasted food to feed a regiment. He also said that this was a regular occurrence.

If I throw away my red points, quit buying bonds, save my money to go to banquets, and take my local butcher with me [he enjoys fun, too], will I be unpatriotic? Should I ask the OPA to allow more night clubs to open nearer my home, which would give the ODT a break? Or should I stay home and hear the little woman say "We have brains again tonight, darling. No red points, you know"?

WALT SANDS.

OUR BRITISH FOREFATHERS.

Chicago, March 20.—Mrs. E. S.'s letter on Mrs. Roosevelt and the British in our history is very interesting except for one thing. She mentions that our forefathers fought for independence.

The Revolutionary war was not fought between the United States and Britain but between Britain and Britain. It was her own civil war. We, fortunately, became a nation after the outbreak. However, those wise and far-sighted men were still Englishmen fighting Englishmen.

I agree with Mrs. Roosevelt in saying our history books put too much emphasis on the British. They weren't the villains they are pointed to be or we wouldn't have had such men as Washington, Adams, Madison, Franklin, etc.

MRS. E. C.

VETERAN'S WIDOW SEEKS EVIDENCE.

Bloomingdale, Mich., March 22.—My husband, Walter Dale Mefford, who was a member of the First Division society, died Oct. 8, 1944, at Doniphan, Mo., and in order for me to receive a widow's pension I must furnish the veterans administration a record of his first wife's death in 1922, which I have not been able to do, or else an affidavit from some one who had known him a long time. I would greatly appreciate any help.

ELSA MEFFORD.

IMMUNE FROM BOMBS.

Berwyn, Ill., March 22.—One of the largest and most vital Nazi armament centers is the Skoda works in Pilsen, Bohemia, but I have seen no mention of it ever having been bombed by the allies.

Is it so well protected against air attacks, or does it enjoy immunity because of the pounds sterling and/or francs that are invested in it? J. J. P.

MAYBE THEY'RE WORKING FOR THE OWI.

New York, March 18.—If there is a man power shortage, why don't they get after these men who waste their time here in Union square, praising the soviet union and denouncing what they call "Middle-Western Isolationism?"

DISGUSTED VETERAN.

THAT WOULD STOP PROTESTS.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., March 22.—Here's hoping the tightening belt won't slip up to our necks. MRS. HARRY HOLGER.

THE VETERANS' FUTURE.

Chicago, March 22.—March 15, 1945, was the 26th birthday of the American Legion. It was my privilege to be a delegate to the Paris convention with Col. Milton J. Foreman and Col. Abel Davis, representing the 33d division. My companions are deceased, and therefore I am the last survivor of that memorable assembly from the Illinois division.

It is fitting that the Legion should "spearhead" the task of rehabilitating the returned veterans of World War II. and, with the experience gained in refitting our own comrades after the 1917-'18 war, it is certain that the problem will be intelligently and successfully handled.

We must establish the future of the service men in industry and business life by building upon the educational and former background and training of these men and not commit the error of the former after war period by attempting to train and place them in positions which they are incapable of filling, thus destroying their morale and discouraging their efforts.

Service men must not be made the subjects for political exploitation by racketeers. Therefore the American Legion and other service men's organizations must accept the task of refitting their new comrades for peace time pursuits and secure for them the full benefit from existing legislation.

JOHN V. CLINNIN.

"OPTICAL ILLUSION."

CHINA-BURMA-INDIA THEATER, March 1.—I received a clipping of a letter you printed in your paper Feb. 11 called "The Major Got Cigarets." In it Maj. J. L. Blass Jr., now in the States, said there was no shortage out here. Is the major back in the United States because of poor eyes? If he was at this base, he wouldn't see three or four cartons of cigarets in a month, unless it was on the shelf of the P. X.

We are allowed two cartons of cigarets a month. If we smoke cigars, we're allowed one box a month. The fellows here hope the major a speedy recovery from his case of optical illusions.

MORALE DEPT.

WANT THEIR BOMBER NAMED.

Muroc, Cal., March 19.—We members of a bomber crew have been trying to acquire a name for our ship. We would like John Q. Public to send us some picturesque names. SGT. R. F. AHILL.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

HEALTH EXAMINATION.

Chicago, March 27.—Will you please give me the health examination requirements of the states surrounding Illinois? H. W.

The requirement of the health examination has the almost unanimous approval of informed persons. If one of the parties proposes evasion of this salutary requirement, even on plausible grounds of economy or secrecy, it is a basis of suspicion that such party would not pass the examination, and hence is a reason for the other party to talk with a doctor as to the seriousness of the risk.

We are reluctant to assist in a proposed evasion of the Illinois requirement. If you feel that your facts are exceptional, please state them. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WHEN THAT G. I. MARCHES HOME, LET HIM TALK!

Two Tell How to Treat Returned Vet.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—A couple of G. I.'s, ignoring the request of the freedom-talking government to keep off the grass, stretched out on the capitol lawn today and were very sad. They were, they said, having family troubles.

One had been away 23 months and the other 27 months, and all that time they had been dreaming of coming home. Now they were home to discover they were out of touch and, as the 27 month veteran said with remarkable restraint in choice of words, "It is awful.'

"My family won't let me talk," he said. "They think I have been thru a nightmare and ought to forget it."

"You don't suppose some people in these big marble buildings who think they know everything have been putting out advice?" the 23-monther said.

They Offer Their Brand.

Should that be the case, these two G. I.'s drew up their own advice list. It is:

1. Let the guy talk if he wants to. He has been talking war for years. It's about all he knows to talk about. Virtually all soldiers enjoy talking about their experiences. It makes them feel like returning heroes.

2. Learn all you can in advance about where he's been and the battles he's been in. Don't make the horrible mistake about sympathizing that it must have been awful cold in New Guinea up there in the Aleutians.

War He Fights Is Rough.

3. Remember that war is rough and a soldier resents having you pretty it up. Don't ask him what he did for recreation, which U. S. O. show he liked best—if he was in the Southwest Pacific he probably didn't see any—or wasn't it fine that the army had developed dehydrated potatoes, eggs, milk, and other things so he could eat just like at home. He sleeps either on the ground or on a cot and he doesn't have to worry about washing sheets because he doesn't have any.

4. Stay away from abstract generalities. The soldier's life has been full of many small hard facts. He's out of the habit of talking seriously about such things as fighting for freedom. Why, look, he can't even sleep on the capitol lawn.

CHARGE FRAUD TO EVADE DRAFT TO 6 EXECUTIVES

New York, March 27 (AP).—E. E. Conroy, agent in charge of the New York office of the federal bureau of investigation, today announced the arrest of five executives of firms classified as nonessential on charges that they fraudulently kept deferred draft classifications obtained by working only a few months in defense work while they retained their executive positions. The personnel manager of the defense plant where they had been employed also was arrested.

Those arrested were Irving Weintraub, 36, personnel manager of the Universal Camera corporation, where the five men were employed in the fall and winter of 1943-'44; Murray Haberman, 30, manager of a doll manufacturing plant; Leslie Murray Wain, 31, buyer for a jobbing company; David Harold Sieback, 37, advertising manager of a resident buyer concern; Meyer Weiss, 35, an attorney and secretary of a toy manufacturing concern, and Irven Jerome Tolk, 36, of New Rochelle, N. Y., sales manager of the toy manufacturing concern which employed Weiss.

Conroy said the five executives earned between $10,000 and $20,000 annually, except Haberman whose earnings approximated $3,500 a year. He said they worked for the camera company for $20 to $30 a week and earned draft deferment.

STEAL WAR BONDS AND STAMPS.

War bonds and stamps with a face value of $321, a diamond ring, a silverware set, and $130 formed the loot in the burglary of an apartment at 3406 Franklin blvd., Joseph Zelenka, the occupant, complained to police yesterday.

'SUGAR QUEEN' IS NOW ON AIR ACROSS RHINE

War Reporters Like Army Station.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Jig Easy Sugar Queen has crossed the Rhine, too. Sugar Queen, in case you don't recall, is station JESQ, the portable short wave transmitter of the army's signal corps, which has been a mouthpiece for American war broadcasters at the front lines ever since D-day. [The signal corps assigns words for each letter so that there may be no mistakes when station identifications are given.]

Sugar Queen made the dash across France and then followed the troops into Aachen last fall. James Cassidy of station WLW, Cincinnati, O., made the first broadcast from German soil thru this station.

On Monday John McVane of NBC disclosed that Sugar Queen was on the east side of the Rhine, across from Remagen. In a broadcast described as the first from over the river McVane said: "Now you're going to see a very fine race for the honor of joining forces with the Russians. I place my bet on the 1st army."

JESQ stands high in the affection of many war reporters. W. W. Chaplin, who covered Normandy and moved into Cherbourg with the mobile station, dedicated his new book, "The Fifty-Two Days," to the radio veteran. As in earlier days, JESQ's signals are sent first to London, then amplified thru retransmission to New York for American networks.

The Northerners, just about Chicago's oldest musical program, will give a combination spring and Easter broadcast over W-G-N at 9:30 tonight. The Northern Trust company's mixed chorus will join the regular company for this program, with Lois Wallner as soloist and Harry S. Walsh as director. Kathryn Witwer will become the regular soloist, beginning April 4.

A total of 112 applications for commercial television stations have been filed with the federal communications commission, a survey just released by the Television Broadcasters' association discloses. No action on these requests is expected until the war is nearer an end. The association reported that the applications came from 31 states and the District of Columbia. In addition, applications are pending for various experimental television stations. These include stations designed for network relay purposes.

While Nancy Martin is honeymooning, guest soloists are taking her place on the Breakfast club. The girls to be heard the rest of the week are: Today, Gene Williams, Minneapolis, Minn.; Thursday, Elvera [Virginia Ruppel], Buffalo, N. Y.; Saturday, Martha Wright, Seattle, Wash. Friday's soloist is yet to be chosen.

Slaying Inquiry.

INDUSTRY PUTS FLAG SHORTAGE BLAME ON WPB

Headquarters of the National Flag association in New York yesterday supported Chicago manufacturers who on March 23 predicted that because of war production board bungling there will not be enough flags Memorial day to decorate all the graves of American soldiers and sailors buried in this country.

A spokesman for the association, representing 14 of the nation's largest flag manufacturers normally employing 5,000 workers, said the industry would be unable to manufacture any new flags for grave markers because of inability "to get to first base with the Washington, D. C., agencies."

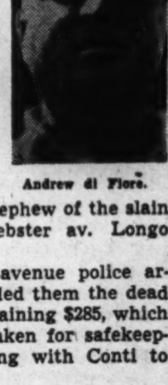
The spokesman said the flag makers had been unable to get a single yard of wool bunting for months, and added that WPB priorities for cotton print cloth, from which grave markers are made, "aren't worth the paper they're printed on."

SAILOR'S PAPERS, TICKET STOLEN.

Burglars who broke into the home of Harold Hewson of 5640 Ozark av., a sailor on leave from Sand Point, Ida., took his leave papers, his return ticket, a wrist watch, and pen and pencil set, he reported to police yesterday.

GROCER FOUND SLAIN BY SHOTS IN APARTMENT

Andrew di Fiore, 57, of 1125 Webster av., former grocer was found shot to death yesterday in the kitchen of the apartment of his brother-in-law, Lawrence Conti, with whom he lived. He had been shot twice in the back of the head.



Andrew di Fiore.

The killing was discovered by Conti, who ran to the grocery of Joseph Longo, a nephew of the slain man, at 1113 Webster av. Longo called police.

When Hudson avenue police arrived, Longo handed them the dead man's wallet, containing $285, which he said he had taken for safekeeping after returning with Conti to the apartment.

Capt. Patrick O'Connell said Longo was placed under a peace bond some time ago in Municipal court after Di Fiore accused Longo of threatening him with a gun. Di Fiore owned the building in which he lived and that in which Longo's grocery is located. He was reputed to be moderately wealthy, but for part of the year worked as a produce broker.

Capt. O'Connell said Di Fiore had taken action to evict Longo from his grocery and that Longo had filed suit for an accounting of $7,000 he said he gave Di Fiore to invest for him.

The coroner's office sealed the Di Fiore apartment last night and a policeman was placed on guard, after Fred Butel, 235 N. Lavergne av., a chief clerk for the Chicago and North Western railway and friend of the dead man, told police he understood Di Fiore had more than $15,000 concealed. Butel said Di Fiore distrusted banks. Search for the money will be made today.

HALIFAX COYOTE CHASE STIRS UP A HORNET'S NEST

Washington, D. C., March 27 [Special].—Indignation has been aroused by the "royal" hunt recently staged in Oklahoma for British Ambassador Halifax, Rep. Schwabe [R., Okla.] asserted today in a statement. He noted that 11 airplanes were used to spot coyotes for the Englishman and his party of "some 60 persons" including "the governor of the state and other notables who accompanied his lordship."

"This was unusually spectacular and the subject of much adverse criticism," Schwabe said, "because of the strict rationing of gasoline among citizens of Oklahoma, many of whom rather indignantly watched and read of the royal hunt.

"It was probably even more irritating to faithful workers in the war plants and industries of the country who have to beg for their gasoline rations. How will it sound when truly reported to the men in the armed forces?"

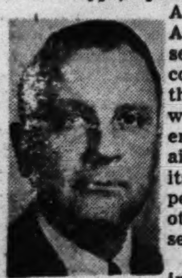
UNIFY OVERSEAS AIRLINES, TRIPPE URGES SENATORS

Competition Will Cost Leadership, He Says.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—Juan Trippe, president of Pan-American World Airways, told the senate commerce committee today the United States will lose its leadership in world air commerce if its air lines compete with each other for overseas traffic.



Juan Trippe.

Trippe testified in favor of the aims of a bill introduced by Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.], which would consolidate all American overseas air traffic in one company. This so-called community company would be composed of all American air lines able to join the enterprise.

"To divide our strength, to force American air companies to compete with each other as well as against the foreign air line monopolies," Trippe said, "is a guaranteed way to turn our air leadership over to foreign nations—just as we have lost our leadership on the seas and in international communications."

Monopolies Overseas.

Foreign nations fighting for the world's post-war air leadership, Trippe said, will each be represented by its own monopoly company.

Trippe said there are but three choices in international air policy for this country: Government controled competition of the American lines, a zone system under which each American line would have its own section of the world to serve, or the community company plan.

Competition among the American lines, he testified, would mean either higher rates caused by duplicating costs, or higher taxes to pay the subsidies required to meet foreign monopoly competition.

Cites Steamship Policy.

The American maritime policy, Trippe told the committee, has not placed American steamship companies in competition with one another, but has assigned exclusive routes to each company with one exception.

Trippe attacked the proposed consolidation of American Airlines, Inc., with the American Export Airlines.

"This consolidation," he said, "would put the largest domestic carrier in competition with Pan American, which would be confined to whatever share it could get of the much smaller international traffic."

Suggests a System.

Trippe suggested, as an example, that the merged company might operate thru the United States, via Scandinavia, to Russia. He said American competitors of the merged line would be forced into making an alliance with the Russian air line operating on the same route, since the Russian line would not deal with its competitor but would give all its business between its American terminus and American interior points to the other American lines.

"There is no question," Trippe said, "that a substantial part of domestic traffic originating in the United States for overseas travel would feed east bound to the Russian air line. You would have an effective partnership between the Russian line and our domestic air lines, other than the one operating overseas. The merged American company would be relegated to a very inferior position."

Atty. John Owen yesterday offered $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of George Soeder, 48, fugitive defendant in 16 federal automobile theft indictments and alleged head of a stolen car ring. Owen is attorney for Mrs. Tillie Solomon, 1310 Jackson blvd., who put up the five story building at 5709 Clark st. as security for Soeder's $16,000 bond, ordered forfeited last week when Soeder failed to appear before Federal Judge William J. Campbell.

FILIPINOS ASK CONGRESSMEN FOR CITIZENSHIP

The Filipino Guerillas of Bataan association announced yesterday that it has circularized congressmen asking support for a house bill which would grant American citizenship to nationals of the Philippine commonwealth. The letter asked congressmen to "have compassion on those who survived the Japanese occupation, at least upon those Filipinos who now reside in the United States." It was signed by Jay J. McCarthy, commander; Peter V. Raiz and Rudy Luciano, vice presidents, and Juliet Raiz, treasurer.

Tenders Set Up Buoys for Lake Ship Lanes

Two buoy tenders—the Hollyhock and the Hyacinth—manned almost entirely by returned veterans of overseas service, have begun setting in Lake Michigan the huge lighted buoys which were removed for winter overhauling, the coast guard announced yesterday. The buoys mark channels, obstructions to navigation, and anchorage areas, including special anchorage for explosive cargoes. Surveys also are being made of the scores of smaller buoys which may have drifted off station during the winter.

'JET' HARNESSED TO HEAT COCKPIT OF AIR FIGHTERS

Lighter Engine Adds to Maneuverability.

Schenectady, N. Y., March 27 (AP).—A new jet aircraft engine, most powerful in the world, warms the pressurized cabin of the army air forces Lockheed P-80 as it drives the propellerless fighter thru the substratosphere faster than any other plane.

The pilot sits in relative comfort, without heavy clothing, even in subzero temperatures, officials of the General Electric company, which developed the engine, said today.

The warm air flows from an impeller-compressor of the jet engine into the inclosed cabin, where "pressurization" enables the pilot to breathe normally at altitudes of six miles and more without an oxygen mask.

Weight Relatively Light.

The jet is installed in the fuselage of the P-80 Shooting Star, between the cockpit and the tail. Its light weight in relation to its tremendous power contributes to maneuverability of the plane.

The new engine has 10 per cent of the number of moving and removable parts of the conventional airplane engine and can be removed and replaced in a P-80 in a matter of minutes.

The engine operates on a simple principal—air rams into vents in the front of the plane's wings and funnels into the engine, where it is compressed by a swiftly revolving impeller.

Fuel Boosts Velocity.

The air is then whipped to a combustion chamber where fiercely burning fuel, usually kerosene, expands it and increases its velocity.

The air and gasses then pass thru a turbine wheel, whirling thousands of times a minute at a temperature of 1,500 degrees or more. The blast passes out of the jet exhaust at the rear tip of the plane, giving the plane its forward thrust.

The jets are in production for the AAF at the Syracuse plant of General Electric and also will be manufactured by the Allison division of General Motors.

DEATH TERMED SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of William T. Graham, 28, of Kansas City, Mo., who leaped to his death Monday night from the 13th floor of the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 S. Wabash av.

ELECTROCUTED ON JOB.

Samuel Thompson, 54, of 11106 S. Sacramento av., was electrocuted yesterday while working as a grinder in the Atlas Iron Works, 351 W. 59th st., said Lt. William Fitzgerald, of fire department rescue squad No. 5, who worked over the victim for 30 minutes but failed to revive him.

HOMEWOOD ACTS TO CURB BLASTS; MAY SUE QUARRY

Plans for an injunction suit to restrain blasting at the Thornton stone quarry, operated by the Material Service company, were outlined last night at a meeting of 50 Homewood property owners in the Homewood village hall by Frank P. Cowing, Homewood village attorney.

Property owners have complained that the blastings shake their houses. Forms containing space for reports of damage to individual homes were passed out at the meeting.

The forms are to be filled in and filed with the village clerk by Tuesday, and will be used as the basis of an injunction action if the facts disclose sufficient ground, it was explained.

"in a few minutes the room smelled clean and sweet"

Mrs. Leah Binder, 83-09 Lefferts Blvd., Kew Gardens, New York

"Saturday evening," writes Mrs. Binder, "I had a group of women playing cards at my home. The room was thick with smoke and very stuffy. I ran down to the corner store and bought a bottle of air-wick,* opened it and pulled out the wick. In a few minutes it was amazing how clean and sweet the room smelled. air-wick sure does wonders." **

IS LIGHTNING ? ZIG-ZAG

YES NO

Old Jupiter's lightning was Z-shaped. Today's lightning-fast cameras prove that it really flashes beautiful curves. Shows how weather bears watching, and now in Spring, so does the car that must last you! It's time to drain unfit Winter oil, and you'll get far more than an oil change by having your engine's insides OIL-PLATED.

All you need is Conoco N^th motor oil to bond OIL-PLATING direct to working parts—really a built-on layer of lubricant. This special wear protection—a great research achievement—is surfaced to metal by Conoco N^th oil's strong "power of attraction." And N^th oil provides liquid film, too—of the toughest kind.

OIL-PLATING and oil film are both fighting wear every mile. Then after stopping, when acids want to gnaw any engine, they're curbed by OIL-PLATING—the foe of corrosive wear!

What a big lot of safety from wear! . . . to stretch engine life . . . to make oil and gasoline last . . . to minimize carbon and sludge . . . to help power! Yet Conoco N^th oil costs little more. Fast as lightning, change for Spring. Continental Oil Company

VINCENT BENDIX, AUTO INDUSTRY PIONEER, DIES

Sponsored Air Races and Glider Meet.

New York, March 27 [Special].—Vincent Bendix, 62, inventor, industrialist, and once Chicago's most spectacular real estate operator, died of coronary thrombosis at his home here today.

Vincent Bendex.

A small town Illinois boy who ran away from home at 16 to seek his fortune, Bendix had a fabulous career that brought him great wealth and international acclaim for the mechanical inventions with which his name became synonymous.

A pioneer in the designing and building of automobiles, he invented the Bendix drive which made self starting of cars practicable and is estimated to have been used on more than 65 million cars.

Founded Aviation Firm.

He introduced in the United States the first volume production of four wheel brakes. Mechanical devices from his factories are being used in many other machines thruout the world. Few American airplanes, as well as automobiles, are without some of his devices.

Equally prominent in the field of aviation, he founded the Bendix Aviation corporation and was president of Bendix Helicopters, Inc. After years as head of the aviation firm bearing his name, he severed his connection with it in 1942.

He was the founder and sponsor of the Bendix transcontinental air race and donor of the Bendix trophy. He also sponsored the international glider meet at Elmira, N. Y.

Bendix won and lost fortunes from automotive and airplane parts inventions and in Chicago real estate. As he moved from one vast development to another, he often remarked that "business is only a collection of ideas and you must keep getting a new idea."

Bought Palmer Mansion.

Before the depression of the early '30s he was a prominent Chicago clubman, art patron, and traveler. He bought millions of dollars worth of Chicago "gold coast" property, including the famous old Potter Palmer mansion and a square block south of it.

He planned at various times to build a $25,000,000 hotel in Chicago, to erect there a Buddhist temple complete with vestments and decorations used in Chinese temples, and to carry out other expansive construction ideas.

But in 1939 he went into personal bankruptcy, listing $14,000,000 liabilities and assets of slightly more than $1,000,000. The bankruptcy action was taken by Chicago holders of real estate bonds he had personally underwritten more than 10 years before. His attorneys attributed the collapse of his personal fortune to his Chicago real estate deals in the booming '20s and his heavy losses.

Bendix was born in Moline, Ill., of Swedish descent, the son of a minister. After running away from home, he worked at various menial jobs but studied mechanics and soon began to develop his inventions.

Backed Explorer.

In 1922 he married Elizabeth Channon. They were divorced in Chicago 10 years later.

During the '20s Bendix backed the expedition of Sven Hedin, explorer, to Mongolia and in 1929 he and Mrs. Bendix visited Sweden for King Gustaf V. to confer on the American industrialist the title of knight of the Order of the North Star.

In 1936 he was made a member of the Legion of Honor by the French government in recognition of his interest in the social and economic relations of employes of the Paris plant of the Bendix Aviation corporation.

TOUHY SEEKS FREEDOM ON FEDERAL WRIT

Roger Touhy yesterday filed a petition in federal District court for a writ of habeas corpus to effect his release from Stateville prison, where he is serving a 99 year term for the kidnaping of John [Jake the Barber] Factor. Touhy's petition charged that the kidnaping was a ruse, engineered by Factor to thwart efforts to extradite him to England to face trial for fraud. Touhy was convicted in Criminal court Feb. 24, 1934. The case was assigned to the court of Judge William J. Campbell.

Home Sues to Curb City on License Enforcement

Father Basil's Lodge, Inc., 5749 Woodlawn av., where 25 elderly men contribute part of their pensions to help maintain themselves, yesterday sued in Superior court to restrain the city from enforcing its licensing provisions. The nondenominational home cannot qualify for a license because it does not conform to city building ordinances. Father Basil, a Russian orthodox priest, was fined $200 and costs by Judge Erwin J. Hasten in License court last week for operating the home without a license.

OUST CHAIRMAN OF CICERO FIRE, POLICE BOARD

Arthur J. Thyfault, chairman of the Cicero fire and police commission, was fired yesterday by Henry J. Sandusky, president of the Cicero village board, who said Thyfault had been engaging in politics in connection with the village election April 3. Thyfault is a Republican. Sandusky is a Democrat.

The action followed charges made at the village board meeting March 19 by Edward Cepak, a board member, that pressure was being brought to bear on firemen and policemen to support various candidates. Forty policemen and 35 firemen will be eligible for promotions after May 1, the beginning of the village fiscal year.

The board named a committee headed by Leo Kaspuski, another board member, to investigate. The committee reported to a special board meeting yesterday at which a quorum was not present.

Sandusky did not make public the committee's report, but after the meeting, he wrote a letter dismissing Thyfault, who has been chairman of the fire and police commission since 1943.

42,000 WARNED TO HOLD BACK ON THEIR TAXES

Forty-two thousand Cook county taxpayers were warned yesterday by County Treasurer Schlaeger that, if they want the benefit of assessment reductions granted them last year, they should pay only the first instalment of 1944 real estate taxes on or before May 1.

The 42,000 were among 65,000 who asked the county board of tax appeals to reduce their assessment for 1943. The board granted about 47,000 cuts. Only about 5,000 of these, however, were entered on the 1944 assessment rolls and the 42,000 other properties were left with the same valuations as in the original 1943 rolls.

County Assessor Clark explained that the appeals board was late in making its certifications for the 1944 tax assessment. He said that his office was studying the 42,000 cases and would present to the board a blanket resolution requesting that the 1943 cuts be restored.

Isbell also filed suit for damages and an injunction against Thomas Shampay, owner of the East Chicago Cleaners & Dyers, alleging overcharges of 5 cents on each garment at wholesale rates.

Judge John P. Barnes approved a consent judgment for $877 and issued an injunction against the Alon Radio company, 3924 Lincoln av., covering overcharges of $2.40 to $17.20 on assembled combination radio and phonograph sets.

CHICAGO SCHOOL PAPER SALVAGE BREAKS RECORD

Chicago's public schools broke all previous records by collecting 4,113 tons of waste paper in drives that ended last week, school officials said yesterday. An additional 175 tons is expected—from two high schools collecting today and from one that has not yet reported last week's collection.

Elementary schools, which held a five week campaign, collected an average of 1,300,270 pounds of paper each week. Their best previous mark was an average of 1,081,000 pounds a week in a six week drive that ended last month, Don C. Rogers, assistant superintendent of schools, reported.

Thirty-six high schools reported a total of 1,726,000 pounds collected in one day campaigns, breaking the record set in January, when 1,470,000 pounds were collected. Taft and Senn High schools will make their collections today.

RECORD MARCH HEAT MARK SET: MERCURY 81.8°

Despite the housing shortage, special five month leases were made out yesterday by Mrs. John Heinze, of 110 Interocean av., South Chicago Heights, for the first of the city's most eagerly awaited signs of spring—the purple martins.

A reconnaissance group of five for the species, hundreds of which will arrive from now thru April from a winter in South and Central America, took up residence on the warmest March 27 in the history of the Chicago weather bureau. The purplish-blue birds arrived two and a half weeks ahead of nature's schedule. They usually appear in the Chicago area April 15, to remain until early September.

The temperature at 3:15 p.m. was 81.8 degrees, the highest for any March day in Chicago history. Winds reached a velocity of 38 miles an hour.

Horticultural Society Takes on New Life

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Chicago Horticultural society, which was organized Oct. 1, 1890, is being reorganized as the Chicago Horticultural Society and Garden Center and will come to life at a day long program and luncheon April 7 in the La Salle hotel. War gardeners who are turning the soil in small city plots, as well as other gardeners, and even those who wish they had gardens are invited to hear the program speakers. Reservations for a luncheon at noon are limited to 500, however.

Martin A. Ryerson, Harold F. McCormick, Charles H. Wacker, Clarence Buckingham, John J. Mitchell, Frank O. Lowden, Philip D. Armour, and other men whose names were associated with Chicago's growth and progress were among the founders of the society, whose charter was canceled by the state for failure to file annual reports in 1937. Some of its special objectives in its revived form are to foster widespread interest and activity in every field of horticulture, to crystallize the popular interest in war gardens, and to provide the means for perpetuating this interest in Chicago and the suburbs after the war.

Laurance H. Armour, one of the trustees, will miss the April 7 events, as he is in Texas. The luncheon speakers will include E. L. D. Seymour of New York, George Pring, head of the Shaw Gardens in St. Louis, and E. J. Condon, president of the National Victory Garden institute. One of the afternoon speakers will be Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, who will discuss flower arrangements, using blooms from her own garden as illustrations. She also will show color slides. Mrs. Brewster, Mrs. Thomas A. Connors, and Mrs. Albert D. Farwell, all trustees, and Mrs. Ronald P. Boardman have taken tables for the luncheon.

As soon as the membership of the society warrants it, the trustees and governors propose to open a garden center in the loop where a competent horticulturist will give advice to members. C. Eugene Pfister of Mundelein is president of the society, and Mr. Boardman serves as treasurer. Some of the other trustees are Whipple Jacobs and Guy E. Reed, representing the Chicago Association of Commerce; Max McGraw, Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, and Lester J. Norris.

Fallon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fallon of San Francisco, Cal., formerly of Winnetka, will take his bride to his new post at Camp Pendleton, Cal.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Ensign Mary Kathryn Burlingame of the WAVES, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin Burlingame of Wilmette, to Lt. Richard Frederick Young of the naval reserve, which will take place at 5 p. m. April 7 in the First Presbyterian church in San Diego, Cal. Lt Young is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund E. Baked Lima Beans with Sausages Save Ration Points

Fill the Casserole

Top with Sausages

1. Wash 1 pound lima beans, cover with warm water, and soak for 4 hours or overnight. Simmer in the same water (with added water to cover) for two hours or until tender. Fill greased casserole with beans, 2 sliced onions, and browned sausage pieces.

2. Add 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper and blend ingredients carefully. Pour over all 1 can condensed tomato soup (undiluted). Top casserole with pre-cooked sausage links. Buy ½ lb. sausage for entire dish, using part on top, rest with beans.

An Appetizing Dish

3. Bake uncovered in 350 degree oven for about an hour. This high protein dish should be popular these days, for it not only uses an available meat, but stretches it with unrationed beans and tomato soup to serve six persons. Green pepper and pre-cooked celery also may be included for added flavor.

Thru the Looking Glass

We've never yet come across a woman who fails to get a big thrill out of receiving little "luxury" gifts, things she ordinarily wouldn't buy for herself. We all like to browse around the shop counters, admiring the pretties, but it isn't often we feel free to spend the money it takes to make them our own. Consequently, when they come our way as gifts, say on Easter morning, we're tickled pink.

Lovely sachet concoctions are on almost any woman's list of coveted nonessentials and make perfect presents. There's a wide selection of them in the department stores and you can find one to suit your pocketbook, no matter how slim it may be.

You'll find them in anything from inexpensive wisps of silk and lace to extravagant pillows of satin furbished with artificial flowers which may be worn as corsages. They're perfumed in all different types of fragrances ranging from light floral scents to lush, opulent ones to please the sophisticates. No matter what you choose, the recipient will enjoy having it and tuck the sachet in a dresser drawer, where its perfume will permeate thru lingerie and hankies to scent them and make them a pleasure to wear.

Powder mitts are another gift for Easter shoppers. These, too, are available in a wide price range and a variety of scents. There are moderately priced ones fashioned of Turkish toweling, or you might like to splurge on one of the fancier silk or satin backed numbers. They're a lasting, useful kind of remembrance, and are a nice after bath complement. Incidentally, if you want to simplify your shopping you might bear in mind that sachets and bath powder mitts are pleasing alike to girls of 10 and 12 and to their mothers and grandmothers.

New Jobs Make Food Industry Woman's Field

The food products industry has opened up 153 new types of jobs to women in three years, thereby increasing the total number to 413, and now is distinctly woman's domain, a study by the women's executive committee in the Illinois office of public instruction reveals.

The study is the fourth in a series of 26, which will cover the nation's major industries. The report will be published by the state superintendent of schools, Vernon L. Nickell, and distributed free to Illinois schools and libraries.

The food industry lists, for example, a total of 27 jobs in baking, 11 in canned goods, 19 in confections, 73 in dairy products, 37 in flour and cereal, 55 in groceries, 103 in meat packing, and 11 in restaurants.

In comparing the report with a similar study made in 1941 by the same committee, the group found that the personal, educational, and training requirements in the field have been lowered. Mrs. Leone Rutledge Carroll, home economics consultant who directed the survey, said the report does not list salaries since they now are "inflated."

The report omits many jobs which women are holding in war time and ordinarily belong to men.

Mrs. Anne V. Zinser, chairman of the women's executive committee, said jobs in the food products industry are recommended to any girls or women seeking permanent careers.

Oppose Easing City's Rules on Day Nurseries

Any drastic revisions of codes governing Chicago's day nurseries in the name of war time emergency needs appear remote, aldermen said yesterday.

Aldermen Duffy [19th] and Lancaster [37th], chairmen, respectively, of the city council subcommittees on building and health designated to work on nursery regulations, expressed themselves as sympathetic to problems of operators charged with violations by the city building and fire departments. However, both emphasized that there would be no relaxations where the safety of the children appears to be involved.

The joint subcommittee, which is expected to meet early next week, was named Monday at a session of the city council health committee to consider proposals to modify and clarify nursery regulations after Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, ordered four nurseries closed earlier this month and violation notices were sent to 10 others. Committeemen also will seek agreement on interpretation of existing codes, Aldermen Duffy and Lancaster indicated.

"It has been interpreted that 10 or more children put a nursery in the institutional class," Lancaster said. "That means an institutional or fireproof building, and in that case the ordinary brick structure wouldn't do."

Duffy explained that in zoning questions it would have to be settled whether a nursery operated for profit had to be in a business district or whether it might operate in a district zoned for apartments.

Licensing, he suggested, might check any future trouble inasmuch as nursery school operators would be apprised of regulations before opening and could not plead ignorance of the law if found violating. He said he favored visits at random and added he would be interested in a census to determine how many mothers using the nurseries actually are in war jobs and how many are "just out gallivanting."

"If," he added, "the nurseries serve war workers and if we don't have proper facilities in Chicago, then I should think the federal government might be interested. I think we should attempt to do something helpful, but I certainly do not approve of department heads permitting homes to operate when lives of children are at stake."

There are 117 day nurseries in Chicago known to Dr. Bundesen. Forty-eight of them are operated under the sponsorship of the board of education. Of the remaining 69, only four so far have qualified for permits, he reported to the council health committee. Many violations center about building construction. Few have been reported in violation of health ordinances.

Rubinstein's Brilliant Chopin Climaxes Good Concert with Lange and Chicago Symphony

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Hans Lange, conductor; Artur Rubinstein, pianist. Presented in Orchestra hall Tuesday afternoon, March 27, 1945. The program:
Overture to "La Clemenza di Tito"..Mozart
Symphony in G minor, Köchel 550..Mozart
Symphonic Metamorphosis of Themes by Carl Maria von Weber........Hindemith
Concerto for Piano, No. 2, F minor..Chopin

Considering the balmy weather and the wildfire war news, only a good concert could have held its own yesterday, and fortunately that was the kind we had. After Hans Lange and the Chicago Symphony orchestra had set the pace with good Mozart and Hindemith, Artur Rubinstein arrived to play Chopin's F minor concerto in a style that verged on the sumptuous.

Always a titanic technician, this brilliant Pole has been more remarkable than ever this season because of the deepening sense of repose that has added stature to his performance. His Chopin recital was an unforgettable experience, and the concerto had the same heroic validity, which declines to be fenced in by the term virtuosity. It was technically superb as a matter of course, and perhaps it goes without saying that it was velvet and fire to the ear. But it also had qualities of mind and spirit that went straight to the heart of the score. Nothing less could have wrought that magic in the tranquil discourse of the larghetto.

It is about a century late to remark that when Chopin wrote a concerto the orchestra was an afterthought. Yet a skilled conductor can make that orchestra of great value to the soloist, not only as accompaniment, but as a source of dramatic underscoring of climactic phrases. Mr. Lange did exactly that with a precision that underscored not only the piano, but the pleasure of listening.

The orchestra was a little sluggish and slow on the uptake for the Mozart Overture to "La Clemenza di Tito," but it turned in an expert job with the beautiful Symphony in G minor. There was a mellow brilliance about it, with a glow in the strings and some of the best playing in the trio the winds have accomplished all season. Mr. Lange followed this good start with Hindemith's Symphonic Metamorphosis of Themes by Carl Maria von Weber, which is so much nicer than its name, and here the brass added its signature to the list of improved performance. The whole score was vividly projected, with reassuring clarity, but I still have a weak spot for what might be Chinese jazz in the "Turandot" scherzo. Whoever said Hindemith was dour?

Ben-Ami Coming.

Jacob Ben-Ami and his troupe will come to the Blackstone April 16 to present 10 performances of "The Miracle of the Warsaw Ghetto," by H. Leivick, author of "The Golem." The engagement lasts thru April 23, with Saturday and Sunday matinées. Berta Gersten, Menachem Rubin, Isidor Casher, Dina Halpern, and Muriel Gruber are among the members of the cast.

Fish or Fowl?

I don't know whether this is a dance or a concert, but the night of April 22 will find Gene Krupa and his new orchestra at the Chicago Arena. A two hour concert will start at 7:30 in the evening, and after that there will be dancing until curfew. Allied Arts is the booker.

Easter Outfit Can Be Helped by Accessories

BY REA SEEGER.

Unusual costume accessories which will make the Easter ensemble outstandingly effective make up a newly unpacked display. Look for puffed-cuff taffeta gloves in black, sensational large cuffed organdy gloves, and equally exciting snowy white pique gloves, all flaunting huge dramatic cuffs to pull up over a coat or suit sleeve. If you want shorter gloves, check the smooth-as-butter kidskins in luggage tan or black with white pique bows pulled thru a crush band at the center of the cuff. The same short gloves are available with perky taffeta bows in color. For shine, see the kidskin gloves with gleaming patent leather cuffs to wear with new patent leather handbags.

Pink sequins get a whirl on cascade jabots of white, also decorate vestees in pink or white. Scarfs of crackling, crisp taffeta come in stripes, dots, and plaids, and there are twin scarfs of taffeta or crepe in two blending or contrasting shades. Airy scarfs of chiffon appear different after you see the white dotted scarlet item with white pearl buttons sewed in between the white printed dots. There is good fashion reason for the buttons because they make the filmy scarf sufficiently heavy to stay anchored ascot fashion around the throat.

Different and new costume jewelry includes tiny jeweled keys, open stars, and clusters of stars fastened to a brooch pin. Also jeweled or studded with metal beads are decorative belts in bright red [to match a huge bag] and in deep tan. The very essence of whimsy is a pink snakeskin handbag, the exact shade of a pink ascot scarf, the scarf appliqued with garden size daisies. Spring has arrived in this collection.

Even a Baby Can Develop Fear of Dark

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A recent article had to do with a little boy of 3½ who had developed a terror of the dark, due directly to the fact that he was threatened by an adult with "being put in a dark room and so forth," if he didn't behave. There we have something definite to work on in going about a cure.

But when a baby girl not yet a year old acts as described in the following letter, the cause of the trouble is not so obvious.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I have an 11 months' old daughter who has become frightened of the dark. Trying to figure out what could be wrong with her I took her to the doctor. He found her in perfect health so he could give me no reason for her actions. Just a few nights ago she screamed and cried so, I decided to go in and see what could be bothering her. As soon as I turned on the light she seemed to be relieved, but if I turned off the light she would get shaky and start looking around in the dark and seem terribly frightened. What can I do to help her overcome her fears? She is so little that I don't know just how to go about helping her."

Here the mother is right in not following the doctor's advice to wait "until she outgrows it."

There is no doubt in my mind, after much experience with young children, that certain fears have come down thru the ages, natural enough primitive fears such as fear of the menace which darkness holds.

The fact that this baby-girl stopped crying when the light was turned on gives her mother a clew as to what to do. She should buy a small gay-looking child's lamp, put in a low-powered bulb, and for the present leave it turned on all night. After the child is put to bed her mother might go quietly in and out of the room, or speak to her to reassure her. After a while, this fearfulness will melt away.

Oglethorpe Will Be Discussed Tomorrow Before Boswell Club

The Boswell club will have a dinner meeting at 6 p. m. tomorrow at which its Gen. James Oglethorpe, Mervin K. Baer, will speak on "Oglethorpe and the Johnson Circle," including in his talk commentary on Amos Ettinger's "General Oglethorpe, Imperial Idealist." The Union League club is the meeting place of the Boswellians, a group of writers, lawyers, publicists, and men of other professions, dedicated to the reviewing of the art of conversation, to 18th century literature, and conviviality. Within the organization, which is modeled after the venerable Boswell club of London each member assumes the name of one of that famous company of wits and scholars gathered about Samuel Johnson. James Boswell, Johnson's biographer, is impersonated by Rosseau Van Voorhies, who is the president and founder.

JOURNEY UNDERGROUND

(The story of a Chicago hero's escape from German occupied France)

(Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.)

By Flight Officer David G. Prosser

INSTALMENT XXVIII.

While Herk became engrossed in an American radio program from the united nations station at Tunis, Louis and I went back to the easy chairs to discuss his military career. Louis started from the date of his mobilization:

"First I went up to the front, only a few days after the outbreak of war. I was a butcher in the army, but at night I had to go with a driver to deliver the meat to the farthest outposts in that sector, where the advance into Germany was made.

"We were often under fire and spent many hours in the ditch by the side of the road waiting for the barrage to die down, but probably the most harrowing experience I had while on the front occurred when I had a fight with a Moroccan soldier who overpowered me and locked me in a refrigerator for five hours. I was almost dead when I was found, and spent six weeks in a hospital afterward.

"I never went up to the front again, but was sent to Romilly where I remained until the Germans captured me, while I was delivering meat. We were kept at Romilly until September of that year, before being sent to Germany. The prison camp in Romilly was not bad, and frequently Michiline and Mme. Maurice came to see me. On the last day of August we started our trip to Germany, but did not stop anywhere in the reich. We went right to Poland.

"It was a miserable, cold camp, there. Conditions were bad for the French prisoners. The English were the only ones that fared very well, for they received food parcels. However, they were generous and gave us many cigarets and much food. The work was hard, and while we wasted as much time as possible, we still had to spend from 10 to 12 hours in the factory or the stone pit each day. Many became exhausted and died."

Louis took a photo from his wallet and showed it to me. I was a little surprised to see him dressed in a German uniform, when his other comrades were dressed in Belgian and French uniforms. "In a prison camp, one has to wear the uniform he is given," he explained.

"One morning," he said, "I was in the barracks trying to make a fellow prisoner more comfortable, for he was ill. One of the German guards entered, with his bayonet on his rifle. When he saw the Frenchman in bed, he demanded the reason. The other prisoners told him that this man was sick and could not work that day. The guard spat, 'Enough of the French lies,' and started to hit the bedridden man and try to rout him out of bed with the point of the bayonet. Two other prisoners jumped on the guard and quickly succeeded in overpowering him. We took his gun, and when the fray had quieted down, we found ourselves in the difficult predicament of having had a German guard surrender to us.

"We three prisoners paraded the guard in front of us toward the headquarters, and surprisingly enough succeeded in almost reaching it without being halted by any of the other guards, but evidently some one in the headquarters building saw us coming, and dispatched 10 S. S. guards with rifles, machine guns, and tear gas bombs. We French, with our one rifle and German prisoner, surrendered.

"The sergeant of the guard rushed up to demand an explanation, but before our story had been told, he marched us off to the commandant's office. The commandant listened to us, and said nothing other than the pronouncement of the sentence of three weeks in solitary confinement for each of us.

"Life in the solitary confinement was not quite as bad as I had expected. For the first time in 18 months, I had a little privacy, the one thing that I had missed more than all the other deprivations of prison camp life. When the end of the three weeks arrived I was glad to be out again.

"We were sent to another prison in Silesia where the discipline, work, and weather were more rigorous. We had to break rocks for 10 hours a day, in the most bitter cold weather imaginable.

"At one evening meal, I said I did not want anything to eat. The guards asked, 'Are you sure?' I told them I was, but . . . it was several days before . . . they were sufficiently concerned to allow me to see the medical officer. . . . I . . . lost quite a bit of weight, and finally was sent to a hospital and put under the care of French doctors. They recommended, as they did for every one they could, that I go home.

"I was sent to another hospital where German doctors make a final checkup to see if one's state of health actually does warrant going home.

"After a month, it was decided that I should go back to prison camp to do light work, and to discover if my health did not improve in three or four weeks.

". . . My health did not improve, and in the minimum time of three weeks I was returned to the hospital. My weight was low, and my condition was as bad as it had been before, so my name was put on the repatriation list, and I was sent to a clearing station. The day I arrived there, we got the news that Gen. Giraud had escaped, and as a punishment for France all leaves and repatriations were canceled for three months.

"Having to remain in Germany was a great disappointment, but the assurance that at the end of that time we would definitely be demobilized kept our spirits high. Three months later, I crossed the frontier into France, just 29 months to the day after I entered Germany to go to a prison camp."

As Louis' story came to an end, I heard more commotion in the kitchen. There was a short argument and then the words, "Ma Cherie," that convinced me that this must have been Madame's husband. I heard Madame say, "Yes, they are in the other room with Louis."

In a minute le Pere Maurice came into the room. He was short and heavily set. His facial features were most regular—straight nose, rather high vertical forehead, angular chin, but he did have quite a round face, altho not a fat one. Like Louis he was cross-eyed.

My hopes that Madame would give us fairly good meals were not in vain. Certainly this first night we had a delicious dinner, starting with excellent thick soup, steak, pomme de terre, puree, vegetables, fruit, and fromage de chevre [goat cheese].

After we had finished dinner, M. Pelerin came in to have coffee with us. He and le Pere wanted to hear our story of how we had come down and where. As this was about the fifth time I had told it, I was able to repeat it quickly, and then start on Herk's tale, with which I was less familiar.

Herk had come down on the first Stuttgart raid. He walked for two days, and slept in haystacks at night. . . .

On the third day, he approached a large house with his card of French-English expressions firmly in hand, and impressed the people with his need of assistance. They knew the local underground leaders, and put Herk in their hands. Since then he had been shifted around to different places north of Paris waiting . . . to come to the city.

M. Pelerin took up the conversation at this point. He always had an abundant supply of tales about resistance activity, usually tending toward the more morose side. Telling us that we would probably go to Spain, he said that he had heard reports of the Gestapo bribing the Spanish prison guards to shoot the allied airmen coming in that country.

I was a little hesitant in passing on this information to Herk, but decided to give him a watered down version. Even this had an effect. Herk drawled out, "Shoot them?" and looked vacantly into space until I told him that this was in all probability just a story of M. Pelerin, but this did not entirely convince him that Spain was a safe place to go.

"I remember a friend of mine who went to Spain to fight during the revolution," he said. "I didn't know him very well—he was a Red or something like that—never did any work on the farm, and a damn fool to go off to a foreign country to fight in some one else's war—but maybe if Franco shoots prisoners, he wasn't so wrong."

This ramble was rather annoying, for it prevented my hearing another of M. Pelerin's stories about a southern bound train for Paris. This train was halted by the German military police who took all the young men off the train and headed them into a concentration camp near-by without even making a pretense at checking papers or giving any indication why this was occurring. Three days passed before the Germans bothered to feed these men, and then they were given only bread. It was thrown over the fence as food is thrown into a den of animals.

On the sixth day, 10 more men were chosen as hostages to die in reprisal for a great amount of sabotage that had been committed against railways in that area.

Poor Herk was very distressed at hearing this account of traveling conditions in France. He almost despaired of ever leaving the country safely, and muttered, "At least in prison camp they can't shoot you."

Herk then launched into a discussion of the merits and disadvantages of being "mixed up" with the underground. These rather stupid semi-conclusions that he was uttering in his loud, rough voice made hearing M. Pelerin's terror stories rather difficult and I became impatient with him.

. . . .

M. Pelerin grunted, and then made preparations to leave. The coffee cups were empty, and the time had sped by quickly. In leaving the room M. Pelerin stopped at Herk's chair and grasping the boy's shoulder said, with one of his winning smiles, "Ca va, Robert?" [It goes?—meaning: How are you?] I had to explain to Herk just what the little phrase meant and became hopelessly entangled in trying to do so. He just could not understand why people said, "It goes?" when a "smart" person would have said, "How are you?"

As Michiline and Grandmere cleared the table, Louis, le Pere, and I tried to listen to Radio London, . . .

After they had all left, and the women had gone upstairs, I went to the lavatory to deal with my lice.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Double	Pass	1 spade
3 hearts	3 spades	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of spades.

The hold-up play is generally regarded as a type of strategy restricted to no trump hands. That the play may be employed with equal effectiveness in suit contracts does not occur to the average player. When one realizes that the purpose of the hold-up play is to break up the communication between defenders' hands it becomes apparent that it might apply just as well to either type of hand.

Today's hand provides a simple illustration of this principle. West doubled the opening bid of one heart and East, naturally, responded with one spade. South's bid of three hearts is somewhat of an overbid, but inasmuch as North is not obliged to respond to this jump, South decided to stretch a point. West refused to be shut out and responded with three spades, and North was quite justified in raising to four hearts.

The queen of spades was opened, on which East signaled with the nine. If South thoughtlessly takes this trick, the contract is doomed to failure, because when the ace of diamonds is driven out West is able to put his partner in with the king of spades, and the club lead coming thru will score two tricks in that suit for the defense. The simple hold-up at trick one renders the opponents helpless, because now East never can gain the lead, and West never can profitably lead clubs. One of South's clubs is, therefore, discarded on the fourth diamond, since dummy's third trump proves to be an entry.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

Let the Boys Provide Date Transportation

BY SHEILA DALY.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

On the SOLID side

Q.—"How do fellows feel about the girl driving on dates, using her family's car?"

A.—For a solo date, a gal should never suggest providing a car. It makes her appear to be so anxious for a date with the particular Joe that she's even willing to provide the trimmings. There is still a choice of buses, street cars, taxis, and a couple of pairs of sound legs to help a fellow and girl get around. So let the boy provide transportation for a date. Most gals will find that a fellow has a sort of pride about this—and he'll like her better if she lets him keep it.

Q.—"What do boys like to get from girls for their birthdays?"

A.—The average Joe would be content with a birthday greeting card and a kiss on the cheek but if a girl wants to give him the kind of present that can be wrapped up, it is best to select something inexpensive, appropriate, and impersonal. Try an identification bracelet, an interesting book, a wallet, or a cigaret case.

Q.—"Should girls date other boys after their steadies go into service?"

A.—A fellow and girl who "go steady" usually have an accurate understanding of exactly what that term means to them. If they have agreed that they are engaged in the full meaning of the word; if they have definite plans to be married, the girl should limit her dating activities to that particular Joe, when and if he gets home on leave. But if "going steady" has been just an agreement to give the boy first option on her Friday nights—a few outside dates will be breaking no bargain. He's probably managing a little fun round camp himself.

Q.—"Do boys in high school like to see their best girls smoke?"

A.—That's an open question and we'll leave it wide open till the boys can answer it themselves. Put your opinion down on paper and send it in—the girls want to know what you think.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 27.—Jack Cummings tells me his next picture will star Esther Williams in "Fiesta Brava" [meaning "Wonderful Holiday"], also with a Mexican background. George Bruce vacationed down there for two months, whipped up the idea. Esther plays a lady bullfighter. . . . Susan Hayward has been borrowed by R. K. O. to do "Deadline at Dawn." The original was written by William Irish, the screen play by Clifford Odets. Adrian Scott produces and Harold Clurman directs. They're now looking for two leading men. . . . Bob Montgomery and John Ford held a reunion in Miami, when they were joined by Lt. Comdr. Richard Barthelmess, whom we know as Dick. They'll be down there another month for "They Were Expendable." . . . Dorothy McGuire is still waiting for passage to England, while her husband, John Swope, is navy bound as a photographer's assistant to Edward Steichen. . . . Faye Emerson Roosevelt's home was sold from under her. She was lucky to find a house in Beverly Hills big enough for herself and child, also Elliott's, whom she hopes to have with them when he returns.

An English Producer Speaks.

Arthur Rank, England's big independent producer, says next to food films are the most important thing over there. He believes that if they buy ours we should use theirs. He'll pay us a visit in May. He also said, "The English people want entertainment on the screen—not war. They've had too much of that on their front porch and they're still getting it." . . . I've heard silly stories in my life but never one like this: That the reason Roz Russell agreed to do the life of Sister Kenny was because her child was a spastic case. Why, Roz's baby wasn't even born when she agreed to do "Sister Kenny." . . . Cornel Wilde will be starred in "Enchanted Voyage" at Twentieth Century. Lloyd Bacon leaves for Louisiana and Florida to make background shots. Picture starts in May. "Captain of Castile" will follow.

Include Me In.

Sam Goldwyn saw Jimmy Stewart in England. Says he never looked better. He also saw David Niven and met his wife, who's hoping for an early return to Hollywood. Sam was thrilled at the things air generals said about our Jimmy Stewart. After being in England Sam knows why there will always be one. Not discounting the job their men have done, the women are the real heroes, says he. . . . Jack Devereaux, grandson of the late John Drew and son of Mrs. Jack Devereaux, was wounded in Belgium. He's received the Purple Heart. Before joining the army he played in "Life with Father." . . . Helen Ford of "Connecticut Yankee" fame has been in the South Pacific seven months doing "Over 21."

This Slowed Her Down.

For seven months Elizabeth Taylor learned to ride and do many tricks for "National Velvet," but while running to her music lesson, she tripped, fell, and broke a bone in her foot. Now she's wearing a plaster cast. The night it happened, her manager, Jules Goldstein, was giving a party to celebrate the bonus Metro gave her. She called to ask if he'd mind if she came on crutches—she didn't want his guests to feel sorry for her. He replied, "Darling, I'll carry you in." and he did. . . . When Rita Hayworth and Orson Welles were in Mexico recently, they went to the bullfights, became well acquainted with Mexico's leading matador. Then Rita decided to learn a dance using his movements, and said, "When you come to Hollywood, come stay with us." The other morning at 2 a. m. Rita was roused from a sound sleep by the most frightful confusion. The bullfighter had arrived. And Rita's now well into her dance, but the end is not in sight.

Tweet-Tweet; It's That Sweet.

Wives no longer wait. That's the reason Maria Montez is in New York to meet Pierre Aumont, her husband. . . . June Haver has found George Kitchel, since Farley Grainger's in the South Pacific. . . . Eddie Ryan is smoldering over Mona [Butch] Freeman of "Junior Miss." Sheila Ryan isn't doing badly in these times of man shortage. She has two who take turns taking her out—Charlie Russell and Steve Crane. . . . When Leo Carrillo telephoned me, I didn't recognize his voice, and said, "Without your accent, I didn't know who it was." said he, "I use my accent only when I'm paid for it."

Just the Movie for Ice Show Fans

"IT'S A PLEASURE."

Produced by International, directed by William A. Seiter, featuring Sonja Henie, Michael O'Shea, Bill Johnson, Marie McDonald, Gus Schilling, Iris Adrian, and Cheryl Walker, and presented at the Woods.

By Mae Tinée.

The use of technicolor adds greatly to the attractiveness of this ice revue with a plot. The star wears attractive and colorful costumes; the skating numbers are graceful and easy on the eyes. Altho the plot is a bit anemic, the male lead most certainly isn't.

Mike O'Shea is a rough, tough, and thirsty hockey player, and the skating star who entertains the audience between periods gets a yen for him which sticks even after he is banned from the game for popping an official. They all become members of a traveling ice show, and under Sonja's good influence Michael decides to straighten up and fly right, and everything is hunky-dory until a predatory female goes to work. The complications which ensue are not the least bit surprising.

Skating is still the best thing Miss Henie does; her diction is something to cope with and her acting a bit on the wooden side. Mr. O'Shea is casual and natural in his role, and Miss McDonald is a fine snake-in-the-grass. Sets are streamlined with some luscious color effects. Ice show addicts should find this film made to order for them.

World's Jews Start Passover Feast Tonight

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Jews of the world will begin their annual celebration of Passover, feast of liberation, tonight. The event has special significance during this war because the eight day octave of the feast commemorates the deliverance of a people from slavery and tyranny and holds forth the hope to every generation that eventually God will bring justice and freedom for all.

The historical event recalled is told in the second book of the Bible, Exodus, named for the miraculous flight of the people of Israel from Egyptian slavery under the leadership of Moses. Central to the feast is a meal of notable meaning, called the seder, literally "order," when foods symbolic of hasty deliverance are eaten and when a quiz on the meaning of the celebration is carried on between youngest and oldest member of the group. Historians credit the seder with conserving ideals of human freedom thruout ages of tyranny. Most seders are held in homes, but many are held on a community basis, in synagog halls and elsewhere.

Among largest community seders will be those held tonight and tomorrow night in the Covenant club, when service men and women will be guests of honor. Tickets for these guests are being distributed thru the United Service organization, in which the Jewish welfare board participates. Rabbi Mayer Lipman will conduct the ceremonies both nights.

At Vaughan General hospital patients will receive three day passes for the holiday to enable them to celebrate the feast with their families. The welfare board has arranged to have those patients who live too far away to permit their visiting home during the three day period to be guests in private homes for their seders. The board also is arranging home seders for nonambulatory patients in Gardiner General hospital.

Nearly all synagogs have scheduled a series of two seders on first and second nights of the feast, with special services daily until the night of April 5. In addition, many congregations, such as at Humboldt Boulevard temple, 1908 Humboldt blvd., are preparing children's seders for Sunday morning. Rabbi Morris A. Gutstein of the Humboldt temple will dedicate a porocheth, or holy ark curtain, Friday [Sabbath] night in memory of Pvt. Jack Marcus, late nephew of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Mandel.

The Jewish welfare board has announced extensive plans for seders in all military camps thruout the state. In addition to the Covenant club seders, one has been scheduled for Tower hall men in the Hamilton hotel tomorrow night under the board's direction. One thousand sailors at Great Lakes and 500 soldiers at Chanute field will attend community Passover meals.

White Collar GIRL

No Offense.

One of Chicago's pert business women had an unexpected, tho friendly, encounter with the police the other evening. She had driven downtown for a lecture, went to pick up her car at 10:30, and met, in the drizzling rain, the policeman whom she sees every day as she goes to work. He told her it was quitting time for him, so she asked him whether he would like to ride south to his home, which was on her way. He accepted gladly and as she waited beside him he stepped over to the call box to report in. At that moment a number of suburbanites, bound for their train at the La Salle Street station, came along, stopped, and gazed wide-eyed. Such a nice looking woman! And here was the policeman "turning her in." What could the offense be? Unfortunately they had to make the 10:40, so they were unable to wait to see whether the paddy wagon arrived or to be disappointed when our WCG and her police escort amiably drove off in her car.

Earth Moving Industry.

How would you like to have words such as Cowdozer, Zerk, swan's neck, ejector tailgate, Sheep's Foot Roller, co-efficient of friction, or gumbo dictated to you? Lots of secretaries thrive on it in a Peoria earth moving company. But they wouldn't be nearly so brain-healthy without a mental prop called "Steno Aids" published for them. Served in plain language and appetizing style, it's digestible at a moment's look and prevents many an erasure and blank stare above the white collar.

Then there was the secretary and a woman boss who each came to the office on the same day wearing the same dress. I don't know which of the two was the most embarrassed.

Future white collar girls are getting taller all the time. Torrie Wright, American Airlines stewardess, reports that at a recent Girl Reserve meeting in Aurora [at which she was speaker] she discovered the average height of the senior girls was 5 feet 7 inches. American's stewardesses are 5 feet 2 to 5 feet 6. . . . The lady with imagination who does glamorous wrapping of gift packages is more than busy these days, which goes to show that original ideas add up in profits! . . . A group of Y. W. C. A. business girls [the El Dienon club] provided an Easter egg hunt last Sunday for 25 little girls, located thru the United Charities. . . . There is a hotel telephone operator in New York City who hasn't been absent in 27 years. Is there any such WCG record in Chicago?

Eastern Captain

La Verne Roach, 147 pound champion in the eastern Golden Gloves tournament, who yesterday was named captain of the New York team which will meet Chicago's best in the Intercity bouts in Chicago Stadium April 4. He is in the marine corps.

LA VERNE ROACH NAMED EAST'S GLOVES LEADER

147 Pound Marine Is New York Ace.

BY BILL MURTHA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bear Mountain, N. Y., March 27.—La Verne Roach, eastern Golden Gloves welterweight champion, unanimously was elected captain of the New York team that will square off with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's team, the best amateurs the west has to offer, in the Chicago Stadium April 4.

Roach, who is a marine stationed at Cherry Point, N. C., air base, fought in the colors of Washington, D. C., in the eastern Tournament of Champions. Altho the marine delegation—there are five leathernecks on the 27 man eastern squad—arrived only last Saturday, Roach has made a great hit with the other youngsters in training at Bear Mountain. They admire his fighting ability [the general opinion is that he is the surest bet New York has against Chicago] but they admire even more his quiet demeanor and readiness to assist the coaches in their efforts to give New York its first triumph against the Chicago team in the latter's home arena in the 18 year history of this intercity series.

Get Only Light Drill.

The Plainview, Tex., lad already was the bellweather of the marine flock when he arrived at camp. Now he's the head man of the whole group.

This was an off day for the New York team and no one but the light heavies and the heavyweights was asked to do anything but take a three mile jaunt thru the mountains. It was the first light day since the boys arrived here a week ago.

The coaches felt that the young men had earned a rest after their efforts of the last week and since training injuries have been of a superficial character every one on the squad has been able to work out daily.

Great Chance for Victory.

"We don't want the boys to get overdrawn," said Pete Mello, one of the trio of New York coaches. "Lots of fights are left in the gymnasium, and we want to be at our best for Chicago because we have the greatest chance to beat them in Chicago in all the time I've been connected with Golden Gloves.

"The heavy boys will work because they need it. Most of our other fighters are well within the weight limits for the intercity bouts but we don't want our heavyweights carrying around five pounds of excess suet even if they don't have to come up to the scales at any particular weight."

Teddy Martin, another of the coaches, chimed in here with a remark that he had been reading in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE about the pep talk Issy Kline, one of the Chicago coaches who had scouted the New York finals, had given his charges.

That's What They Plan to Do.

"He said we really are out to beat them this year," Martin said. "Well, he can say that again and keep saying it every day, because that's just what we expect to do!"

Of those who did work out, Joe Ridone, one of the marines, and Steve De Luca, Jacksonville soldier, light heavyweights, Jerry Conway and Roscoe Stout of New York, heavyweights, impressed the coaches most. Conway, who is 28 and father of three children, has been battling in Golden Gloves for 10 years. He never has been on a New York Intercity squad and jumped at the chance to join this year.

It's Worthy Aspiration!

"This probably is my last year at fighting. I'll hang up my gloves on April 5, the day after the Chicago fights, but I'd like to hang up a picture of me belting out some Chicago boy alongside them," Conway said.

The coaches like his spirit and if he shows as well thru the rest of the training period as he did today he has a good chance of getting the call in one of the two heavyweight spots. With the eastern champion absent, the New York team will fight two alternates against the Chicago champion and alternate.

MAP FINAL WEEK FOR CHICAGO'S GLOVES SQUAD

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Chicago's 1945 Intercity Golden Gloves squad will battle New York's best in the Chicago Stadium one week from tonight. Thus, today's training program of the Chicagoans in the gymnasium of the Illinois Athletic club mark a psychological crux in their preliminary endeavors. Only seven days remain between them and the exacting three round tests in the Stadium ring, wherein they will attempt to carry on a Chicago record which has seen the local boys win 10 of the series, while tying three and losing only four.

The real problem within the final week of exercise at the I. A. C. rests with the coaching staff, composed of Capt. Johnny Behr, Fred Caserio, Issy Kline, Dick Fitzpatrick, Pop Howard, and Eddie Nichols. The faculty which is grooming the Chicago team for what appears to be the toughest New York assignment they ever have encountered is well aware of its dilemma.

Mental Attitude Vital.

Capt. Behr pointed out yesterday that the task has now narrowed down to unifying the team spirit. A few members of the cast, having worked hard on the trying sessions of mat and floor work, feel that they are now ready to step into the ring on an hour's notice. Several others, striving to win one of the 16 fighting roles on the Stadium program, have gone to the other extreme, working harder in their zeal to attain physical excellence.

Either today or tomorrow, the boys who fought their way out of a battle embracing 28 cities in 23 states, ranging from Minnesota to Texas and from California to Ohio, can expect a lecture from Capt. Behr or his staff. Behr, Caserio, and Kline are Golden Gloves veterans of yore, and they realize the concluding week is the most important of all. Hence, they are prepared to announce a switch in the wind-up maneuvers which will bring the team up to next Wednesday night in top physical and mental shape.

Spurlock Works Hard.

Thru Monday and yesterday the boxers were allotted two rounds of punching in the specially erected ring in the I. A. C. gymnasium. By tomorrow they should be working the full three rounds, or nine minutes, the span which they must negotiate in the New York bouts.

The competition for the 16 fighting jobs, two in each weight division, continued to produce a hot pace once the boys hopped into the ring yesterday. Ray Spurlock, the industrious southpaw from Kansas City, who is making his second consecutive appearance as an Intercity

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

COL. TED BANK, president of the Athletic institute, is enthusiastic about the chances of a bill being considered by the house of representatives which would create a legislative commission to promote physical fitness thru physical training, sports, recreation, and camping. Similar measures already have been introduced in several state assemblies. . . . "Some over-all state organization is necessary to plan adequately and coördinate all efforts within its borders and a separate agency is necessary on a federal level," Col. Bank contends. . . . He argues as follows: "Universal military training cannot be considered a substitute for physical fitness. The latter should be based on a continuing and graded progression and is especially important while youth is in its formative years, long before it arrives at military age. It is apparent that our public schools are unable to meet the needs. In the first place, a program of physical fitness should not be limited to those attending schools. Approximately only 50 per cent of our youth graduates from high school. Parochial schools, the Y. M. C. A., the Jewish welfare board, the Catholic Youth organization, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, community, church, and industrial groups all should receive the benefits of advice in regard to prepared programs, procedures of organization, standards, statistics, etc., that a national commission could make available in the same manner that the United States office of education functions for the schools in educational matters.

"After World War I. many states passed so-called mandatory legislation for physical training, but in many cases inadequate definition of authority, lack of ear-marked funds and apathy on the part of educators nullified the effects. Even today, after three years of war, most young men entering service are unprepared for army life. It takes weeks, sometimes months, to bring them into physical condition necessary for military efficiency. Months of unnecessary effort could have been avoided if our schools and civilian agencies had done their job. Navy and army leaders alike deplore the fact that so many are being sent into the service without the agilities developed by athletics, assets that would increase their chances of emerging alive from combat situations. Had we had proper physical fitness programs in America for the 23 years prior to Pearl Harbor, many of our boys who have been killed on the battle fronts would be alive today. Furthermore, we would not have had to draft fathers, because we would have had enough physically fit single men. An ounce of prevention still is worth a pound of cure."

Sermon of the Seed.

In the valleys plowshares made
There are mountains on each side it cannot scale,
But the very work of growing
Makes the seedling unafraid
And it has no time to think that it might fail!

So the tiny seedling struggles
And prepares to daily toil
At the job Dame Nature gave it, sans repose,
For a seedling cannot loiter,
It takes root within the soil,
And ignores the rut, and does the job . . . and grows!

OKLA. AGGIES WIN COLLEGE TITLE, 49 TO 45

Whip N. Y. U.; Play De Paul Tomorrow.

New York, March 27 (AP).—The Oklahoma Aggies tonight won their first National Collegiate Athletic association basketball championship, defeating New York university, 49 to 45, with 7 foot Bob Kurland scoring 22 points before 18,779 fans in Madison Square Garden.

The New Yorkers had no answer to Kurland's height as the redhead from the Sooner state led the Aggies' offensive, fed his mates out of the pivot, and controled just about every rebound on both boards. He dropped in 15 points in the first half and added the others in the final period as the New Yorkers made a desperate effort to pull the game out by stopping the clock with substitutions in the last four minutes.

Second Victory Over N. Y. U.

Cecil Hankins sent the Aggies into the lead one minute after the start of the game, and from there to the final whistle it was a battle royal with Kurland the difference in the two fives. The Aggies whipped the New Yorkers by three points on the Garden floor in December.

The lead changed hands six times in the first half and was tied at 19-19 before Kurland and Hankins led the Aggies into a 26 to 21 lead at the intermission. The big boy continued his scoring pace at the start of the final half but when the Violets started guarding him with two men, Hankins took up the slack to score 15 points.

Play De Paul Tomorrow.

For his performance Kurland was voted the outstanding player of the game.

The De Paul university quintet of Chicago, which last night won the New York invitational tournament, watched this evening's contest. De Paul will meet the Oklahoma Aggies Thursday night in the Garden for the mythical national college title.

De Paul defeated the Oklahoma Aggies Feb. 10 in Chicago Stadium 48 to 46. In this game, George Mikan, the Demon's giant center, outscored Kurland, 15 points to 8. Tonight's lineups:

COCHRAN BEATS HOPPE TO GAIN IN TITLE MATCH

Philadelphia, Pa., March 27 (AP).—Champion Welker Cochran snapped Willie Hoppe's winning staeak with a 60 to 58 victory tonight in the 20th block of a transcontinental three-cushion billiard championship competition.

Cochran thus narrowed Hoppe's margin to 1,070 to 994. Hoppe won the afternoon block 60 to 28 in 35 innings.

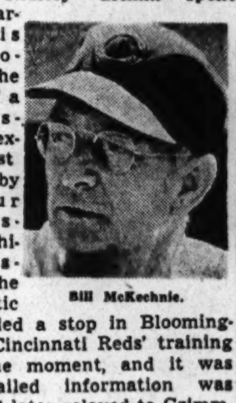
M'Kechnie Informs Grimm All About Cubs-Reds Series

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., March 27.—Manager Charley Grimm spent today rearranging his spring program as the result of a Cub newsgathering expedition just concluded by the four authors assigned to Chicago's mystery club. The journalistic tour included a stop in Bloomington, Ind., Cincinnati Reds' training base at the moment, and it was there detailed information was learned and later relayed to Grimm.



Bill McKechnie.

While Grimm and the Cub entourage had learned from reading squibs here and there that the Reds were coming some time or other, he had been given no inkling by the secrets department of the Chicago office to what extent Bill McKechnie and his crew propose to take over the French Lick camp. Jim Dykes, in his most brazen buccaneering moods here in 1943 and 1944, never had anything on pious Deacon McKechnie.

Charley's Wondering Whether He'll Pick Own Pitchers.

The squawk is not so much, it seems, that the Reds are going to move in. It's the manner of the migration that has Grimm aroused. Apparently everything has been settled by the pussyfoot bureau of the Chicago Cub office without consulting the manager. Things have progressed to the point where, it is suspected, Grimm may be wondering if he is going to be permitted to pick his opening day pitcher. [Our betting is that he will pick his pitcher for opening day and every day, so no one is going to get us to fretting about that.]

In telling the journalistic expedition of his plans for taking over the Cub training plant, the genial McKechnie, tho suffering from a cold, was in a rollicking mood.

"Tell Grimm," he said, "that I will not be shunted off into that horse ring, regardless of how skilled Andy Lotshaw may be with that pitchfork.

Deacon McKechnie Lets Cubs In All His Secrets.

"I'll take it up with Grimm when we want to use the field for routine practice, but I think you fellows should let your manager know when we are going to play exhibition games—I understand he has been unable to learn the full schedule I have decided upon."

Without referring to any notes, McKechnie rattled off his impending program. [And Charley's program, too, tho Charley didn't know it until the expedition had returned from Bloomington to French Lick].

Quoth Deacon Will: "We shall arrive in French Lick in leisurely but orderly fashion sometime during next Monday. As soon as I have rested from the ride I'll ask Grimm to come to my apartment, where I'll tell him about the ground rules which will be in effect in our camp games. I have told the Chicago Cub office that I wish to play games April 3, 4, and 5.

He Wants to Be Sure of Every Little Detail.

"As soon as I have discovered the time most favorable for practice I'll serve notice on Grimm. I won't be unreasonable and will leave him plenty of time for routine maneuvers, perhaps after each afternoon's game.

"On April 6, as the Cub training party inadvertently learned with the visit of Maj. Paul Heverly to French Lick, the Reds and the Cubs will play at Fort Knox.

"I believe it leaked out in French Lick last week that the Reds and Cubs will play in Louisville April 7 and 8, but I don't believe the Chicago office has confided in Grimm about the double header arrangements. On April 7 the Cubs will play the Reds in Louisville, also the Louisville Colonels. On April 8 the Reds and Cubs will play and this time the other half of the double header will be between the Reds and the Colonels.

"After these games I will lead our happy groups back to French Lick. I haven't quite made up my mind, but I think April 9 probably will be an open date. The Reds and the Cubs will play on April 10 and April 11."

Maybe They'll Allow Them to Cancel One.

It is not unlikely that Grimm will ask the Chicago intelligence unit if it will be all right to ask McKechnie to play on April 9 and cancel the April 11 date, because the Cubs are scheduled to open with the Sox in Comiskey park on April 12.

After the McKechnie program had been relayed almost verbatim and in reasonable facsimile, Grimm let out a series of lusty yelps and cries of frustration. For a moment he expressed a degree of defiance but soon subsided in a rumble of guttural sounds which could not be translated by any of his listeners.

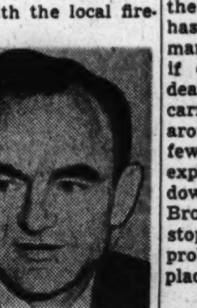
The Cubs have optioned Infielder Pete Elko to the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league. Elko was with the Angels, Nashville, and the Cubs last season, but with Johnny Ostrowski playing so well at third, Grimm decided to give him further minor league training.

Moses to Lead the Way Again for White Sox; He'll Bat First

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Terre Haute, Ind., March 27.—An exhibition game with the local firemen nine today caused Jim Dykes, the White Sox boss, to reveal plans for April 17, the opening day of the American league race. Mr. Dykes for the first time picked a regular lineup, pitchers excepted, and it indicated as far as choice is possible at the moment the starting players and batting order when the pennant race gets under way.



Wally Moses.

Outside of this lineup disclosure, the exhibition was hardly worthy of attention as might be judged by the fact that the Sox slipped over 11 runs in the first inning against the fire laddies, who before the first out was recorded, began hoping for relief in the shape of an alarm, even a false one.

Moses Leads Off.

Starting at the top of the batting order was the well aged but willing Wally Moses in his old right field role. Next to him in the attack was Oris Hockett, center fielder obtained from the Cleveland Indians. Third in line was Johnny Dickshot, in left field. Dykes' first pick was Guy Curtright, but by the time Umpire Joe Rue announced the game was ready to start, Dykes remembered that Dickshot is in pretty good physical trim, whereas Curtright arrived only a few days ago.

The fourth, or cleanup position, as mentioned among Dykes' plans several days ago, went to Bill Nagel, the rookie from Milwaukee. He is a third baseman by trade but by the expenditure of $15.95 for a mitt has been converted into a first baseman. He'll have to stay there until, if ever, Joe Orengo arrives or a deal is consummated. Nagel is still carrying the 15 excess pounds around his waist line but after a few more days, such as today, he expects the extra tread will melt down rapidly. Floyd Baker, the ex-Brown who ordinarily is a shortstop, was installed at third and probably will be able to hold the place if necessary.

Reynolds Forced to Retire.

Batting behind Baker in sixth place was Dan Reynolds, the draftee from Newark, but unfortunately Dykes' leading choice for short wasn't present for long. During the first inning Reynolds pulled a charley horse in his right leg while running out a base hit and was replaced by Cass Michaels, also a candidate for the position. LeRoy Schalk, the 1944 second baseman, batted seventh.

The catching, at the start, was taken care of by Vince Castino and rookies handled the pitching. The first inning, which convinced the firemen they had overmatched themselves, was most pleasing for Moses, Hockett, Nagel, and Schalk. Hockett hit two singles during the 11 run splurge, Moses a single and double, Schalk an inside the park homer with two on, and Nagel a triple with the bases loaded.

The exhibition finally ended after six innings with the Sox winning by a modest 25 to 11, with Dickshot and Nagel the only two Chicagoans who had to stick to the finish. The firemen had their big time in the third when they scored eight runs, six off Ralph Strem, a semi-pro, and the others off George Gray, the 6 foot plus 17 year old high school boy from Great Falls, Mont.

TORONTO, March 27 (AP).—The Toronto Maple Leafs took a 3 to 1 edge in games in their semi-final Stanley Cup hockey series with Montreal by defeating the Canadiens 4 to 3 in an overtime game tonight.

A crowd of 13,306 saw young Gus Bodnar of the Leafs win the game in overtime by blasting an angle shot after 12:36 of the sudden death past Bill Durnan, Montreal goalie.

The fifth game of the series will be played Thursday in Montreal where another Toronto victory will put the Leafs into the final.

The Leafs came from behind twice to tie the Canadiens in the regulation time. The Canadiens took a two goal lead early in the first period.

WINGS WIN, 3-2

Boston, Mass., March 27 (AP).—The Detroit Red Wings, thanks to a freak goal scored with less than three minutes to play, squared their National Hockey league play-offs series by besting the Boston Bruins, 3 to 2, tonight before a sellout 13,500 crowd in Boston Garden. Tied at two games all, they will resume their best-of-seven play in Detroit Thursday night.

The clincher was jabbed in by the veteran Murray Armstrong after Hal Jackson lashed a long drive from the sideboards that ended between Goalie Paul Bibeault's legs.

Wings Rally Twice.

The Wings came from behind twice before registering that winning tally. In the first period Kenny Smith's early goal was offset by Earl Siebert's counter. Herb Cain, centering the Bruins' third line, in the absence of Gino Rozzini, who suffered an injured hand in a first period crash with Flash Hollett, gave the Bruins a 2 to 1 lead that lasted all thru the second period.

Joe Carveth's unassisted tally in the third period resulted in a 2 to 2 deadlock and both sides waged grim battles until Armstrong settled matters. Score:

Lamotta May Box Cochrane or Robinson

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Jack Lamotta, New York middleweight contender, gained the headline spot at the next show in Chicago Stadium May 11 thru his sixth round knockout of George Costner in the west side arena on Monday night. Matchmaker Jack Hurley is attempting to sign Ray [Sugar] Robinson as Lamotta's foe. If Robinson fails to come to terms, Freddy [Red] Cochrane, welterweight champion, may be offered the assignment.

Lamotta returned home yesterday enriched by $10,790, representing 30 per cent of the net receipts of $36,221 for Monday's show. Jack was accompanied by his welterweight brother Joey, who collected $250 for a scheduled six round opener on the Stadium card against Al Jackson, whom he knocked out in the first round.

Overmatched Second Time.

Jack had a comparatively easy time in making Costner his 59th victim in 69 fights. Prior to the finishing blow, he floored Costner twice, for no count in the first round and for nine count in the sixth. All three knockdowns were the result of left hooks to the jaw.

Altho Costner scored with telling blows in the third and fifth rounds, and even in the first after suffering that initial knockdown, he gave conclusive proof that he was overmatched for the second straight time.

Robinson floored Costner for the count in the first round on Feb. 14, the achievement snapping George's string of 23 consecutive victories, 22 by knockouts.

Costner left for home in Cincinnati yesterday, his only consolation being the $5,395 he received for his services. George will be given a three weeks layoff, after which he will start all over at a small club in Cincinnati.

Report Profit of $4,700.

Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun said the show, their third of the year in the Stadium, realized profits of $4,700.

In addition to the $16,185 paid to Costner and Lamotta, the eight contestants in supporting contests were given a total of $3,850, not counting transportation costs. Results of preliminaries and the money paid each:

Johnny Bratton, $750, beat Patsy Spataro, New York, $1,000 [8]. Bill Parsons, Danville, Ill., $500, beat Frankie Abrams, Detroit, $350 [8]. Jimmy Sherrer, Milwaukee, $350, knocked out O'Neil Bell, Detroit, $500 [1]. Joey Lamotta, $250, knocked out Al Jackson, $150 [1].

THEY'RE READY TO USHER IN BASEBALL SEASON

Something new will be added when the major league baseball season opens in Chicago next month—Andy Frain will have usherettes as well as ushers in the grandstands to direct traffic. Among the first to enlist in the Frain organization are (left to right): Mary Jane Nolan, Barbara Wendt, Ruth Hoskins, Helen Froehling, Jewel Gleason, Laverne O'Malley, Elvera Schmidt, Millie Baughman, and Evelyn Hesek. Frain Usherettes to Direct Traffic in Wrigley Field

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Andy Frain, whose blue and gold uniformed employes have been ushering sports fans to their seats for two decades, has been interviewing more girls than a casting director for the Follies. His chorus line will be unveiled April 17 in Wrigley field when the city's 1945 major league season opens.

The Frain ushers this year will be outnumbered by the Frain usherettes, 300 to 150, and this is a phenomenon you can chalk up to the war. Just before Pearl Harbor, Andy had 1,800 in his Chicago organization. He was operating in 21 cities and had 8,000 in uniform. Now he has closed down except in Chicago, Los Angeles, and Louisville, but expects to expand again after the war.

Most of the girls who have joined the Frain group are wives, sisters, or other kin to Andy's boys who now are wearing another kind of uniform. There are, for instance, the five Gilhooley sisters, whose brother, John, is a Frain alumnus.

Recalls the Old Days.

Andy had no fears that his usherettes will fail to carry on his organization's tradition, but does not intend to keep them in the ball parks when young men are available again.

This new twist reminds Andy, a native west sider, of his pioneer days in the business. As a lad he picked up empty bottles and sold cushions in Comiskey park.

"It struck me," he says, "that there was too much confusion in the stands, especially on those days when the park was packed. At that time the first 100 guys in the ball park got jobs as ushers. A fourth of 'em, or more, were dips, and while they were leading you to your seat they would pick your pocket."

"William Wrigley Jr. of the Cubs gave me my first break, but only after I had tried to see him about 20 times. Always it was the same. His darky handy man, Walter, would tell me, 'Mr. Wrigley isn't in.'"

But there came a Sunday when fans overloaded Wrigley field and irate customers who found their seats occupied demanded refunds. Andy saw it all and this gave him the nerve to make another assault on Mr. Wrigley's office. This time he was ushered into the Cub offices where he told his story to Wrigley and Bill Veeck. He was told to come out the next day and install his system.

A Notre Dame Man.

"They gave me 100 red caps," recalls Andy, "and I also inherited about a hundred burglars. Well, I finally weeded 'em out. Two years later, Mr. Wrigley advanced me $5,000 to buy uniforms. Why did I pick out blue and gold? Because that's Notre Dame's colors and I always was a Notre Dame man."

The dazzling uniforms, plus Andy's genius at organizing and drilling his civilian troops, did the trick. A year later they were in Comiskey park, but this was just a beginning. He installed his system for Larry MacPhail in Brooklyn's Ebbets field. His ushers became part of the colorful setting at the Kentucky Derby.

"When my kid's old enough," says Andy, "he's going to be an usher. Not for the money—but for the chance to meet people. Most of my ushers before the war started with me when they were 15 or 16. They made enough to pay their way thru college. There always was the chance of making excellent contacts which would lead to fine jobs when they were graduated from college."

Sidestep Gigolo Business.

Frain insists that ushers are necessary wherever a crowd of 100 or more congregate. Dressed in mourning clothes, they serve as pall bearers at funerals. Before the war they were in demand at social events.

"Mrs. Jones would have two of our fine looking lads at a bunco party in Lake Forest," says Andy, "and next week Mrs. Smythe would go her one better with three or four."

"They got 'em to dress up the joint," Andy explained in lapsing into his west side vernacular. "For this function they would be dressed in top hat and tails.

"We have lots of calls from women for escorts," says Andy, "but that's out. For instance, a woman will call and say, 'That No. 247 is a pretty nice looking boy. I'd like to hire him for the evening.' I'd have to hide out the kid for a while. Yes, we're versatile, but we're not in the gigolo business."

LETCHAS IN ARMY.

fighter, was still the hardest working man on the squad once the ring bell rang. For every left he pitched, however, his opponents in single rounds, Corp. Tom Attra of Fort Worth and Bob Cotton of Indianapolis, flung them back at him.

Wray Carter Shows Skill.

Another who attracted considerable attention by his boxing skill was Wray Carter, the Chicagoan who won the city featherweight title at Marigold Gardens in February. Other two round bouts brought together Jackie Boyd, the slender Madison A. C. flyweight who won the local Golden Glove in the March 9 finals, and Frank Rivera of Kansas City, runner-up to Boyd; Joey Plummer of the C. Y. O. and Spider Thomas of Muncie, and Bob Crosley of Fort Wayne and Jack Darthard of Kansas City.

The remainder of the program found the boxers switching foes in single rounds. Corp. Adolfo Quijano of Muroc, Cal., the flying soldier with the dynamite right, and Corp. Attra, each found a tough opponent in respective three minute sessions against Dave Colquitt, the able Gary Negro who fought in their class in the Chicago finals, even tho he is capable of making the middleweight limit.

BRAVES DEFEAT SENATORS, 8-3, WITH SIX IN 8TH

College Park, Md., March 27 (AP).—A six run rally in the eighth inning gave the Boston Braves an 8 to 3 victory over the Washington Senators today and sent the National leaguers one game ahead in the interleague series.

Boston's big inning was featured by a triple with the bases loaded by Charlie Cozart, rookie pitcher from Atlanta.

The Senators tried out two of their Cuban pitchers, Santiago Ullrich, who held the Braves to one run in five innings, and Luis Aloma, who was the victim of the National leaguers' winning attack in the eighth inning. Score:

Boston	100	001	06*—8	11	2
Washington	000	010	002—3	5	0

Batteries: Andrews, Jayery, Cozart, and Klutts; Ullrich, Aloma, Rossi, and Evans.

BROWNS WIN, 6-5.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., March 27 (AP).—Presenting what may be their opening day lineup, the St. Louis Browns defeated the Toledo Mudhens, 6 to 5, today in the first nine inning exhibition game between the two clubs.

The club lined up with George McQuinn at first, Gutteridge at second, Stephens at Short, Ellis Clary at third, Mike Kreevich in left, Gray in center, Martin in right, and Mancuso catching. The two teams will play again tomorrow. Score:

GIANTS TRIUMPH, 8-5.

Baltimore, Md., March 27 (AP).—The New York Giants continued to give rookies a workout in defeating the Curtis Bay Coast Guard Cutters, 8 to 5, today.

The only spark of an otherwise quiet game, which saw the Giants send in seven rookies after the sixth, was a home run by Ernie Lombardi over the left field fence in that inning. Score:

New York [NL]	000	201	050—8	12	3
Curtis B. Cst. Guard	200	030	000—5	7	2

WALTERS JOINS REDS.

Bloomington, Ind., March 27 (AP).—Cincinnati Reds' stock took a bullish turn today with the unexpected arrival of Bucky Walters, long a mainstay of their pitching staff.

Walters, with a record of 23 games won and 8 lost last year, has been engaged in war work in Philadelphia. He had given no advance indication of his intention, altho the team's front office has insisted from the start that "he'll show up when the time comes."

CULLENBINE MOVES IN.

Lafayette, Ind., March 27 (AP).—Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians said today he would give Outfielder Roy Cullenbine a trial at the third base position left open by Ken Keltner's induction into the navy.

Cullenbine played the position in the minors and for a spell in the majors.

YANKEE REGULARS WIN.

Atlantic City, N. J., March 27 (AP).—In the Yankees' first intrasquad game the first stringers beat the reserves, 8 to 6, in six innings today. Outfielder Bud Metheny, who played first base in the absence of Oscar Grimes, hit a homer and two singles. Pitcher Jim Turner, playing right field for the regulars, drove in the decisive two runs with a triple.

Hank Borowy pitched the first three innings for the winners and yielded seven hits and four runs.

GALAN WILL REPORT.

Bear Mountain, N. Y., March 27 (AP).—Augie Galan, all-around player, has decided to leave his California butcher shop to play again for the Brooklyn Dodgers this year.

Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, announced today that he telephoned to Galan in Berkeley, Cal.

"Galan told me that he is so busy in his butcher shop that he would be unable to leave until April 2," Rickey said. "I asked him if he would be willing to play first base if Manager Leo Durocher assigned him to that position. He said he would report ready and willing to play first base in 154 games.

CAMELLI CHECKS IN.

Muncie, Ind., March 27 (AP).—Catcher Hank Camelli arrived at the Pittsburgh Pirates' training camp from his Milford [Mass.] home today—and promptly smacked out a double to knock in a run during a practice game. The regulars squelched the Yanigans 14 to 4. Southpaw John Smith held the regulars to seven hits and Lenny Gilmore yielded six. The Yanigans touched Moose Fralick for four.

HOPP READY TO PLAY.

St. Louis, Mo., March 27 (AP).—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals received several bits of good news today.

Center Fielder Johnny Hopp notified President Sam Breadon he will report and play until called for induction. He recently was accepted for military service.

Johnny Gottselig to Leave Today for Hawk School

Johnny Gottselig, coach of the Chicago Blackhawks and acting manager of the team during the closing weeks of the National Hockey league season, will leave today for Regina, Sask., and the Hawks' spring training school for Canadian amateur players. Manager Paul Thompson, Scout Tiny Thompson, Gottselig, and President Bill Tobin of the Hawks will be on hand when the school comes to order next Sunday in Regina's Queen City Gardens.

The school represents a departure in hockey training procedure, most National league teams having waited until autumn to conduct any preliminary drills. The Hawks expect to have 30 outstanding amateurs from western Canada in attendance, including the two amateur teams with which they now have affiliations—the Edmonton Canadians and the Moose Jaw Canucks. Out of this crop they hope to draw future stars, who probably will break in with the Hawks' Kansas City farm before trying out for the Chicago team.

PIKE WILL RUN EARLY THIS YEAR IN WOLF RIVER

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois fishermen who like to visit the Wolf river in Wisconsin for the early walleyed pike run around April 15, may have to mark that "fish for food and relaxation" trip off their calendars this year, because the ice went out of the Wolf some days ago in the earliest break-up in 15 years. That means a pike run well ahead of April 15. In 1930 the ice left the Wolf river at Weyauwega and Fremont on March 17. In 1931 the river was open on March 18. Last year winter kept the river closed until April 8 which gave fishermen an extraordinary fishing season starting April 15.

Date Cancellation Urged.

The way it looks now the walleyes will have gone up the Wolf river and returned by April 15. The only hope of catching up to this unusual spring season and its effect on fish and fishing is for the Wisconsin conservation commission to hurry up and cancel that April 15 opening and establish an earlier pike season. The boys in southern Wisconsin are urging that action.

The Wolf always gets an early opening date for fishing. The season which usually starts April 15 permits anglers to take white bass, rock bass, crappies, pickerel or northern pike, walleyes, bluegills, and perch in designated Wolf river and Fox river water in certain counties, and also in Lakes Poygan, Winneconne, Butte des Morts, Winnenbago, and little Butte des Morts.

Fish Will Come in Handy.

This year [as George Dobbins of Weyauwega points out] it will be unusually important to residents of the Wolf river valley and also visiting fisherman if they can get catches of pike, walleyes, or other species because this food will come in handy during these days of the meat shortage and the urge for every one to eat more fish.

I. B. A. LINES UP AGAINST WORLD MONEY SCHEME

Business Opposes Open Credits.

The Investment Bankers Association of America yesterday lined up with the American Bankers' association and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in opposition to the 8.8 billion dollar Bretton Woods monetary fund proposal and in indorsing the 9.1 billion dollar bank for reconstruction.

J. Clifford Folger.

Speaking before the New England group of the I. B. A. in Boston, J. Clifford Folger, national president, said investment bankers believed conditions under which loans would be made by the international bank would be such as to encourage constructive spending abroad, but that the "open credit" provisions of the proposed stabilization fund made "business men and bankers shudder."

Bank Appeals to Business.

"The Bretton Woods bank reflects the type of prudence and management which appeals to business men," said Folger. "Commitments are limited to wealth producing projects and are to be made only after careful study. There is no open end obligation. Each country knows approximately what its total share of losses might run.

"While it is true that under the bank the United States would be putting up the lion's share of the money—in the end, probably more than all the other 43 countries combined—business men feel that failure to participate would retard international coöperation. They feel that thru the bank there could be carried on consultation and collaboration so necessary in dealing with financial problems facing the world."

Folger said the fund would provide "for the first time in the history of the world outside of a completely socialistic system, credit which is automatic and pro rata."

Permits Automatic Overdrafts.

"The plan under the fund embraces a clearing house system whereby in reality this country extends more or less automatic overdraft privileges to countries thruout the world," he explained. "It is at this somewhat open end line of credit under the name of stabilization which business men shy off. They insist that no nation but ours, now or in the past, would do what is suggested for us."

Folger said congress should ask itself these questions: Should we add two more foreign lending projects? Why not start out with the bank and see how that works? Will the fund lead to commitments under which our credit will eventually crack? Should we extend all the credit before knowing about peace terms or what total amount we will be called upon to advance?

"Action on the Bretton Woods plan as it now stands should not be based on the pride of authorship of a limited number of technicians, nor upon the American emotional tendency to do good without counting the cost," he said. "It should rest on a deliberate analysis of each phase of this exceedingly important commitment. The bank stands up under such analysis. The fund with its automatic credits does not."

TRUCKERS PLAN TEST OF RADIO ROUTING SYSTEM

The radio communications committee of the American Trucking associations announced yesterday at a meeting at the Bismarck hotel that it will establish radio experimental stations linking Chicago with near-by cities to test the use of radio in emergency routing of trucks and buses. Harry F. Chaddick, Chicago truck operator, presided.

The experimental stations will be equipped with 250 watt transmitters operating in a radius of 50 miles. Representatives of the federal communications commission at the meeting told the truck operators to go ahead with their experiments, and said they would assign them several frequencies. After the tests the FCC will decide whether it will grant permanent wave lengths.

The Greyhound Bus lines will take part in the tests, which will be made as soon as the equipment can be obtained.

GYPSUM FIRM ARRANGES LOAN FOR 10 MILLION

National Gypsum company directors yesterday approved arrangements for a 10 million dollar 15 year serial loan from a group of banks and insurance companies to refund 3 per cent debentures and to provide funds for construction of lime and gypsum plants after the war.

Pan American Petroleum and Transport company will issue 15 million dollars of 2¾ per cent sinking fund debentures to be placed with institutional investors.

Sears Profits Gain Slightly as Sales Soar

Net sales of Sears Roebuck & Co. increased $136,173,465 in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, but net income after taxes rose only $310,024, Robert E. Wood, chairman, and Arthur S. Barrows, president, said yesterday.

Net sales in the year rose to $988,770,171, compared with $852,596,706 in 1943, but net income was $34,176,111, against $33,866,087. Share earnings in 1944 and 1943 were $5.83 and $5.80, respectively Provision for taxes last year was $82,181,202, compared with $63,971,324. The increased tax factor accounted largely for the lag of earnings behind sales, the company said.

Investment in merchandise inventories decreased to $146,078,593 from $166,820,086, reflecting a general downward trend in store stocks.

Stocks Held Low.

"We are following a policy of keeping stocks at a low a level as demand permits and maintaining a position which will afford full advantage of changing market conditions," the officials said. "Merchandise stocks in mail order plants, warehouses, and factories are valued on the basis of specific items at average cost which is substantially cost or market, whichever is lower."

The number of order offices increased from 231 in 1943 to 266 in 1944 and of retail stores from 596 to 606. The total of mail order plants remained at 10.

Discussing expansion after the war, Barrows said the company had selected sites for 55 or 60 new order offices in unspecified locations, and said more stores would be opened within two years after the war ends in Europe. He would not say how many additional retail outlets were contemplated in that period, but said the sites would be chosen "more carefully and selectively" than in the past.

Merchandise to Affect Expansion.

This expansion would depend on the availability of merchandise, he said, adding that washing machines, refrigerators and other durable goods would not be available for at least a year after the fall of Germany. Less merchandise is obtainable now than at any time during the war, he explained.

Barrows said the company is not contemplating the introduction of any new lines of merchandise, such as automobiles or housing, or entry into the grocery business.

He predicted "good business" for the remainder of 1945, but below the level of the corresponding 1944 period, basing his forecast on a drop of 5 to 10 per cent in national income which he estimated would follow the Nazis' defeat.

400 LOCOMOTIVES SENT TO BRITAIN BY END OF 1943

By the end of 1943 the United States had sent to England 400 diesel and steam locomotives and a substantial amount of other railroad equipment, Thomas D. Slattery, general traffic manager in the United States and Canada for the Associated British railways, said yesterday. He was in Chicago to address several meetings.

He said that by Dec. 31, 1943, there were 10,000 air raids on railways, resulting in the destruction of 50 complete trains and much damage to facilities and road beds. One section of track near London was hit 92 times in nine months. London's 13 terminals were hit many times, but only in a few cases were they put out of use, and then for only a few hours, he said.

Plans Steam Turbine Locomotives

Plans to build three coal-burning steam turbine electrically driven locomotives of revolutionary design were announced jointly yesterday by the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, the Baldwin Locomotive works, and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Authority to build them has been requested from the war production board.

Each locomotive will be a self-contained independent unit comprising boiler, turbine, generators, and electric motors. Developing 6,000 horse power, it will be capable of running more than 100 miles an hour under full load, the announcement said.

Cab to Be Near Front.

The cab will be near the front, providing better vision than in conventional locomotives with cabs at the rear. Coal will be stored at the head of the locomotive—in front of the cab—instead of in a tender. The boiler will occupy the center section behind the cab. The steam turbine and electric generators will be at the rear and will feed 4,000 kilowatts of electricity thru motors mounted on the driving wheels.

"Baldwin has already completed the basic designs and will build the new motive power in coöperation with C. & O. mechanical officers," the joint announcement said. "C. & O. engineering personnel is collaborating with Baldwin in completion of design details. The steam turbine and electrical equipment, required by C. & O. as integral features, are designed and will be built by Westinghouse.

"In horse power per self-contained power unit this turbine-electric locomotive will surpass by two or three times the most powerful diesel locomotive yet built. In uniform flow of power at all speeds it will fully match self-propelled motive power now operating on rails. The electrical transmission assures unsurpassed operating flexibility, rapid acceleration, and imperceptible starting under heavy load."

In diesel-electric operation in main line service two or more power units are linked together to form a single locomotive. Thus a 5,400 diesel-electric locomotive consists of four units each developing 1,350 horse power.

The new locomotive is regarded as a challenge from coal interests—the C. & O. is a leading coal carrier—to the expanding use of the diesel.

Coal Use Held Advantage.

Carl E. Newton, president of the C. & O., in a separate statement said he believes the proposed locomotive marks a "distinct technological improvement over all existing types of steam and diesel road locomotives and that when put in operation it will prove to be fully competitive with any self-contained motive power now hauling trains on rails anywhere. In addition, it utilizes coal, the nation's cheapest and most abundant present and future source of energy."

Newton disclosed that the locomotives will be built for the specific purpose of powering separate sections of a projected C. & O. streamlined train which will be built as soon as critical materials and man power become available.

SHELL OIL NET EARNINGS RISE; OUTPUT LARGER

Skelly 1944 Profit $7.36 a Share.

Larger profits in 1944 were reported yesterday by several petroleum producers. Shell Union Oil corporation, fifth largest domestic oil refiner, had 1944 net earnings of $28,163,961, or $2.09 a share, compared with $24,542,556, or $1.82 a share, in 1943, R. G. A. van der Woude, president, said. Profits were computed in both years after setting aside 10 million dollars for contingencies.

Shell's output of 100 octane aviation gasoline increased 80 per cent and represented 13 per cent of national production, Van der Woude said. Total production of all grades of aviation gasoline was stepped up 67 per cent. Dividend payments on common shares totaled $20,205,938 in 1944, an increase over 1943 payments of 25 cents a share, he said.

Capital Expenditures Dip.

Capital expenditures on field developments, war plants, refinery improvements, and marketing facilities approximated $50,487,000, against $63,405,000. All new plant constructions and extensions were paid for out of company funds, he said.

Proven reserves of crude oil at the year-end were about equal to those of a year earlier, he said, but replacement of reserves drawn at excessive rates to meet war needs will be possible only at increased cost.

Skelly Oil company reported 1944 net earnings of $7,222,903, or $7.36 a share, compared with $5,461,708, or $5.56 a share. The report said $202,128 of profit was from operations of Spartan Aircraft company, an almost wholly owned subsidiary, against $195,851.

Net crude oil production totaled 12,621,179 barrels, a record, compared with 11,191,632. Despite high production, the company's proven reserves were estimated to be larger at the year-end.

Pan American Profit Up.

Pan American Petroleum and Transport company, controled by Standard Oil company [Indiana], reported 1944 net income was $6,585,743, or $1.40 a share, against $4,308,254, or 92 cents a share. The company's principal activity is the marketing of petroleum products.

Profit of Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company rose to $2,256,110, or $2.54 a share, in 1944 from $1,309,900, or $1.48 a share. Salt Dome Oil corporation net income was $222,709, or 28 cents a share, compared with $179,125, or 22 cents a share.

FRENCH-BRITISH FINANCIAL PACT SIGNED IN PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 27.—A new Franco-British financial agreement, winding up all old business between the two countries and establishing the basis for immediate resumption of trade between them, was signed today by John Anderson, British chancellor of the exchequer, and Rene Pleven, French finance minister. Its text will not be published until tomorrow.

Pleven said the pact was in line with financial agreements concluded within the last month with the United States, Switzerland, and Belgium, and that French policy is to coöperate as closely as possible with allied and other friendly countries.

[CROSLEY CORPORATION.]

Crosley corporation's record of increased sales and earnings during the war presents a marked contrast with the previous operating results. Its volume of business mounted from $16,051,076 in 1939 to $98,168,438 in 1944. The profit meanwhile rose from 16 cents a share on the 545,800 no par shares to $6.05 a share. The company's stock responded with an advance from a 1940 low of 3⅜ to a 1945 high of 38⅞.

At this year's price levels, the stock is regarded as out of line with the unimpressive earning power shown in most of the immediate pre-war years. A person purchasing the stock at present prices is betting on the management's ability to improve the company's trade position in its various normal production lines. Before civilian manufacturing was suspended these included radios, refrigerators, and low priced two cylinder automobiles. Crosley also merchandised washers, ironers, and gas and electric ranges. War output has included bow turrets for bombers, gyroscopic sights, and radar and radio communications equipment.

The broadcasting division in Cincinnati, O., operates radio station WLW and a short wave station.

Profit margins in the years before the company engaged in war production on a large scale were narrowed by heavy development and promotion costs, and these may again be burdensome after the war if Crosley carries out its plans to produce a four cylinder car.

The $6.05 a share profit in 1944, which is subject to renegotiation, compares with earlier results as follows: 1943, $4.94; 1942, $3.18 [adjusted for renegotiation refund]; 1941, $2.74; 1940, net loss; 1939, 16 cents; 1938, 16 cents; 1937, net loss; 1936, $2.27. A dividend of 25 cents a share has been paid so far in 1945, and last year's payments totaled $1, the same as in 1943; in 1942, 50 cents, and in 1941, 30 cents. No dividend was paid from 1937 thru 1940.

Crosley's current assets as of Sept. 30, 1944, totaled $31,134,349 and current liabilities $12,527,591. Listed separately were $11,100,000 notes payable with maturities of more than one year.

[This is the final article of this series.]

FRAUD IN STOCK OF INSURANCE FIRM CHARGED

A suit filed in Circuit court by five stockholders yesterday charged six officials of the United Insurance company, Chicago, with fraudulent diversion of $1,377,000 of funds to company stock. It asked for an accounting of the assets and establishment of a trust to administer them. No suggestion was made that the company was not sound.

The suit was filed by Marshall, Murtaugh & Burgeson, and Kirby H. Wells for Raymond K. Morrison and four other stockholders. Defendants are O. T. Hogan, president; A. D. Johnson, secretary-treasurer; G. B. Hiser, vice president and director; H. G. Rockwood, vice president and director, and J. N. Ely and Dr. S. J. Russell, directors.

Hogan and Johnson, thru what were alleged to be "dummy" corporations, were charged with using premium income to purchase the controling stock interest. Judge Finnegan issued an injunction restraining other stockholders from starting similar proceedings without court permission. Hogan said the company had been examined by the state insurance department regularly and that its "house was found in order."

Three Office Buildings Sold for 2¼ Million

BY AL CHASE.

Three Chicago business buildings, two of them on Michigan av., were sold yesterday for a total of 2¼ million dollars. Most important in public interest was the sale for $750,000 of the 10 story Fine Arts building, 410-20 S. Michigan av., by Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company of Milwaukee to Abraham Teitelbaum of Teitelbaum & Melnick, Chicago attorneys. He took title for the 410 South Michigan Avenue Building corporation, of which he will be president when it is formed soon.

The Fine Arts building was built in the 1890s by Studebaker interests and housed the Chicago offices of Studebaker Brothers Manufacturing company, then a wagon maker, and predecessor of the Studebaker corporation. It contained four concert halls, two of which were remodeled in 1902 into the 1,200 seat Studebaker theater, and the 600 seat Playhouse.

Site of Ade Premieres.

The Studebaker achieved international fame many years ago as the site of several world premieres of George Ade musical comedies, among them the "Sultan of Sulu," "Prince of Pilsen," and "King Dodo."

The property was purchased by the Chapin estate in 1915 and was taken over by Northwestern Mutual thru foreclosure in 1937.

Fred O. Windchy of Willoughby & Co. was sole broker in the Fine Arts purchase.

Socony Building Sold.

The 26 story Socony-Vacuum building, 59 E. Van Buren st., was sold for $1,200,000 to the Buckingham-Van Buren Building corporation, by Northwestern Mutual, thru Greenbaum & Mesirow, sole broker.

The eight story building at the southwest corner of Michigan av. and Walton pl., in which Blum's-North women's apparel is the principal tenant, was sold by the 920 Building corporation to an undisclosed buyer for approximately $300,000. Title was taken by Northern Trust company, trustee.

VOTE ON STRIKE OF SOFT COAL MINERS TODAY

400,000 Lewis Men to Go to Polls.

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—Approximately 400,000 soft coal miners will vote tomorrow on whether to indorse a war time strike and 62,000 hard coal men will follow suit a month hence.

The United Mine Workers, headed by John L. Lewis, and the bituminous mine operators have failed after almost a month of talks to agree on a new contract. The present contract expires Saturday midnight. In accordance with the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act miners will vote yes or no on this question:

"Do you wish to permit an interruption of war production in war time as a result of this dispute?"

Perkins Predicts Agreement.

Secretary of Labor Perkins, however, after a conference with Lewis and operators said tonight she expects settlement of a new contract before Saturday night. She told reporters both the operators and Lewis had proposed entirely new offers in her presence and that she had suggested some agreement herself.

Lewis today filed with the national labor relations board notice of a labor dispute in the Pennsylvania anthracite field, where the contract expires April 30. The notice automatically calls for a strike vote in 30 days, presumably April 26.

Lewis may not call a strike, even if the vote of his followers is as heavily in favor of indorsement as is expected. However, some work stoppages are expected over the Easter week-end. Federal seizure of the mines, following the pattern of 1943, is probable if production stoppages are widespread.

The NLRB will supervise the strike vote and pay its estimated $300,000 cost.

21,000 VOTE IN ILLINOIS.

Eleven district board agents will be in charge of the vote by 21,000 UMW members in 120 Illinois mines today, George J. Bott, regional director of the NLRB, said yesterday.

The vote will be conducted at 96 polling places in the state, but generally at each mine, Bott said. Both the operators and the union have been invited to send watchers to each polling place.

As each regional director gets the results in his region he will telegraph the vote to Washington to the NLRB and at the same time notify Gilbert Shatz, chief NLRB field examiner, at the St. Nicholas hotel, Springfield, Ill. Bott predicted the Illinois results would be known by 11 p. m. tonight.

Contrasts Tax on Utilities and U. S. Projects

In sharp contrast to the relative freedom from taxes and interest charges of federal electric projects, the privately owned light and power companies paid 703 million dollars of taxes last year, C. W. Kellogg, president of the Edison Electric institute, said yesterday.

Federal taxes were 468 million, equivalent to 15.84 per cent of gross revenues of a 2 billion 955 million dollars. State and local taxes, 7.95 per cent of gross, aggregated 235 million.

TVA Escaped Big Taxes.

The federal tax borne by the electric companies contrasted sharply with the absence of any federal tax paid by government owned electric projects, Kellogg asserted.

As an example, he said that if the Tennessee valley authority had been taxed on its power revenues at the same rate as the electric companies, it would have paid more than 5½ million dollars to the federal government on its 1944 power business of $35,200,000.

A much larger item not paid by TVA was interest, he said.

Interest Put Near 12 Million.

The "proprietary interest" of the United States in TVA, as shown by the annual report of the secretary of the treasury, averaged 596 million dollars in the last fiscal year, Kellogg said. Interest at 2 per cent on this amount would have been $11,920,000.

The $17,420,000 of interest and taxes would have thrown TVA into the red last year by about $10,900,000 if payment had been required, instead of permitting a black figure of $6,600,000 on its combined operations as shown by its last report, Kellogg said.

HOG MARKETING DIPS 16 PCT. IN 1ST 2 DAYS OF WEEK

Hog shipments to leading packing centers fell further yesterday. Twenty of the biggest stock yards the first two days this week received 16 per cent fewer head than on the preceding Monday and Tuesday. Only 10,000 arrived yesterday at Chicago, compared with 11,285 a week earlier and 28,374 a year ago. Ceiling prices prevailed again.

Steers met slow sale at steady prices. Lambs declined 15 to 25 cents to the lowest level in a week.

Meat production under federal inspection increased about 10 million pounds last week, all thru larger marketings of hogs.

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The OPA today authorized the army and navy to pay higher prices at once for a number of pork items to enable them "to get their share of meat for soldiers and sailors." Retail prices to the general public will not be affected. The increases range from 25 cents to $1.50 per 100 pounds.

STOCKS CLIMB DESPITE WAR RUMOR UPSET

Small Part of 2 Day Losses Recouped.

New York, March 27 (AP).—Stocks rallied today after two of the most severe declines this month. Short covering and buying were based mainly on belief the list had been oversold and was due for at least a technical comeback.

Gains ran to two or more points in the first hour when trading was most active. Prices then backed down as victory rumors reached boardrooms, but recovered when Gen. Eisenhower, tho disclosing Nazi western defenses had been broken, warned that unconditional surrender scarcely was imminent.

Most pivotals closed well above the lows tho below the tops. Transfers totaled 1,110,000 shares, compared with 1,390,000 in yesterday's sharp drop.

Some Apprehension Remains.

Customers generally remained apprehensive over business transition difficulties when the Nazis finally fold and worries persisted over government intentions to crack down on speculation. Earnings and dividends were helpful.

The Associated Press 60 stock average recovered 0.3 to 59.3 from its Saturday-Monday reaction of 1.3 points. Of 953 issues registering, 474 gained and 281 lost.

Western Pacific common and preferred rose 1⅞ and 1 as directors voted four dividends on each stock.

BOND MARKET NARROW.

New York, March 27 (AP).—The bond market was narrow today. Little selling pressure apeared and there was enough support for individual issues to keep the list relatively steady.

A rally in secondary rails failed to get far. Investment issues made selective progress as underwriters sold more than 100 million dollars of new bonds. Obligations of Peru and Brazil were under light pressure but other foreign issues were narrow.

CHICAGO PRICES RECOVER.

Prices recovered yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in narrow trading. Turnover shrank to 50,000 shares. Volume leaders included Peabody Coal B, up ¼, and Commonwealth Edison, up ¼. Admiral corporation dipped ¼ and Chicago corporation common was unchanged.

WRIGLEY FIRST QUARTER PROFIT GAIN REPORTED

Link-Belt Expects Large Post-War Demand.

Earnings of William Wrigley Jr. company in the first quarter this year compared "very favorably" with a year ago, Philip K. Wrigley, chairman, said at the annual stockholders' meeting yesterday.

He said that the resumption of the manufacture of pre-war type gums by the company would depend on several factors, chiefly the availability of shipping space and man power. The company now produces a substitute type gum.

Directors were reëlected by stockholders and all officials were reëlected later by the directors.

Link-Belt Backlog Rises.

W. C. Carter, president of Link-Belt company, told stockholders at their annual meeting that the company's backlog of war orders increased approximately 2 million dollars this month to a total of 44 million dollars, including its ordnance subsidiary.

The ordnance company backlog at the end of February was $8,873,000, and future production volume will depend on the availability of man power and materials, said Carter.

He predicted that demand for the company's products will be larger in the first five years after the war than in any five pre-war years. Link-Belt produces conveying devices, power transmission equipment, and similar lines. Competition after the war will be keen and purchasing agents will be more conscious of prices than before, said Carter.

Chicago Mail Order Gains.

Robert W. Jackson, president of Chicago Mail Order company, said at the annual meeting that catalog sales were approximately 6 per cent above a year ago with retail sales also higher. He disclosed that more than 18 million dollars was refunded to customers last year because of merchandise shortages, and that shortages had become more serious.

Because of big potential demand after the war in the durable goods field, said Jackson, the company has decided to expand catalog operations in home furnishing lines, including furniture, floor coverings, stoves, housewares, and electrical appliances.

Expansion of facilities is needed, but whether this will take the form of new construction, acquisition of a war plant, or a branch operation, has not been determined, said Jackson. He was elected a director.

SOUND CONGRESS ON ALTERING TAX OF CAPITAL GAIN

Washington, D. C., March 27—(AP).—The administration today sounded congressional tax leaders on the possibility of adjusting the capital gains tax to discourage speculative transactions in farm lands, urban real estate, and securities. Loan Administrator Vinson, and Economic Stabilizer Davis carried the discussion to Capitol hill.

Chairman Doughton [D., N. C.] of the house ways and means committee said he told them congress is too busy with other matters, but that the joint house-senate tax staff would study the matter.

GRAINS RALLY AFTER SELLOFF ON PEACE TALK

Wheat and Oats Rise; Corn and Barley Dip.

Peace rumors caused grain futures prices to decline sharply at one time yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. After a half hour of selling denial of the report brought substantial short covering and a strong rally. Wheat closed ⅛ to ⅜ cent a bushel higher and rye ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher. Corn lost ⅛ to ⅝, oats gained ⅛ to ⅜, and barley lost 1¼ to 1½.

Mill buying of wheat futures and the maintenance of ceiling prices for cash wheat had substantial influence in checking the decline in that grain. Government agencies announced that early next week they would ask for offers of about 500,000 sacks of flour, the equivalent of about 1,125,000 bushels of wheat. Occasional selling of July was regarded by brokers as hedging, presumably by mills.

Crop Reports Affect Prices.

Excellent weather and crop reports from the winter wheat belt have been affecting September and December wheat. The latter sold at less than $1.51, off more than 5 cents from the prospective government loan on the 1945 crop.

Professional traders were aggressive in supporting the rye market at the time commission houses were selling. Brokers expect large demand for rye from Europe when the war ends. Argentina has the only large quantity of that grain available for shipment abroad. The world surplus is estimated to be less than 15 million bushels, a small quantity considering Europe's large consumption.

Cash Corn Declines.

Cash corn declined ½ to 1½ cents and buyers were cautious because of the continued hot weather, as a result of which a larger percentage of receipts has graded sample because of damage. Lake vessels carrying 1,450,000 bushels are expected to leave Chicago for the east in about 10 days.

Official opening of navigation on the Great Lakes is expected in a few days and will release large quantities of grain for shipment to the east. Brokers estimate Canadian oats will be available in Chicago and the east 10 days to two weeks after navigation opens. This is one of the influences that has been depressing oats and barley prices. Altho ceiling prices no longer are obtainable for oats in Chicago, at Kansas City and Minneapolis prices held at the limits.

BIG EXPANSION IN MAGNESIUM IS EXPECTED

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—C. Donald Dallas, president of Revere Copper and Brass, Inc., told the senate small business committee today "it is inevitable that we come to widespread use of magnesium."

Thru use of the metal, "our energies can be vastly expanded by eliminating unnecessary and surplus weight to save time and effort," he said.

Prospects in the aluminum smelting industry will depend upon the speed with which government permits aluminum consuming industries to convert, J. B. Neiman, president of the Aluminum Research institute, said in a submitted statement. Neiman was unable to appear because of illness. Given free opportunity to compete for and develop new uses and markets, "there is every reason" to envision a prospective annual production of 500 million pounds of aluminum ingot "in the not too distant future," he asserted.

DETROLA SEEKS STOCK OF ROHR AIRCRAFT FIRM

San Diego, Cal., March 27 (AP).—The Rohr Aircraft corporation announced today that a stock agreement had been reached whereby International Detrola corporation, Detroit, Mich., and Elkhart and Indianapolis, Ind., would obtain an 80 per cent interest in the Chula Vista, Cal., firm.

Rohr, which has 6,500 employes, is one of the nation's largest aircraft subassemblies producers. Fred H. Rohr, president, said the agreement opens avenues toward post-war manufacturing of radios, electronic devices and other home appliances and automobile subassemblies in the Rohr plant. C. Russell Feldman, Detrola president, will be chairman of both companies.

Rohr stockholders will be offered two Detrola shares for each three shares of Rohr.

CERTAIN-TEED'S EARNINGS SLIP; PLANS FUTURE

Certain-teed Products corporation management is devoting "careful attention" to improving processes and developing new products for an anticipated expansion of home building, Rawson G. Lizars, chairman and president, said yesterday in his annual report to stockholders. Net earnings in 1944, computed after a $100,000 contingency provision, were $692,168, compared with $750,249 in 1943.

Sales of the Chicago building materials manufacturer rose 6.2 per cent from 1943 volume to $21,184,761, "accomplished in spite of a shortage of man power and materials," said Lizars. No major reconversion problems were anticipated.

Pacific Coast Co. Votes 1st Dividend Since '28

Directors of the Pacific Coast company, a holding organization engaged in various enterprises including coal mines and railroads, yesterday declared the first dividend since 1928 on the first preferred noncumulative stock by ordering a $1.25 payment May 1.

Eagle-Picher Lead Co. Drops Lead from Name

Cincinnati, O., March 27 (AP).—Change in the corporate title of the Eagle-Picher Lead company to Eagle-Picher company, was approved by stockholders at their annual meeting today, J. M. Bowlby, president, said.

First Pictures of American Invasion of Cebu Island—Yanks Chalk Up New Long Gains in Germany

[Acme Telephoto: By Signal Corps Radio from Manila.]

First pictures of the landing of Americans on Cebu Island in the Philippines arrived last night coincident with Gen. MacArthur's announcement of the invasion. This view of the beach shows the first wave of infantrymen crawling forward, alert for Jap resistance.

American infantrymen of the 7th army, last of the Yank forces to cross the Rhine in the headlong plunge against the Nazis, balance precariously to avoid capsizing their "duck" as they near a successful landing after traversing the broad river.

Their faces daubed with anti-flashburn cream, gunners of an American destroyer present bizarre appearance before going to battle stations. Cream protects against gun flames.
